Subject: Reminder - Wednesday Advisory Council Reception, Upcoming Programs
Advisory Council Members Attending Annual Meeting.docx

Members of the Board,

It was wonderful to see so many of you last Thursday evening – such a special occasion for us to share together! The new spaces are a hit and media coverage has been strong, including this AP article: https://www.nytimes.com/aponline/2018/04/21/us/ap-us-museum-police-training-exhibit.html

As a reminder, this Wednesday evening at 6PM is our Advisory Council reception. We welcome 13 out-of-state advisors, including Ellen Knowlton (list attached). Additionally, we anticipate approximately 20 local advisors to attend.

The purpose of this mixer is primarily to deepen relationships between our advisors – especially the nonlocals - and other members of our organization. The evening program will be light on formal remarks, instead focusing on small group interaction. We very much want Board representation and the more the merrier, though it is not an event for which you should upend your schedule.

Most of the non-local advisors will be in town through Friday afternoon. Staff will be engaging them throughout the day on Thursday on topics for which they can assist. Public programs will occur Thurs, Fri, and Sat (descriptions below).

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to reach out to Cristin, Kimberly, or me. Please also let us know if you plan to attend the reception.

As always, many thanks! Jonathan

Making The Rounds With Founding Dean Dr. Barbara Atkinson

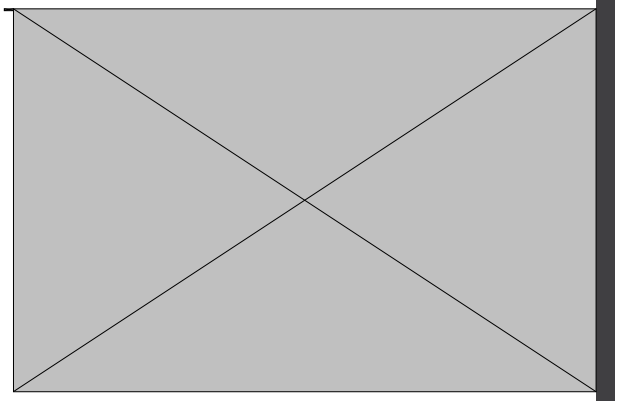
Making the Rounds with Founding Dean Dr. Barbara Atkinson

Friends and Colleagues,



A recent National Public Radio story by Natalie Jacewicz highlighted an issue the UNLV School of Medicine is determined to avoid: The need for medical schools to better educate students about opioid addiction. The story pointed out how little time medical schools have spent teaching addiction medicine - sometimes just a single lecture during a student's first two years in school.

Meanwhile prescription drug use has reached epidemic proportions with 80 percent of the world's opioids and 99 percent of the world's hydrocodone consumed in the United States. The number of prescriptions written for opioids has quadrupled since 2000 - along with the number of deaths due to drug overdose.

Such startling statistics helped drive the development of our curriculum year-by-year to ensure UNLV School of Medicine students are prepared to help patients manage pain. Students need to understand the intricate balance between using medicine to keep patients comfortable during severe pain episodes and the risk of long-term misuse and addiction.

Background
Opioids, a class of drugs, are used to decrease the intensity of pain by blocking signals to the brain.

As a prescription, this class includes codeine for mild pain and hydrocodone (Vicodin), oxycodone, (OxyContin, Percocet), and morphine, all of which are used to stop moderate to severe pain. Heroin is the street drug that falls into this class.

Pain is real. There are many times when opioids are needed to treat acute pain after surgery, dental work, fractures, etc., and to treat chronic pain due to a back injury, cancer, and other chronic disease states. Problems occur when these prescription drugs are not used as prescribed, when extra drugs are prescribed, and when pills are sold on the street.

When prescription drugs are used over long periods of time or incorrectly there can be serious side effects. These include addiction, which is physical dependency; tolerance, which is the need for increasing dosages to achieve the same effect; and increased sensitivity to pain.

Managing pain

My own personal experience with pain medication as a patient comes from when I had knee replacement surgery, one of the most painful of the musculoskeletal surgeries. I was wary about pain medication and tapered completely off the prescription as fast as I could. My surgeon helped me understand the importance of taking enough medicine for the painful physical therapy needed to restore full range of movement. He also pointed out that it was important to stop the pain medication if I ever found myself wanting to take a pill when I didn't have pain yet, but thought it might start soon. That was the signal to stop all together. His guidance worked for me.

Managing pain medication is even harder for individuals whose pain isn't associated with short-term healing. Chronic pain is the hardest to control.

UNLV School of Medicine pain medication curriculum

Unlike the medical student highlighted in the NPR story, our students will get much more than a few hours of lectures on pain management and addiction. We designed our four-year curriculum to ensure our students recognize addiction, prescribe the right amount of pain medication for their patients, and manage their patients' pain treatment.

Here is the UNLV School of Medicine's comprehensive plan for its four-year curriculum related to addiction.

Year 1

- Definition of acute and chronic pain
- Definition of addiction
- Public health aspects of chronic pain and addiction
- Taking a pain history
- Recognition and treatment of an overdose
- Basic pharmacology of opioids
- Opioid side effects and treatment
- Cancer pain
- End-of-life pain and treatment
- Musculoskeletal pain
- Facial pain and headache
- Visceral (internal organ) pain
- Addiction during pregnancy

- Medical complications of addiction

Year 2

- Pain pathways
- Infections associated with drug abuse
- Treatment of opioid addiction
- Role of physician in behavior change
- Role playing exercises in patient counseling

Year 3

- Prescription drug abuse
- Classification of pain
- Patient education about pain
- Opioid dosing strategies
- Shadowing of a pain patient
- Addiction in special populations like pregnancy, geriatric populations, and adolescents
- Non-substance addictions (gambling, sex, food, etc.)

Year 4

- Treatment of acute and post-op pain
- Transitions of care and referral to substance use disorder treatment centers
- Ethical issues in pain treatment
- Legal and regulatory issues in pain treatment

UNLV School of Medicine is committed to addressing addiction in Las Vegas. It's one of the five social issues we're focusing on to improve health care in our region. In addition to our four-year curriculum, we're tackling the problem through community outreach, research, and special projects. We believe that our efforts will soon turn those troubling statistics around and improve the pain management care our community receives.

Best wishes,

Barbara

Subject: Fwd: Assembly Bill 166 - Illegal Prostitution, Involuntary Servitude, and Sex Trafficking

At last weeks' briefing, there was some discussion about the City's position on the subject bill. It was disclosed that there was a hearing in the Assembly Judiciary Committee in March and that staff and a Councilmember testified in support of the bill. At the briefing, concerns were brought up by another Councilmember. Because there was differing opinions on the bill we intended to seek guidance on our position from the Mayor & Council at Wednesday's meeting.

Unfortunately the bill is scheduled to be heard Monday, May 13, 2019, at 8:00 am in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The bill will be videoconferenced to Room 4412E (4th Floor) of the Grant Sawyer Building. The committee agenda is provided via the following link: https://www.leg.state.nv.us/Session/80th2019/Agendas/Senate/JUD/final/1064.pdf?930132969 . Anyone interested in testifying on the bill Monday morning is welcomed to do so. Our Lobbying Team will not lobby the bill one way or the other.

Here is a link to the latest version of the bill: https://www.leg.state.nv.us/App/NELIS/REL/80th2019/Bill/6253/Text

The reason staff (Business Licensing) recommended support of the bill was that it would help prosecute the real criminals behind the human trafficking. Since 2014 the City of Las Vegas has been very proactive in stopping human trafficking. We have had 18 businesses revoked, denied or closed down due to solicitation with prostitution and human trafficking concerns.

Unfortunately, the person who solicits gets criminal charge. There is very little if anything done to the actual owner or the people behind this criminal activity. The business owners are brought before City Council. The licenses are revoked and sometimes they also receive a civil fine. The fine is not usually over $5000 which is not normally paid. Over the last 5 years we have issued at total of $103,000 in fines. The owners of record usually just walk away. The way our current laws read, it is very difficult to prosecute the people behind the crime of human trafficking without a witness willing to testify. This bill allows for prosecution without a witness.

The concerns that were raised included that a landlord might not have any idea what is going on at a leased location, especially if they are out of state. There was concern that a landlord could be subject to the felonies listed in the bill without proper notification. In addition, Section 13 of the bill adds new language to NRS179.121 which, if found guilty, would allow for the forfeiture of the land. The NRS specifically states "all personal property, …….which is used as an instrumentality in any of the following crimes is subject to forfeiture." There was concern that there should not be a seizure of the assets in all situations.

If you have any questions, please let me know. Thanks!!

Good Afternoon,

We would like to invite you and the rest of your department to the National Tribal Law Enforcement Executive Symposium: "Breaking Down Tribal Jurisdictional Walls". This National Symposium will be held in Warm Springs, OR on May 10-11, 2017. During this conference experts will share how they are successfully working to break down barriers that limit tribal law enforcement jurisdictional authority. Highlighted in the conference will be Oregon's historic approach to successfully overcoming the barriers that have limited Oregon's tribal law enforcement authority. This conference will feature experts representing tribal and non-tribal law enforcement, legal services, policy makers, tribal council, and elected representatives. All public safety stakeholders both tribal and non-tribal are encouraged to attend. We have attached the agenda below. If you would like to register online you can go to www.tribaltraining.com If you have any questions please feel free to contact me. Thank you.

Wednesday May 10th

9:00 am	Traditional Opening, Posting of Colors, Welcome and Introductions
9:20 am	Setting the Stage: Background on Oregon's Tribal Policing Jurisdictional Problems – "A Warm Springs Tribes Perspective." For nearly a decade, members of the Warm Springs tribes fought to change state law in order to give their police officers authority to make arrests off the reservation. When the Oregon Court of Appeals overturned a 2005 arrest conviction relating to a traffic stop off the reservation by a Warm Springs tribal police officer, because the court reasoned that the officer was not a police officer, and therefore the defendant could not be charged with resisting arrest or attempting to elude an officer, the tribe set out to change state law to give them equal authority both on and off the reservation. During this panel discussion participants will hear from Warm Springs law enforcement officials, tribal council members, and tribal legal counsel representatives who will share their perspectives on the law enforcement, legal, and jurisdictional problems that that led them to change state law.
10:00 am	Oregon's Legal Success on Tribal Police Jurisdiction: Overview of Facts, Figures, and Context on SB 412 During this session participants will have the opportunity to hear from legal experts who will explain the "key' components of Senate Bill 412, which provides tribal law enforcement officers in Oregon the same jurisdictional, arrest, and police powers as other state, local, and special police officers based on compliance with a few parameters that were outlined in the original measure. Presenters will provide an update of SB 412 which at the time it was passed included a sunset provision that would have ended the authority on June 30, 2015 unless formally extended by the legislature. SB 343 was introduced which made Tribal police officer authority permanent removing the sunset date and signed by Governor into law on June 1s,2015 with the effective date of the bill is May 26th, 2015.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Subject: FBI National Conference Call Summary

Good afternoon-The FBI held an emergency national conference call today regarding the recent active shooter incidents in Dayton and El Paso. There were over 1000 people on the call so there was no question/answer session, just an information push.

SNCTC analysts are compiling a more comprehensive product and there will be another push of that product later this afternoon.

Below are the notes from the call:

Notes from FBI critical incident situational update conference call
4 August 2019

1. The call was chaired by FBI deputy director David Bowdich. It lasted 30 minutes with more than 1,000 listening participants. There were comments from senior representatives from El Paso, Dayton, counter-terrorism division, criminal investigative division, and DHS intelligence.

2. There have been four noted active shooters in the past week:
Gilroy, CA garlic festival

South Haven, MS: two killed, one injured at a Walmart, appears to be workplace violence related El Paso, TX Walmart: 20 fatalities
Dayton, OH: nine fatalities

The FBI says they have no previous holdings on the shooters in Texas or Ohio. The FBI has not found a connection among these incidents, including the two incidents at Walmart locations. But the FBI is concerned these incidents will provide "ideological or tactical inspiration for like-minded individuals". The FBI is "closely examining this problem". The deputy director has ordered a new threat assessment done, no commitment on timing of release.

3. El Paso, TX
First 9-1-1 call was at 10:39 local time. El Paso PD responded within 6 minutes. The shooter had departed. He surrendered to responding state police units.

There are both federal (domestic terrorism+hate crimes) and state investigations (murder/etc) leading to potential prosecution.

El Paso police chief also spoke. The scene is still active. What is taking place now is the documentation and removal of the deceased, the medical examiner is "overwhelmed" so the process is taking some time.

Investigation indicates the shooter left a relative's residence the night before and drove to El Paso. The shooter may have made a purchase at the Walmart.

The subject, born 1998, posted a manifesto with racially motivated extremist ideology. It was briefed that the shooter posted the manifesto "shortly before" the shooting. The manifesto expressed support for the New Zealand mosque shooter and expressed the shooter's concern over the Hispanic invasion of Texas. The manifesto encouraged similar attacks. It is believed the El Paso shooter acted alone.

4. Dayton, OH
The shooting started at 01:07 local. The event started at an "enclosed street" with bars and restaurants. There was a rifle-armed police nearby and the shooter was engaged in "24 seconds" and neutralized within a minute. The shooter was headed towards a very crowded area when he was neutralized, otherwise the casualty count would have been far worse.

The shooter had a receipt for body armor and may have been wearing a vest. The ammunition used was .223 in "drum" magazines.

The shooter is Connor Betts, middle name is Steven, spelling of Steven not verified. The shooter arrived with his sister (deceased) and a friend (wounded). The friend has been interviewed and his phone reviewed. The sister and this friend had no idea about the plan for a shooting, the friend thought they were going out to socialize.

The FBI has been assisting with search warrants and digital exploitation. The shooter's cell phone is a Samsung and is being sent to the FBI laboratory in Quantico, the lab "believe they have some tools" to get into the Samsung cell phone. They are also exploiting the shooter's computers.

The ATF is performing the firearm trace. Preliminary information is that the gun was purchased by a friend of the shooter, because the shooter believed the shooter's parents would not approve of the purchase.

With regard to the Dayton shooter, the investigation has not uncovered any ideological bent or motivation so far.

5. FBI on ideology
This is a new and concerning ideology. The New Zealand event set a precedent for posting pre-attack manifestos on 8chan. This type of shooter is most often self-radicalized online. They are concerned more U.S. based extremists could get inspired by the media coverage and casualty count.

Earlier in 2019, FBI stood up a headquarters-based domestic terrorism/hate crimes fusion cell. The fusion cell consists of subject matter experts on both domestic terrorism (counter-terrorism) and hate crimes (criminal) divisions.

6. DHS intelligence
Updates and resources will be posted (or reposted) to the HSIN intelligence portal. These resources include training on protecting soft or crowded targets, and pre-attack indicators.

7. Closing comments from FBI deputy director Bowdich

The FBI, Attorney General and administration are taking this issue very seriously. He says the focus is on disrupting an attack prior to the event. He urges local authorities to be vigilant and do not hesitate to reach out to local FBI office heads.

Subject: Letter to the Editor---Sexual Harassment

This letter is in response to the articles covering the sexual harassment allegations made against men in the media and government throughout the United States.

To all males living in this country I issue a collective statement: enough already! Who are you to impose your sexual desires on someone because they did not give you their consent? Once again we are witnessing those in authority positions taking advantage of the situation. Resignation is the least you can do. Prosecution is the best we can do...and we will.

What did you expect to gain from making sexual advances on a human being? If this isn't an indication of the failure to grow up I don't know what is. Those men who have permeated this transgression must seek counseling before they destroy more lives executing their perverted conquest. Otherwise time spent in prison will allow them to dwell on their evil actions while trying to survive an environment which is the closest equivalent to hell on earth.

Perhaps I had the advantage of growing up with four sisters in my family which some say predispositions males to be kinder to females throughout all stages of their life. Frankly I remember times when I was embarrassed for making incidental contact with a female followed by an immediate apology.

Ladies of America please be assured that the actions of a few do not represent the feelings and beliefs of the many. You are our mothers, sisters, daughters, cousins etc. that compose one equal half of the species we call the human race. For that matter do not despair because the true honest and gentle men of this country know better than to act inappropriately in your company. We will always cherish your beauty, charm and most importantly your intelligence. Now help us to drive this dreadful scourge from the planet once and for all. It is up to all of us. Let us begin.

Surgeon General Issues Landmark Report on Alcohol, Drugs and Health

"How we respond to this crisis is a test for America"

A new, landmark Surgeon General's report finds alcohol and drug misuse and severe substance use disorders, commonly called addiction, to be one of America's most pressing public health concerns. Nearly 21 million Americans – more than the number of people who have all cancers combined – suffer from substance use disorders.

"Alcohol and drug addiction take an enormous toll on individuals, families, and communities," said U.S. Surgeon General Dr. Vivek Murthy. "Most Americans know someone who has been touched by an alcohol or a drug use disorder. Yet 90 percent of people with a substance use disorder are not getting treatment. That has to change."

Today's report, Facing Addiction in America: The Surgeon General's Report on Alcohol, Drugs, and Health, marks the first time a U.S. Surgeon General has dedicated a report to substance misuse and related disorders.

For the full report and executive sumary, visit https://addiction.surgeongeneral.gov/

Also, please tune in to the release of the Surgeon General's report and to hear Director Botticelli's video remarks at 4:00pm EST here.

Detecting Substance Abuse in the Workplace

Las Vegas, NV | December 5, 2017

Over 15% of the United States workforce has self-reported being under the influence of alcohol in the workplace at least once in the last year, according to according to the National Institutes of Health. Add prescription drugs, illegal drugs and other impairing substances to the mix—particularly in light of nationwide legalization and decriminalization of certain drugs—and it seems only reasonable to suspect that this trend will rise.

The cost of impairment in the workplace is enormous—due to safety concerns, liability risks, lost productivity and increased health care costs.

This course is designed to help students acquire the knowledge, skill and ability to determine if impairment exists and, if it does, whether the impairment is caused by a medical condition, alcohol, drugs or a combination of drugs. We will utilize a known pattern of signs and symptoms along with simple divided attention tests to be able to articulate the evidence of impairment.

EPA's New Risk Management Rule Is Here ... For Now

After the 2013 explosion at a fertilizer facility in Texas, President Obama signed an executive order requiring federal agencies to identify improvements to risk management practices. In response, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has just published a final rule amending its Risk Management Program regulations. But changes to the Congressional Review Act could affect the rule's future, says Michael Reer of Harris Finley & Bogle PC.

What Trump High Court Candidates Say About 1st Amendment

As media advocates, we wondered how President-elect Donald Trump's soon-to-be-announced U.S. Supreme Court nominee might react to Trump's vow to shred the hard-won protections now embedded in the law of libel. We found that none of the opinions from judges on his shortlist hint at any inclination to depart from these established rules, say Gayle Sproul and Max Mishkin of Levine Sullivan Koch & Schulz LLP.

Health Care Enforcement Review And 2017 Outlook: Part 1

Over the past year, clear trends have emerged in the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's enforcement activities. In part one of this four-part series, attorneys at Mintz Levin Cohn Ferris Glovsky and Popeo PC examine key 2016 government policies, regulations and enforcement actions in this area, and the likely impact of these trends on enforcement in 2017.

In Congress: More Confirmation Hearings

Democrats will have a difficult time actually defeating any of President-elect Trump's cabinet nominations because of a change they made to the Senate rules to end the filibuster for executive branch nominations. Their goal is not really to defeat the nominees but to draw stark differences early on in the new administration, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP.

Dabbing Into The Financial Side Of Marijuana

Both the U.S. Department of Justice and the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network have provided guidance for brokers and firms doing business with the cannabis industry, concerning how to avoid prosecution for violating the law. However, even 100 percent compliance does not guarantee total safety from investigation, says Neda Ghomeshi of Hunter Taubman Fischer & Li LLC.

Subject: Please oppose the Westcare expansion on Duncan Dr. This is why.

As you are aware of the Westcare facility on Duncan, this facility is trying so hard to add an additional 80 beds by making like an apartment complex that will house families in domestic violence situations, families with mental health issues and woman with both domestic violence cases and drug rehab reintegration into life with giving them housing.

Westcare is not only trying to build this apartment complex but they are attempting to put it behind their already built Westcare facility across the street from residential homes single and two story family homes.

So my issue is that I see on the posted sign on the property is that it proposed to be a "Convalescent Facility", which is no way close to becoming a Convalescent facility. This saddens me as a resident of Las Vegas and as an American that this facility is going above and beyond to cheat, lie, and possibly pay off the local government to get what they want.

If this so called " Convalescent facility " is allowed to move in and move into our community we will be later talking about taking our safety, our peace, our lovely Community away from all of us and potentially drive up the crime rate, the distribution of drugs and abuse of drugs with potential clients walking around drugged up looking to break in our homes for money and items to pawn, and also put our lives in imminent threat to use deadly force protecting our property and our families.

This facility already gets about 40 Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department calls per 2-3 days, with these calls including runaways, violence and acts of violent outburst towards staff members working at Westcare. Imagine if you lived next door to this and your sitting out front with your family and having a nice chat when one of these drug addicts, or women being chased by their boyfriend who is trying to kill them or beat them for leaving them, or just your everyday drug overdosed person who is in the state of Excited Delirium, and naked screaming and violently out of control. Would you want that walking by your house. Would you even go outside knowing that this facility would bring this to the neighborhood.

Please Councilman Barlow help our community stop this "Convalescent Facility" from being built, Westcare has tons of Federal Grant Money and have locations in MT Charleston, and other facilities already built that is away from residential homes like ours. This can't be happening here. Stop this before lives are lost and a whole community is destroyed over something you can stop before it starts.

Please have courage to change the things you can and wisdom to know that this "Convalescent Facility" Westcare is trying to build is bad for the City of Las Vegas, specifically bad for this area. There are plenty of empty Dirt lots up north or away from residential communities. Let them build by an already situated apartment complex area.

Westcare already uses the apartments across the street on Rancho and Duncan for their clients and every time I check the crime rate around that area, there is stolen cars, domestic violence calls, home burglaries, and street robberies, but, on our side of the street, on the East side of Rancho, we have little to no crime. That will all change if this facility is built.

Please don't let them cheat, lie, and fraudulently move in to our community. You have the power to be the difference in this battle for our security and for our peace and quality of life.

Subject: [Marketing Mail] President Trump's First Budget Commits Significant Resources to Fight the Opioid Epidemic

Dear Friends,

I'm sharing our press release about the President's FY 2018 Budget request that went out today to make sure you are aware of the news. Long story short: the President is requesting the largest-ever funding levels for our DFC and HIDTA programs, and $280 million above the National Drug Control Budget's FY 2017 enacted levels. This is great news and it shows the White House strongly supports the mission of ONDCP to advise the President on national and international drug control policies and to ensure the effective coordination of drug control programs.

Turning the tide on the opioid epidemic will take all of us working together, and we're grateful to have the support of tremendous partners like you. On behalf of everyone at ONDCP, thank you for everything you do to help reduce drug use and its consequences.

I look forward to continuing our important work together.

All the best,

Richard Baum

President Trump's First Budget Commits Significant Resources to Fight the Opioid Epidemic

FY 2018 budget request includes $27.8 billion in drug control efforts

Washington, D.C. – Today, Richard Baum, Acting Director of National Drug Control Policy, announced drug-related requests in the Trump Administration's Fiscal Year 2018 Budget. The President's Budget, submitted to the U.S. Congress today, supports $27.8 billion in drug control efforts including prevention, treatment, and law enforcement. Specifically, it supports $1.3 billion in investments for Comprehensive Addiction and Recovery Act programs, 21st Century CURES Act programs, and other opioid-specific initiatives that seek to address the current epidemic.

"The President's 2018 Budget calls for a larger investment in drug control policy than enacted FY 17 levels," said Richard Baum, Acting Director of National Drug Control Policy. "By funding critical public health and public safety efforts, this budget demonstrates the Trump Administration's commitment to stopping drugs from entering the country and supporting treatment efforts to address the burgeoning opioid epidemic." The FY 2018 Request includes:

- $12.1 billion for treatment and prevention efforts, and a $15.6 billion request for law enforcement, interdiction, and international initiatives.
- $10.8billion in treatment funding, which is an increase of nearly 2% from FY 2017 enacted levels. This includes $500million in State grants authorized in the 21st Century CURES Act to reduce opioid misuse and improve access to treatment, prevention, and recovery services.
- The budget request also secures our borders by investing $468.6 million in drug-related funding to support the President's request for high-priority tactical infrastructure and border security technology to stem the flow of people, drugs, and other illicit material illegally crossing the border.
- A $246.5 million request for ONDCP's High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas (HIDTA) program and a $91.9 million request for its Drug-Free Communities Support program – both are the highest funding amounts ever requested.

Data from the National Survey on Drug Use and Health (NSDUH) indicate that the overall rate of current drug use among Americans 12 and older has been increasing gradually over the past 13 years, from 8.3 percent in 2002 to 10.1 percent in 2015—an increase of 22 percent. This increase is driven by an increase in marijuana use, rising from 6.2 percent in 2002 to 8.3 percent in 2014—an increase of 34 percent.

Earlier this year, President Trump created the President's Commission on Combatting Drug Addiction and the Opioid Crisis. The Commission, which is being chaired by New Jersey Governor Chris Christie, is studying ways to combat and treat drug misuse, addiction, and the opioid epidemic. In coordination with ONDCP and the Office of American Innovation, it will make recommendations to the President for improving the Federal response to the opioid crisis.

Subdued Race Expected At Top Of Pa. Appellate Ballot

As the fields for Pennsylvania's 2017 appellate court elections begin to take shape, the marquee race for an open state Supreme Court seat is unlikely to attract the attention and money of the record-breaking 2015 campaign, thanks in part to fatigue from 2016 and the political drama expected to play out in Washington, D.C.

Justices Struggle With NY Credit Card Surcharge Ban

The U.S. Supreme Court on Tuesday struggled with the question of whether a New York law banning merchants from disclosing a credit card surcharge constitutes a price control or a potential limitation on free speech, and could send that question back to the state for further proceedings.

Litigation involving the Telephone Consumer Protection Act has become one of the leading types of consumer lawsuits in the U.S. However, the election of Donald Trump as president may prove to be a watershed moment for the TCPA, with the Federal Communications Commission's leadership switching to a majority of Republican appointees including a sharp critic of the FCC's past handling of the TCPA, say attorneys at Troutman Sanders LLP.

Bishop Criteria: The Future Of Indian Water Settlements

After decades of negotiation, the Blackfeet Tribe of Montana has successfully moved its water settlement through the House of Representatives, thanks in part to the new "Bishop Criteria" for Indian water settlement legislation. Although the new process is difficult and exacting, it nonetheless provides a path where none existed before, says Ryan Smith of Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck LLP.

2 States, 2 Visions For Driverless Vehicle Regulation

When it comes to automated vehicles on public roads, a new Michigan law and draft regulations in California present competing approaches to balancing innovation with safety. Michigan takes a permissive approach, allowing automakers to experiment with technologies and business models, while California proposes extensive vetting of automated vehicles before they hit the road, say Michael Reynolds and Jason Orr of O'Melveny & Myers LLP.

New Tax Regulations Impact Many Partnership Transactions

The U.S. Treasury Department recently issued several new final, temporary and proposed regulations under code sections 704, 707 and 752 which significantly affect the taxation of many partnership transactions. Prospective transactions, including joint ventures taxed as partnerships, should be carefully structured to navigate the hazards of these regulations, say Jeffrey Goldman, Steven Grob and Robert Nelson of Dykema Gossett PLLC.

Does The US Constitution Ensure A Future Livable Planet?

In Juliana v. United States, where the plaintiffs sued the government for allowing and encouraging increasing carbon emissions over the past 50 years, the litigants have a steep road ahead. Melissa Scanlan, director of the Environmental Law Center at Vermont Law School examines the legal questions raised by this case and next steps for the litigants.

Opinion

The Incoming SEC Chairman As I Know Him

The natural tendency of Democrats will be to criticize President-elect Donald Trump's nominee for U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission chairman as a "Wall Street insider" who won't be sensitive to regular working-class Americans. I'm a registered Democrat and would enjoy being able to criticize Trump's selection, but I've known Jay Clayton since 1995 and he is no ideologue, says Kevin Lavin of Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP.

LEGAL INDUSTRY

The Skill Associates Need Today They Didn't 10 Years Ago

The role of BigLaw associate is shifting and growing as the legal sector experiences an onslaught of new competition, according to industry experts who say market forces are driving young attorneys to fill new shoes and metamorphose into more than simply stellar legal practitioners.

Clients Want Expert, Not High-Profile Attys, Report Says

Status as a lawyer and success with clients may seem inextricably linked, but a report released Tuesday by London research firm Acritas said that clients favor lawyers much more for a few key abilities than for their stature or public profile.

KWM Delays Appointing Administrator As More Partners Flee

The struggling European and Middle East arm of King & Wood Mallesons has postponed a decision on whether it will enter administration for an additional 10 days, a firm spokeswoman confirmed Tuesday, filing a court notice announcing the delay following a continuing partner exodus.

Chadbourne Bid To Scrap Bias Suit 'Premature,' Attys Argue

Chadbourne & Parke LLP's bid to scrap a $100 million proposed class action lodged by two female partners alleging gender discrimination is “premature,” since the women have yet to receive information to dispute the assertion they're not entitled to sue, according to their Monday filing in New York federal court.

Nurses Take On The Opioid Crisis

America is in the throes of an opioid epidemic, wreaking havoc on families, communities, and our healthcare system, a system that has greatly contributed to our debilitating crisis. More than two million Americans have become dependent on or abused prescription pain pills and street drugs. Opioids are drugs formulated to replicate the pain-reducing properties of opium. They include both legal painkillers like morphine, oxycodone, or hydrocodone prescribed by doctors for acute or chronic pain, as well as illegal drugs like heroin or illicitly made fentanyl. During 2017, there were more than 72,000 overdose deaths in the United States, including 49,068 that involved an opioid, according to a provisional CDC count. More than 145 people died every day from opioid-related drug overdoses in 2016 and 2017, according to the US Department of Health & Human Services (HHS). The number of opioid prescriptions dispensed by doctors steadily increased from 112 million prescriptions in 1992 to a peak of 282 million in 2012, according to the market research firm IMS. As a result of this oversight by western medicine we now have a nation addicted and in crisis! Nurses are the only trusted healthcare profession large enough to address this burgeoning epidemic.

What Is Kratom?

Natural Kratom comes from the Mitragyna speciose, a tropical evergreen tree in the coffee family native to Southeast Asia whose leaves have been used for centuries as an herbal supplement in traditional medicines. is not a drug. Kratom is not an opiate. Kratom is not a synthetic substance. , occurring Kratom is a safe herbal supplement that behaves as a partial mu-opioid receptor agonist and is used for pain management, energy, even depression and anxiety that are common among Americans. Kratom contains no opiates, but it does bind to the same receptor sites in the brain. Chocolate, coffee, exercise even human breast milk hit these receptor sites in a similar fashion.

Mitragynine is an alkaloid and partial opioid agonist with effects comparable to morphine. Although less prominent in kratom, 7-hydroxymitragynine is an alkaloid more potent than morphine. Both activate supraspinal opioid receptors and have significant potential for alleviating opioid withdrawal symptoms. However, Kratom even in large dosages, will NOT cause respiratory depression, the cause associated with opioid deaths.

A case study in Addiction found that a patient suffering opioid withdrawal was able to mitigate symptoms with Kratom and experienced only mild abstinence when stopping Kratom. Another case study suggested that although Kratom dependence is possible, the short-acting nature of the opioid agonists make it far less intense than opioid withdrawal. Kratom is not a regulated drug and has inspired major trends in self-treatment. It is vital, however, that patients do not self-treat with contaminated or laced supplies that are readily available in stores and online. Nurses For Safe Access created a working alliance with American Kratom Association and providing our nurse advocates, safe access towards tested and GMP labeled kratom products to help our nurses address America's opioid crisis.

Nurses for Nature's Medicine

At nearly 5.6 million Nurses Strong, nurses are in an “ideal position” to tackle the opioid epidemic. The Journal for Nurse Practitioners points out that for this to happen, a full range of treatments must be available for pain management. Cannabinoids and Kratom are powerful botanicals that spring directly from the Earth. Research has illustrated their medicinal effectiveness and ability to bolster patients against opioid dependence and abuse.

Nurses are at a pivotal point in compassionate results-driven patient care. Now, in the realm of telemedicine, home health nursing, and promising botanicals from natures medicine, nurses are perfectly poised to help address America's growing opioid epidemic. The emerging science related to cannabinoid medicine, as well as other encouraging botanicals in Nature's ACORN and SEIU at work in the last Nevada Gubernatorial and Nevada U.S. Senate election? Is this the same thing that happens in the California Gubernatorial and California U.S. Senate elections? Jerry Brown? Diane Feinstein and Nancy Pelosi?

The reason I bring this up is because this morning while at work at the Manheim Auction on Auction Lane in Las Vegas, I happened to see a woman there who I noticed from being at this same last Nevada election. Her name is Shontel and she is sent out by the Manpower Temporary Office here in Las Vegas to various conventions and contracted out Manpower temporary job positions. We occasionally see each other when placed on job assignments by Manpower.

When I voted in the last Nevada election I voted at the Boulevard Shopping Center site here in Las Vegas, Nevada. This is located close to where I reside and is off of Maryland Parkway. I remember that just while I was there on voting day, there were hundreds of people in line to vote. I was assigned a voting booth (there were very many of these state of the art electronic voting machines that I had never seen before when voting) and Shontel was working having voters sign in through the intake process and giving directions so people could go to the location where these booths with voting machines were located. We recognized each other then.

So when I saw Shontel this morning, we reacquainted ourselves with each other and how we recognized each other. We briefly discussed her Manpower job assignment that day of the last election when I voted at the Boulevard and I asked her if she knew where those state of the art voting machines came from. She told me that she didn't know. But she said they sure did pay her well that day!

Is there anything going on today in Sonoma County, CA regarding SEIU voting machines and any U.S. CA State Senators? The two newly elected top positions in Clark County, Las Vegas, Nevada are the winners and they just so happen to be from California?... It's rumored there is some connection to California. The newly elected Nevada Governor Sisolak and a Nevada U.S. Senator. These SEIU voting machines need to be checked out again and if they are still being used to rig elections. The SEIU is notorious as is ACORN in being Communist run organizations.

"Early life

Sisolak was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, the son of Mary, who worked at a convenience store, and Edward F. Sisolak, a project engineer for General Motors.[1][2] He is of Czech descent.[3]

Sisolak earned a B.S. in business from the University of Wisconsin–Milwaukee in 1974, and an MBA from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) in 1978. Both of his daughters attend UNLV" - ref. Steve Sisolak wikipedia.

Subject: CHDC Project Intercept History - 1979...

Hello Kai,

I have been doing more thinking about Project Intercept in 1979 and people whom I had in my life and now in hindsight I really regret that they ever came into my life. Many of these people back then in continuing my career really were nothing more than strangers who tried to befriend me at the time and then threw a wrench in everything that I tried to accomplish in my life and in my work.

This is regarding our previous phone conversation of my contracted employment at Project Intercept in 1979 of my first research job right out of college after graduating from Sonoma State University in 1977. I was hired by Kate Jenkins, Program Director. This was later taken over by Joan Guissi and when she left by Jim Nagel. I indicated that I thought these people had some affiliation to ACORN.

You mentioned that the CHDC & Project Intercept founder George Ortiz is still hands on at CHDC albeit retired. I can remember when it was George Ortiz back in the 1970's who took a report to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors meeting and had the backbone to tell them that if they didn't do something about the Latino gang problem in Sonoma County right then, that in 10 years they wouldn't even want to live there! If I recall it was about 20 years later than that that Sonoma County leaders even recognized that gangs existed in Sonoma County. I believe you mentioned that Chris Paige who has been with CHDC since its onset in the 1970's is still available for history of CHDC in the farming humanities aspect of this non profit program.

Another incident back then and includes another person who was hired by Project Intercept in 1979 or 1980, was a woman who had just served a term in prison for armed robbery. She was from San Francisco and then lived in Rohnert Park. Her name is Gala Dalrymple. She later went on to work at the Sonoma County D.A.'s office. She was involved with attorney Jeffrey Dunham and to a man by the name of Dino Marino. She had some association to my old neighborhood in Santa Rosa, Sonoma County where I grew up that was part of Santa Rosa's Little Italy or Little Sicily off of Davis Street, DeMeo Park and the W 9th Street area and where the old Michele's and Lena's restaurants were and are located. I believe she told me she was of the Genovese crime family or possibly it was the Gambino crime family. Both of these mafia families have included the recruitment of gangs in their dealings in drugs and human trafficking - more of a cartel rather than that of the organized crime family structure of the American Mafia Commission. This was demonstrated when Paul Castellano was gunned down and executed by John Gotti because Paul Castellano of the Gambino crime family did allow drug dealing in the Gambino crime family and John Gotti was dealing drugs. The Bonanno crime family DOES NOT have any affiliation to gangs in their business or in any high level business protocol. Gangs are not recognized by the American Mafia Commission. There seems to have been infiltration into the American mafia by street thugs and underlings. These same people are anti American, revolutionaries and terrorists.

After my departure from Project Intercept in 1980 or 1981, Gala made it a point to keep in touch with me. We actually went on a trip together and flew charter in November of 1983. There was a global mafia war going on in the United States at the time. Gala and I flew charter first with a stopover in London, England and then landing in Frankfurt, Germany. We then took the eurorail train from Germany to Austria, down through Italy to Brindisi and then a transportation boat to Athens, Greece. We wanted to go to Sicily but because of the global mafia war, we went to Athens, Greece instead.

We did visit the Greek Island of Paros and then we chartered our return flight from Germany to the United States. Duration of this trip was approximately 2 weeks. I met a Syrian man in Greece. At dinner one night he pointed out to me his uncle who was a very bad man. His uncle resembled pictures of Hussan Hussein. This Syrian man's name was Yosef Alnoufal. Gala had an accident and suffered a concussion in the motel room while in Athens, Greece about the time it was getting close for us to depart, so she stayed for approximately another one week and half to two weeks before returning home. She had befriended a Greek man by the name of Psyches and his family while in Athens, Greece. After she returned home my correspondence with Yosef Alnoufal was abruptly stopped. I told Gala about this and she said she was writing to him now. I was under the impression that she stole this relationship I had with him and he had been turned against me for some reason.

From what I understand Gala Dalrymple caused so many problems within the families in Sonoma County that she and her roommate Lenice were told to leave California and never come back. They did move in 1987 to Wyoming and to the Montana areas. I have lost touch over the decades but she and Lenice did try to contact me and physically came out to my business H&M Budget Foods located at 15320 River Road in Guerneville, Sonoma County, CA.

Do you see what I mean about these particular people who throw a wrench in everything that you do. Any time you try to do anything or if you discuss your business with other people you know and they discuss your business with them or become subject to their unwanted invasiveness, they ruin everything for you. These people are really sick, inbred, part of a dark cabal, satanic and this is who they are. They are just driven to get their own way all the time. I believe they are also associated to ACORN. All these people who were instrumental in throwing a wrench into my life continually and entering my life, I'm sure did the same in Project Intercept and funding and taking over Project Intercept. Gala Dalrymple is such an ongoing person.

When I was married to Matt Martinez and we bought a commercial building at 15320 River Road in Guerneville, Sonoma County, California sometime in the 1990's, all of a sudden out of the blue, Gala, Lenice and Lenice's father came into the business which we had a county license for: H&M Budget Foods. I was surprised to see them because I knew that she was forced out of California and was never to return to California by the American Mafia Commission. She wanted to talk to me outside by myself. She told me that I had to leave my husband, Matt Martinez, because I was in great bodily harm of some sort and I needed to leave with her right then. Instead, I became angry and told her to leave, that I wasn't going anywhere with her and she needed to go, to leave California and to never come back again! She said she and Lenice were there to visit Lenice's father who owned a home in Petaluma, Sonoma County, CA. I believe he was ill and died shortly after this visit. I didn't want anymore of her unwanted attention or drama. I was not part of her world and as far as I was concerned she never left the mafia. Gala did try to call me after that one more time or for me to return a call to her and apparently my husband at the time, Matt, had answered the phone and asked me if I wanted to talk to her on the phone or to accept the phone call. I remember I told him, no. I told him to tell her not to ever call me or contact me again.

Getting back to 1979, early 1980's... Project Intercept - CHDC (California Human Development Corp.)

During this time Gala told me that her uncle "Walter" was on the mafia commission and he was the brother of her mother, maiden name Aiello. Gala's maiden name was Schwatzel. She was of German and Italian descent and was originally from Twin Falls, Idaho. She told me she had been in the life, meaning the mafia life and was a representative for her uncle in mafia business globally and especially in South America. Drugs I believe was primarily the trade she was involved in.

As it turns out (she is the one who told me all of this later) that there was a man by the name of Meyer Lansky (he had the same spelling and surname that I had) and he had been on the American Mafia Commission. He was the only Jew on the Commission and the rest had all been Italian. She said that certain people were interested in members of this family because they were very very smart people.

When we went on our trip to Europe, especially in Italy, Gala would point out how to recognize mafia everyday activities that were going on which I never knew of before. For an example: a man in a suit and carrying a brief case visiting and going in and out several small family run stores as a means of collecting protection money. Gala was only supposed to give me a glimpse of what that life business was about. She was never to enter my life personally, take it over and separate me from my own family and friends. She told me she had been the first woman ceremonied into the American Mafia syndicate.

This was totally unimpressive to me, if she was an example of this representation of what the mafia life is as a business representative. Gala was totally self absorbed, coveting, vindictive, mean, obnoxious and had no boundaries in ruining your life or ruining anything positive to get whatever she wanted out of her contact with you. This all happened when you weren't getting "blind sided or blind sighted" by her at the same time.

Gala Aiello Schwatzel (or Swatzel) could very well have been groomed as a witch for the Mothers of Darkness Castle, the Amerois in Muno, Belgium or as a witch from a castle in Italy or Sicily somewhere as well as for the Nazi Black Occult of the Wewelsburg Castle. This is a patterned behavior in society by these witches. They are satanic and they are very sick. They ruin everything and you can't get rid of them!

They never stop doing this, ever!

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge

Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Mayor Carolyn Goodman

Dear Lady Mayor,

Here is yet another typical work week example illustrating the level of safety concerns I have endured on a regular basis, particularly taking an increased spike in occurrences during the past year, as I continually attempt to perform as a professional comedy ventriloquist beneath the Fremont Street Experience canopy.

The following video footage was captured- during a seven day period beginning on the 8/17/2016 and culminating on 8/23/2016. May I please take a brief moment, during your busy schedule, to setup the following filmed piece that highlights a clear lack in quality of the security safety and policing procedures presently in place on Fremont Street Experience- security protocol that is supposedly designed to protect visiting tourists, locals and street performers from harm/harassment.

Unfortunately, for me I am harassed on three separate occasions during my performances by individuals; the first openly calling me the 'N' word he having early spat on a passing tourist and shouted profanities at children, the second verbally abusing me (while allegedly she appears under the influence of medication/drugs) and the third and extremely way beyond annoying gentleman firstly starts of with a racist tirade directed towards me in the form of asking me if I had an authorized USA' immigration 'Green Card' before threatening to 'knock' me out!

I being a professional entertainer, with many decades of international experience managed, as expected, to display an immense amount of restraint and composure while enduring an horrendous amount of verbal racist abuse at the hands of the above featured individuals.

One must never lose sight of the fact that if I or anyone else had been irresponsible enough to have placed the merest of fingers on any of my abusers, rest assured we would be currently residing in Clark County' jail cell.

One can clearly hear during the video clip, a passing tourist say, "he was also saying things to the kids." relating to the the person that had early also spat on a member of the public.

Sadly the response from the Fremont Street Security' officers was to say, "that's the City Ordinance, man you have a right to do what you want being mentally ill has nothing to do with it."

I have written to Mr. Robert Gallego (Director of Security/Parking) at the Fremont Street Experience and supplied him at a great deal of time, effort and personal expense to my office- numerous previous video clips highlighting safety lapses on the Fremont Street Experience.

One can only fairly conclude that Mr. Gallego deems such racist harassing behavior somewhat acceptable.

Yours truly,

Scarlet Ray Watt

Subject: Law Enforcement Leaders: Bipartisan victories in Washington and locally

The latest data show crime and violence down across the country, and bipartisan legislation to reduce unnecessary incarceration was signed into law.

Law Enforcement Leaders to Reduce Crime and Incarceration closed out 2018 with some big wins. The latest data show crime and violence down across the country, and bipartisan legislation to reduce unnecessary incarceration was signed into law.

Law Enforcement Leaders Critical to FIRST STEP Act Signed into Law

In December, President Trump signed a bipartisan criminal justice reform bill with robust sentencing reform, after it overwhelmingly passed both chambers.

The First Step Act, which shortens sentences for some offenders and expands job training and other programs for prisoners, underscores a major shift in the criminal justice landscape from the punitive, law-and-order approach of the 1980s to policies that emphasize rehabilitation and reducing costs. The law started as an effort only to reform prison conditions. However, spurred in part by members of our law enforcement community, Congress and the White House came to a historic compromise that would combine prison reform with necessary changes to outdated and ineffective sentencing laws.

Law Enforcement Leaders publicly advocated for the First Step Act, and offered long-standing support for its predecessor bill, the Sentencing Reform and Corrections Act since our launch in 2015. It's a welcome victory for our mission.aw Enforcement Leaders was joined by the Fraternal Order of Police — the largest law enforcement labor organization in the U.S. — and the International Association of Chiefs of Police and the National District Attorneys Association, standing with President Trump as he announced his support for the measure.

LEL Executive Director Ronal Serpas, wrote to President Trump to share our members views on how prison and sentencing reform is vital to keeping our nation safe. We also published a briefing memo analyzing key provisions, and over 60 members signed a letter to Senate and House leadership in support of the bill. Former U.S. Attorney for the Western District of Virginia Timothy Heaphy, represented the group in a series of meetings on Capitol Hill and White House officials including Jared Kushner. Brett Tolman, former U.S. Attorney for Utah and LEL Board Member, came together with allies at Sen. Mitch McConnell's alma mater to call for criminal justice reform and played a critical role advocating for the bill, also being present at the president's announcement and at the bill signing.

Sen. Charles Grassley (R-Iowa), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Dick Durbin (D-Ill.,) both cited the group's support as important in the fight for commonsense change. Grassley wrote an op-ed in Fox News referencing Law Enforcement Leaders' advocacy efforts.

“Current criminal justice policies do not effectively stop the cycle of crime: they get in the way of smart, effective law enforcement and put people in prison who don’t belong there,” said Serpas in a statement. “Packaging sentencing reform measures alongside the prison reforms offered within the FIRST STEP Act will reduce recidivism and help law enforcement concentrate on what really matters: serious, violent threats to public safety.”

Read more in New York Times, CNN, Axios, Politico, and Newsweek. And read these op-eds in favor of the bill by Serpas in The Wall Street Journal and The Advocate, Washington D.C. Police Chief Peter Newsham in The Hill, Heaphy in The Virginia Pilot, Cumberland County Oregon Sheriff Kevin Joyce in The Portland Press Herald and Maine Public Radio, and Story County Iowa Sheriff Paul Fitzgerald in The Des Moines Register.

Minnesota Law Enforcement Leaders Convention

Nearly 100 law enforcement and prosecution officials from Ramsey, Hennepin, and other neighboring counties convened for a leadership conference to discuss how to improve public safety and justice for the residents of Minnesota.

Serpas delivered a keynote presentation, putting forward our vision of improving public safety for communities. Hennepin County Sheriff Richard Stanek and Ramsey Police Chief Todd Axtell of Ramsey, led a discussion on how police officers and prosecutors incubate innovative programs in their offices to reduce incarceration and crime.

“While we all have been implementing innovative changes, this first convening of law enforcement and prosecution leaders in Minnesota’s two largest counties to coalesce around the vision of reducing crime and incarceration at the same time is an important step forward to a better and more effective criminal justice system,” said Ramsey County Attorney John Choi, who hosted and spearheaded the convention.

State Reform Victories in 2018

- The group has worked with Gov. Mary Fallin of Oklahoma since 2017 on a package of bills. Since then, Law Enforcement Leaders continued its work there, helping secure passage of the legislation last year by sending multiple letters, publishing op-eds, and reaching out to legislators, while securing support from local media. The package will adopt a more targeted approach that directs law enforcement resources towards violent crime, while providing alternative responses for those who do not present a threat to public safety. As the package was being negotiated, Oklahoma City Police Chief Keith Humphrey wrote a letter to leaders of the state legislature, reinforcing law enforcement support of this opportunity to join other states in enacting effective reforms.

- Some in Louisiana questioned the efficacy of a criminal justice reform package that passed last year. Serpas, former New Orleans Police Superintendent, published an op-ed encouraging lawmakers to give the reforms time to work. Louisiana's reforms were modeled on successful efforts in states that have demonstrably improved public safety, reduced crime, and saved taxpayer money.

Members Lead in Their Jurisdictions

Members continued to work to advance modern innovations in their offices across the country.

- Manhattan District Attorney Cyrus Vance moved to dismiss more than 3,000 marijuana cases dating back to 1978. The move came after the NYPD implemented a new policy of issuing summonses to most people caught smoking marijuana in public, rather than arresting them.

- Oklahoma's Norman Police Department, led by Police Chief Keith Humphrey, began a new partnership with the Police Training Institute to take part in the "Fight Crime: Invest in Kids" program. The partnership gives the agency tools to help officers improve interactions with youth and promote community policing.

- The National Sheriffs' Association and the National Commission on Correctional Health Care highlighted the Middlesex Sheriff's MATADOR Program as one a national best practices for providing treatment in jails. This effective program is spearheaded by Sheriff Peter Koutoujian.

- Gallatin County Sheriff's Office instituted "Jail to Jobs." Led by Sheriff Brian Goodkin, the program aims to reduce recidivism and aid the economy by helping inmates find jobs after their release.

- Last November, Floridians from all walks of life – including leaders from veterans, faith, business, and law enforcement groups – organized to pass a ballot measure to restore voting rights to people with past convictions. Rev. Allison DeFoor of Jacksonville and former Monroe County Sheriff lead this effort on behalf of LEL, in the Sunshine State. He explained that allowing citizens with prior convictions to earn back their voting eligibility gives them a deeper stake in their community, making them less likely to reoffend.

Grants Available -- Gun Violence Research

There are more than 38,000 firearm deaths and 115,000 injuries from firearms per year in the United States. The National Collaborative on Gun Violence Research, recently launched by Laura and John Arnold Foundation, will support carefully selected, rigorous data-driven research designed to broaden agreement on the facts associated with gun policy, and support development of fair and effective policies. The Collaborative is requesting proposals that will kick off a five-year initiative that will offer $20-50 million in grants. We encourage Law Enforcement Leaders members to participate and submit proposals if interested. Letters of Interest are due February 4, 2019. To receive notice of funding opportunities, visit NCGVR.org and sign up.

Law Enforcement Leaders to Reduce Crime and Incarceration unites more than 175 current and former police chiefs, federal and state chief prosecutors, and attorneys general from all 50 states to urge for a reduction in both crime and incarceration. With this group, law enforcement joins the emerging movement calling for an end to unnecessary, widespread incarceration.

MORE...

Take notice. March 19, 2015, Forbes featured CU's youth development committee co-chair Jamira Burley as a self-made woman (go to Forbes.com to read the article). At 26, Jamira is so much more than a rising star. She is an inspired young leader of vision and purpose.

Jamira has thrived, despite a series of life experiences that would have left others defeated by the wake of violence and drugs that dominated her young life, in West Philadelphia. One of 16 siblings, Jamira is the first in her family to graduate high school and college. Ten (10) of her older brothers have been incarcerated, as well as both of her parents. In 2005, her then 20-year-old brother was murdered. The same year, her father was convicted of murder.

Despite these circumstances, at 15, Jamira founded an anti-violence program, called Panther Peace Corps, that reduced violence in her high school by 30%. Pennsylvania Governor Ed Rendell took notice and granted Jamira $50,000 to replicate her program at the 10 most dangerous schools in Philadelphia.

It didn't take Mayor Michael Nutter long to notice Jamira, where upon graduating from Temple University with a dual degree in International Business and Legal Studies, he hired her as the youngest Executive Director ever – to lead Philadelphia's Youth Commission, where she excelled for two and a half-years. Amnesty International quickly took notice and recruited Jamira to her current post where she leads their initiative on gun violence, criminal justice and human rights, in Washington, DC.

Jamira is in service to people and communities around the globe. She is the sole U.S. representative to the United Nations' Global Education First Initiative, Youth Advocacy Group, dedicated to creating opportunities for youth by enhancing their access to safe, high-quality education. Ever expanding her reach, Jamira's on-line presence is relentless – as co-founder of GenYNot, a platform that encourages youth to share their insights, concerns, and recommendations for issues affecting their lives and the world.

During the 2nd Annual CU convening, Jamira will be facilitating a conversation on why race matters. Register now to attend.

Learn more about how Jamira is being the change she wants to see in the world, at Jamiraburley.com

Las Vegas Municipal Court To Celebrate 34th WIN Court Graduation Nov. 9

Specialty Court Focuses On Female Offenders Impacted By Trauma

The Las Vegas Municipal Court Women in Need of Change (WIN) Court program will celebrate the graduation of an amazing woman who has successfully completed the program at 2 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 9, in Las Vegas Municipal Court Department 1 at the Regional Justice Center, located at 200 Lewis Ave, Courtroom 5A.

The 34th WIN Court graduate, Ashley Whittington, 32, has a criminal history that includes arrests and citations spanning 14 years. During the last 18 months she has overcome trauma and obstacles, embraced recovery, accomplished the rigorous program requirements and worked hard to build a new life. Ashley earned her GED diploma, is working full time, attending college and assisting in the caretaking of a family member. Additionally, she is connected to the recovery community where she is a leader who mentors and guides others just beginning their journeys. She has emerged as strong, confident and admired woman.

Graduation is the celebration of the journey of women who imagined the life they want and have worked very hard to achieve, if not surpass, their initial goals. The strength and determination of these women are an inspiration to women in recovery and to the women who are following in their footsteps through the WIN Court program.

WIN Court is a trauma-responsive specialty court program in the Las Vegas Municipal Court that targets female offenders with a history of criminal behavior, misdemeanor and/or substance abuse-related charges by targeting the root of the issue – trauma. Through WIN Court, the women learn the tools to change their way of thinking to make positive choices and create their future. All participants have 180 days of jail time suspended for 18 months, which is cleared upon successful completion of the program.

The women who participate must comply with rigorous sentencing requirements throughout the program, requiring the participants to complete drug treatment and intensive counseling programs, earn a GED or pursue education/training, and secure employment. The defendants must stay out of trouble and abstain from drugs and alcohol during the program. The Court celebrated its first graduate in August 2008.

WIN Court currently is funded by an Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant, a Substance Abuse and Mental Health Service Administration grant, and a grant from the Nevada Administrative Office of the Courts.

Subject: RE: Freedom Park Suicide

Good Morning, please read below the information relative to the referenced suicide;

On August 10, 2017 at approximately 0815 hours, I was notified of a deceased male at Gary Reese Freedom Park. I responded to Freedom Park at approximately 0830 hours and met with Deputy Marshal Sergeant Charles Seipel and Marshals Compson and Thatch. LVMPD patrol officers arrived shortly after.

Sergeant Seipel advised that City of Las Vegas Fire was notified by an unidentified caller of a sick or injured-white male in the park this morning at approximately 0739 hours. LVFD arrived and discovered 55 year-old Donald Wright, lying on his side on a picnic bench in the park. LVFD determined Wright was deceased.

The Deputy City Marshals arrived shortly after and cordoned off the scene with evidence tape.

Coroner's Office Investigators arrived at Freedom Park at approximately 1000 hours. They inventoried and photographed Wright's property at the scene. They found several bottles of prescription medication next to Wright and in his personal belongings. Next to the pill bottles was a note that read:

"Please let me say livin life just to have fun and play gets old especially once all the drugs are sold out then your left in the shadows."

A second note was found that provided an address for Wright's father and Wright's statement that he wanted to die.

The Coroner investigators saw no trauma on Wright's body. They found nothing that made them suspect Wright's death was related to foul play. Per the Coroner Investigators, the medication found at the scene was most commonly prescribed for schizophrenia, depression and epilepsy.

Davis mortuary personnel arrived at Freedom Park at approximately 1030 hours.

There were no media personnel at the scene.

A citizen by the name of Warren Foshee walked up next to the scene and stated a friend in the park called him and told him about Wright. Warren stated his son lives with the decedent's sister in Arkansas. The sister's name is Carol Doviall at [redacted] Warren stated he has been a friend of the decedent for 6-7 years.

Wright's SCOPE record indicates he had two felony convictions; Possession of Controlled Substance and Arson 1st degree. He had a Murder charge in 1995 that was later dismissed. All other offenses were mostly drug related. Per Offendertrak, Wright was never incarcerated at the City Detention Center.

Please let me know if you need anything else.

Dear Lady Mayor,

Here is yet another typical work week example illustrating the level of safety concerns I have endured on a regular basis, particularly taking an increased spike in occurrences during the past year, as I continually attempt to perform as a professional comedy ventriloquist beneath the Fremont Street Experience canopy.

The following video footage was captured- during a seven day period beginning on the 8/17/2016 and culminating on 8/23/2016. May I please take a brief moment, during your busy schedule, to setup the following filmed piece that highlights a clear lack in quality of the security safety and policing procedures presently in place on Fremont Street Experience- security protocol that is supposedly designed to protect visiting tourists, locals and street performers from harm/harassment.

Unfortunately, for me I am harassed on three separate occasions during my performances by individuals; the first openly calling me the 'N' word he having early spat on a passing tourist and shouted profanities at children, the second verbally abusing me (while allegedly she appears under the influence of medication/drugs) and the third and extremely way beyond annoying gentleman firstly starts of with a racist tirade directed towards me in the form of asking me if I had an authorized USA' immigration 'Green Card' before threatening to 'knock' me out!

I being a professional entertainer, with many decades of international experience managed, as expected, to display an immense amount of restraint and composure while enduring an horrendous amount of verbal racist abuse at the hands of the above featured individuals.

One must never lose sight of the fact that if I or anyone else had been irresponsible enough to have placed the merest of fingers on any of my abusers, rest assured we would be currently residing in Clark County' jail cell.

One can clearly hear during the video clip, a passing tourist say, "he was also saying things to the kids." relating to the the person that had early also spat on a member of the public.

Sadly the response from the Fremont Street Security' officers was to say, "that's the City Ordinance, man you have a right to do what you want being mentally ill has nothing to do with it."

I have written to Mr. Robert Gallego (Director of Security/Parking) at the Fremont Street Experience and supplied him at a great deal of time, effort and personal expense to my office- numerous previous video clips highlighting safety lapses on the Fremont Street Experience.

One can only fairly conclude that Mr. Gallego deems such racist harassing behavior somewhat acceptable.

Yours truly,

Scarlet Ray Watt

5 Ways States Can Safeguard the Election

Heading into the 2018 election, America's voting machines face unprecedented risks from foreign tampering and hacking. Congress set aside $380 million in its spending bill last month to help states address these threats. Officials across the country are in the process of receiving the money and a group of former state election experts, intelligence officials, and voting advocates sent states a letter with five specific recommendations on how to best spend it.

Americans for Tax Reform President Grover Norquist, Ret. Gen. Michael Hayden, former Secretary of Homeland Security Michael Chertoff, Brennan Center voting experts and more signatories agree: There is much to do before our defenses are hardened against these attacks, and these solutions will help us get there.

Critics have assailed the rise of mass incarceration, emphasizing its disproportionate impact on people of color. As James Forman, Jr., points out, however, the war on crime that began in the 1970s was supported by many African American leaders in the nation's urban centers. In his most recent work, Forman seeks to understand why.

Justices Seem Wary Of Strict Int'l Deference Standard

The U.S. Supreme Court heard oral arguments on Tuesday in a price-fixing case involving the degree of deference statements from foreign sovereigns should be given, and while the sides seemed to push for a strict standard, the justices appeared wary of applying too heavy a hand to an issue that could have far-reaching repercussions. For those of us who never missed an episode of The West Wing, we've a treat for you. Remember Carol, CJ's assistant? You'll get to meet her at the Friday Night Installation Dinner November 16. She has an amazing story to tell about her journey from Hollywood to Washington, DC.

In November of 2013, Melissa Fitzgerald joined the National Association of Drug Court Professionals (NADCP) as senior director of Justice For Vets. She has recently expanded her role and is now leading NADCP's justice reform initiative, Advancing Justice. As an actor, Ms. Fitzgerald is best known as Carol on the award-winning television series The West Wing.

She co-founded Voices in Harmony, a mentoring program that uses theater to work with at-risk teens. She took Voices in Harmony to war-torn northern Uganda to work with former abducted child soldiers, resulting in the award-winning documentary After Kony: Staging Hope. She is co-executive producer of Halfway Home, a film that profiles several returning veterans as they share their struggles reintegrating after experiencing the trauma of war.

Ms. Fitzgerald is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, has been published in The New York Times, The Washington Post, Huffington Post and has made numerous media appearances on behalf of NADCP/Justice For Vets, including Hardball with Chris Matthews, Morning Joe, CBS Sunday Morning and NPR. In 2017, she received the Secretary of the Army's Public Service Medal.

Ember Brillhart began her Honda career in 1998, launching the Washington D.C.-based State Government Relations function. Her department represents Honda in all 50 states in regard all aspects of the business. Her team has successfully advocated for the enactment of 15 laws addressing the crime of making, importing, distributing, installing and selling counterfeit airbags in the last three years and will continue the effort until there is a law in each state.

Marianne Merola and the other members of the Education Strategies team at McDonald's successfully rolled out Archways to Opportunity (archwaystoopportunity.com), a comprehensive education strategy designed to benefit those who work in either a franchised or company-owned McDonald's restaurant in the US. Archways to Opportunity has helped employees on the path to success by providing ESL training, the online high school diploma in partnership with Cengage's Career Online High School, college tuition assistance that can be used at any accredited institution, and education advising provided by CAEL (the Council for Adult and Experiential Learning). Since Archways launched in April 2015, we have provided over $42 million towards college and high school completion. Her awards include Volunteer of Year from Poised for Success and McDonald's Presidents' Award.

Myra Y. Irizarry Reddy is the Director of Government Affairs and Industry Relations for the Professional Beauty Association (PBA). Myra spends her time researching and analyzing various issues affecting the professional beauty industry including local, state and federal legislation. She creates and writes advocacy campaigns, policy positions, and testimony. Prior to joining PBA, she served as a staff member for the U.S. Senate, U.S. House, the Texas State Legislature, and the California State Assembly. During her tenure at the University of Texas at Dallas, where she earned a Master of Arts Degree in Political Science, Myra participated in the Essex School Methodological and Analytical Data Analysis Program at the University of Essex in Colchester, England. She also earned a Master of Arts Degree in Criminology and Criminal Justice. A glass half full, anything is possible, and solution driven co-creator of two children, Myra continues to jump at opportunities to learn more so she can expand the reach of PBA's government affairs department.

Binh Tran is an experienced business executive with more than 18 years of experience that spans supply chain, finance, and entrepreneurial roles in both Fortune 500 companies as well as small business settings. He has worked at companies such as Cargill, Starbucks, General Mills, and the Small Business administration (SBA). In his current role, Binh is the North America Regional Leader for Cargill's Strategic Sourcing organization. In this role, he is responsible for the strategic and operational management of $4.5 billion of external spend. His focus is to connect the external world and the internal needs of Cargill's business units to effectively drive topline innovation, margin enhancement, and exceptional service. Throughout his career, Binh has had a passion for developing businesses and the power it can have on the community.

Jaimie Vickery oversees all Cure SMA's advocacy efforts at both the state and federal level. She has nearly 20 years of advocacy, policy, and political experience, including five years on Capitol Hill, serving as a Senior Legislative Aide to former Representatives Steve Horn (R-CA) and Judy Biggert (R-IL). She also served as a lobbyist for the March of Dimes Foundation and the American Cancer Society.

Carrie L. Wade is a senior fellow and the Harm Reduction Policy Director for the R Street Institute, where she is responsible for directing R Street's harm-reduction agenda. Carrie joined R Street in April 2017, having previously worked as a drug-abuse researcher at the University of Minnesota and The Scripps Research Institute in La Jolla, California. Her research has focused largely on the intersection of prescription opioid abuse and chronic pain in animal models of opioid self-administration. Carrie's scientific background in the biological mechanisms of opioid addiction led to her interest in how public health initiatives can prevent the incidence of addiction and reduce the negative societal and personal consequences that result from substance use.

Sally West joined the Walgreens Government Relations team in November of 2012 after serving for nearly ten years as the Director of Government Relations for the Florida Retail Federation. At Walgreens, West manages the Government Relations activities for Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and West Virginia. She has overseen healthcare related projects throughout her region, including the expansion of pharmacist scope of practice, increasing awareness of vaccine preventable diseases, and promoting the use of medication therapy management. In addition to her focus on healthcare, West is also an advocate for retail issues, helping to create standards for the prosecution of organized retail crime, reducing taxation and regulatory burdens, and promoting programs for the hiring of employees with special needs.

Dear Mayor,
I have lived here in the same area Tropicana & Pecos. There has been a growing problem of heroine dealing, purchasing & using everyday 24/7. Along woth the drugs is the HUGE INCREASE OF HOMELESS. From Tropicana to Eastern Harmon to Flamingo. I have written & called the police department who has referred me to the Narcotics Unit. I have also written Crime Stoppers numerous times.

Mayor this drug crisis & huge increase in the homeless has happened while you've been mayor! If I see it as a stay at home mother of 3, why do you & the police not see & do something. It's getting worse. My home owner's association just increased out monthly fee to put up a huge iron gate which was desperatley needed, but WHY do you pay these people MY tax payers money to buy drugs, increase my cost of living, lowering my property value & put my family in danger. Why are you not ELIMINATING THE PROBLEM.

Drive by & thru those shopping centers on any given day & you will see
I pay your salary to protect me & my children, why are you not fixing this problem? Undercover police, drug testing for ANY & ALL gov't benifits & arrest these people. At 6 pm every everning is a "drug van"(bus & rv) that sell daily ij the Walmart parking lot West of Walmart by the garden center. You are letting these city be destroyed by drugs & homeless users who spend thousands monthly on drugs. I appreciate & await your reply,

Sincerley,

The Public Leadership Institute is a nonprofit educational group organized to raise public awareness on key issues and to develop public leaders who will improve the economic and social conditions of all Americans. To join, click here.

Controlling Synthetic Drugs: One of the most likely causes of the spike in violent crime in some cities is the precipitous increase in the use of synthetic drugs. These substances, which are cheap and widely available in high-poverty neighborhoods, are believed to cause some users to become irrationally violent. The National Alliance for Model State Drug Laws has three model bills here to deal with these "Novel Psychoactive Substances."

Common Core "Results" Aren't Actually Test Scores: Over the next couple of months we can expect a flood of PR efforts to tout the results of Common Core standardized tests. But these will be largely misleading because they will reflect subjective lines in the sand, not actual test scores. Read about it on IdeaLog, our blog intended to raise eyebrows and engage minds.

Three Principles of Progressive Economics: Thursday, September 10 @3pm Eastern, 2pm Central, 1pm Mountain, Noon Pacific. Americans generally understand conservative economic principles: free markets are essential, the rich deserve their wealth, the rich are job creators, government should be small and taxes need to be low. How do we push back and talk about progressive economics? Register for the webinar here.

State Earned Income Tax Credits: State EITCs are among the simplest and most effective of anti-poverty measures. Here is a simple explanation of the policy from our friends at the Center for Budget and Policy Priorities.

Auto Insurance Discrimination: Companies charge low-income residents more for auto insurance by increasing rates based on credit scores, occupation and level of education. Some states are now limiting what insurers can consider in calculating premiums, explains the Pew Trust's Stateline.

Looking for policies to introduce in 2016? Our Progressive Agenda for States and Localities contains hundreds of ideas for new laws on many subjects, including hyperlinks to model bills. It's all right here.

Subject: [Newsletter] [Marketing Mail] Missives from the Front: Home before Independence Day?

Friend --

Greetings once again from the front lines of the 79th Session of the Nevada Legislature! Today marks the 100th day of the session - only twenty days remain. This week was packed with activity - not only did I testify for or against many bills in their second hearings, I also actively lobbied many Assemblypeople on SJR4 and a potential ballot access bill for next session.

If any of these bills sound particularly interesting, you can share your opinion on them with the legislators and committees reviewing them by going here and typing in the relevant bill number. It'll send your message directly to the sponsors and co-sponsors. As some bills have more than ten sponsors, this is a great time-saver.

Throughout the week, I joined forces with Elliot Malin from AFP and met with a number of Assemblypeople regarding SJR4, which I discussed in my last newsletter. This resolution would urge the federal government to amend the Constitution to limit political spending by "corporations, unions, or individuals." Last week, I met with Elliot Anderson, Olivia Diaz, John Hambrick, and Ira Hansen. Hambrick and Hansen are, of course, happy to vote against SJR4. Anderson is likely to vote for it, and Diaz was quietly noncommittal (though interested in the ACLU's Amicus brief on Citizens United (though I'm fairly certain she'll end up voting along party lines, as well). This week I had meetings with Nelson Araujo, Nicole Cannizzaro, James Ohrenschall, and Shannon Bilbray-Axelrod on SJR4, as well. While the resolution passed out of both committees along party lines, Assemblywoman Bilbray-Axelrod and Assemblyman Ohrenschall both stated their reservations for the record as a result of our work.

I also had a private meeting initiated by Assemblywoman Jill Tolles on Tuesday. She tipped me off that AB226, a bill introduced by Assemblyman Hansen which would have closed the Krasner loophole but had been placed on the Clerk's desk to die, might be getting a second chance at life thanks to Assemblypeople Skip Daly and Olivia Diaz. I immediately went to Assemblyman Daly's office and set up an appointment with him for Wednesday morning. My plan was to attach our ballot access threshold amendment to the zombie bill. Daly was amenable, but unfortunately, the Democratic party leadership are unlikely to insert the text into any other measure or allow AB226 to leave the Clerk's desk. But multiple legislators - including Araujo, Daly, and a few others - are friendly to a bill draft request for our amendment next session, should they be reelected.

I started the week testifying in support of AJR10 (a resolution against further development of the nuclear waste storage facility at Yucca Mountain) in its second hearing. After I testified in support of AJR10 (against Yucca Mountain - I know this is confusing) during its first hearing, Assemblyman Chris Brooks sent a very grateful thank-you note, and requested that I support it again. I was happy to oblige. Nevadans have the right to resist federal storage of hazardous waste in our state. Ideally, of course, we'd like to see nuclear waste reprocessing legalized in the United States in order to avoid the need for waste storage facilities like Yucca Mountain, but in the meantime, AJR10 is NIMBYism I can live with.

On Tuesday, I spoke in favor of AB259 for the second time during its second hearing. This absolutely vital bill, sponsored by Assemblyman William McCurdy II, would vacate and seal marijuana convictions that occurred after January 1, 2017. As the private, recreational use of marijuana became legal on January 1, 2017, any Nevadan who was convicted of now-legal offenses after that date is entitled to having the judgment vacated and sealed. The State must not continue punishing those who have committed no crime according to existing law. I was more than happy to work with Assemblyman McCurdy II on this one.

As I mentioned in last week's newsletter, Senator David Parks asked for our support on SB261, which would legalize the prescription of life-ending drugs to terminal patients in Nevada. The bill is modeled after Oregon's existing program. One of Senator Parks's close friends, afflicted with terminal cancer, asked Parks to write and pass a similar law here. That was more than ten years ago, and Parks has been working on it ever since. This is the closest the legislation has come to success - and while the rumor on the street is that Governor Sandoval will veto the bill, we applaud Senator Parks's bravery and compassion nonetheless. I understand that any form of assisted suicide will be controversial, but SB261 is carefully written to prevent coercion or abuse. It would simply give terminal patients the choice to die on their own terms - an increase in freedom for everyone, and a logical consequence of individual bodily autonomy. SB261 has made it through its first work session vote, so we'll next see it in the Assembly committee.

Senator Pat Spearman also approached us asking for support on SB396 on Thursday afternoon. I testified in support of the first version of this bill, which offered protections for doctors and massage therapists using marijuana and hemp products to treat their clients. However, it was radically amended: The entire previous text of the bill was deleted and replaced with a brief but excellent industrial hemp legalization bill (borrowing and rearranging from another bill we supported - SB329, a marijuana omnibus). I received the request from Senator Spearman's office on short notice - just a few hours before the hearing - but was more than happy to speak in its support. Industrial hemp is a harmless product and Nevada's farmers have the right to grow and profit from it. Legalizing the crop would also make Nevada a national leader in the industry. Even George Washington grew hemp, as did many of the Founding Fathers.

On Thursday morning, I had the second hearing for SB176, which would mandate that peace officers in Nevada wear body cameras. The hearing started at 8:30, but the first bill they heard dragged on and on and on. I also had an SJR4 meeting scheduled with Assemblyman Nelson Araujo at 10:00 AM, and as time crept by, I began to worry that I wouldn't be able to do both. By 9:40, they closed the hearing on the first bill and finally opened the hearing on SB176. I was able to testify in support at around 9:58, then zoomed to Araujo's office - only to find that he was also trapped in a hearing. His secretary rescheduled us, and I was eventually able to speak with him on my own.

I attended a budget hearing on Education Savings Accounts with Elliot on Friday morning in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee. Unfortunately, the budget wasn't passed; instead, Elliot says, SB506 will reallocate funding to the new office. This isn't the end of ESAs, but definitely a change in course. Elliot does expect SB506 to become law and fund ESAs, ultimately, and I trust his judgment on this issue - he and Americans for Prosperity are passionate about it.

As soon as the committee finished hearing that budget, I dashed upstairs to testify in support of SB236, which would create public-use marijuana permits for businesses and festivals. Marijuana-friendly areas in restaurants, lounges, and cafes would improve quality-of-life for locals and tourists. Now that recreational marijuana is legal in Nevada, people are going to use it outside of their homes, no matter what the law says. Public marijuana use will be safer and more comfortable for all involved if businesses are allowed to create MJ-friendly zones.

I also testified in support of AB301, which would protect the privacy of first responders during peer counseling sessions, for the second time. This bill may seem counter-intuitive - what, you're protecting cops? - but when first responders don't open up after traumatic experiences, they can snap in moments of stress, instead. AB301 protects their privacy in peer support sessions - even from orders to disclose by their superiors, which can presently land them in hot water for insubordination should they refuse. This bill makes it easier for police, firefighters, and paramedics to open up when they need to, and therefore easier for them to receive the treatment they need to be effective. I believe that implementing it will help dispel the Warrior Mentality, improving the lives both of public safety employees and those they serve.

While we've tried to cover as many issues as possible during the Session, we've been able to make concrete progress by allying with the Democrats on criminal justice reform, marijuana liberalization, and LGBT+ issues this session. On May 17, Governor Sandoval signed SB201, the conversion therapy for minors ban, into law. We worked to support this bill every step of the way - and your support helped make that happen.

There's another deadline on Friday for committee passage - any bill that isn't exempted and doesn't make it through a work session will die, which will dramatically winnow out what's left. As of Wednesday, May 17, there are only about three weeks left in the 79th Legislative Session. Armistice Day is almost here.

I've got one final request for you: If you haven't followed @LPNevada on Twitter, go do it now! We're pushing for 5k (followers) in May, and it's one of the best ways to keep up-to-date with our upcoming events.

Until next time,

Action Needed on House Affordable Care Act Repeal/Replacement View this email in your browser

TO: The Mayor

FROM: Tom Cochran, CEO and Executive Director

Last evening, the first major proposal to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act (ACA) was introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives, and initial markup is expected to begin tomorrow in the Energy and Commerce and Ways and Means Committees.

USCM staff is working with our leaders on this topic - including Children, Health and Human Service Standing Committee Chair Marty Walsh of Boston, Cities of Opportunity Task Force Chair Bill de Blasio of New York City, Vice President Mitch Landrieu of New Orleans, Mayor Ed Lee of San Francisco, Mayor John Giles of Mesa, and others - to carefully analyze the many provisions in the bill.

We have issued a press statement in response to the House action, and have sent this statement to the entire House and Senate.

We are using the hashtag #MayorsStand4All when talking about this issue. We strongly request that mayors issue press statements and use social media to express their concern about the many questions not yet answered regarding the House bill, and the impacts it could have on the people who live in our cities.

The nation's mayors have been clear and consistent in our call for a plan that maintains the patient protections that enjoy bipartisan support in the current healthcare law, ensures that Americans with insurance do not lose it, and allows those who want insurance to be able to afford it.

We are concerned that the new bill has been issued without knowing how much it will cost or how many people it will cover. By skipping the major step of having the plan scored by the Congressional Budget Office, we are left in the dark as to how this plan will impact not only our residents, but also our city budgets.

Below is our initial analysis based on the key priorities contained in the bipartisan letter the U.S. Conference of Mayors sent to the Congress signed by 130 mayors. Our organization has strongly urged that any new healthcare law maintain key provisions contained in the ACA and address other priorities as listed below.

- Insure Children Up to the Age of 26: The House bill would allow dependents to stay on their parents' insurance policies until age 26.
- Eliminate Lifetime and Annual Limits: The House bill would bar insurers from setting a limit on how much they have to pay to cover someone.
- Assure Eligibility for Insurance Coverage Even with Pre-existing Conditions: The House bill would require insurers to cover people regardless of pre-existing medical conditions, and bars the companies from charging more based on a person's health history. However, the bill proposes to impose a premium penalty on people who do not maintain continuous coverage.
- Guarantee Coverage for Pregnancy and Breast Cancer Screenings: Under the changes to Medicaid, the House bill would repeal the requirement that health plans must cover Essential Health Benefits (EHB) by December 31st, 2019 (including maternity, preventive care, mental health and substance misuse treatment) and would allow states to define the EHB beginning in 2020.
- Provide Coverage for Preventive Services at No Additional Cost: The House bill would require all insurers to offer 10 essential health benefits, including maternity care, breast cancer screenings and preventive services until the current Essential Health Benefits definition (EHB) sunsets on December 31st, 2019 as which point states would be allowed to define the EHB beginning in 2020.
- Maintain Provisions to Increase Mental Health and Substance Use Disorder Benefits and Provide Parity: The House bill could hurt millions of Americans who suffer mental illness or substance abuse of drugs like opioids because it rolls back the ACA's Medicaid expansion. Additionally, the House bill would repeal the requirement that health plans must cover Essential Health Benefits (EHB) by December 31st, 2019 (includes mental health and substance misuse treatment) and would allow states to define the EHB beginning in 2020.

• Oppose Efforts to Convert Medicaid to Block Grants: The House bill allows states to keep Medicaid expansion and allows states that expanded Medicaid to continue getting federal funding until 2020. Federal funding for people who become newly eligible starting in 2020 or who leave the program and come back, however, would be reduced. Also, the bill would change the structure of Medicaid funding to that of a state block grant, capping federal funding per enrollee, based on how much each state was spending in fiscal year 2016.

In the days ahead, we will be able to provide more detailed analysis of this first proposal, and changes that could be expected as it moves through the legislative process in the House.

In addition, we can expect major policy differences in the Senate based on what we learned from the many meetings held by our USCM leadership last week on Capitol Hill. It is very clear from what we heard that there are Republican Senators who have serious concerns about what is happening in the House, and we must work to support and strengthen them in the days ahead.

Subject: Matching gifts for democracy – twice the impact!

Gifts today will be MATCHED for twice the power to protect democracy

[redacted]

Dear Friend,

I have exciting news!

Because your fellow supporters have been so generous during the Brennan Center for Justice's $150,000 matching gift campaign, another donor has pledged an additional $25,000.

That means gifts received — including the one you make right now — will be doubled, up to $175,000!*

This support comes at a critical moment. We're engaged in a great struggle for American democracy.

One truth is clear: resistance is vital - but not enough. What counts is not just what we are against, but what we are prepared to fight for.

The Brennan Center for Justice needs you to join the fight, so please make your gift today, when it will be MATCHED $1-FOR-$1. Together, we'll proudly protect democracy!

Start with the right to vote. President Trump set up a "voter fraud" commission to prove the lie that he won the popular vote once you subtract 3-5 million "illegal votes." When the commission asked for personal data from tens of millions of citizens, we sued in four states to block the illegal release of voter information.

We'll use the gift you make right now — which will be matched up to $5,000 until we reach $175,000* — to continue to disarm this assault on one of democracy's cornerstones.

We've also forcefully rebutted Attorney General Jeff Sessions' false claims of a soaring crime wave. Brennan Center research shows that crime remains near the lowest rate in decades.

Match My Gift

Bolstered by your support, the Brennan Center's nationwide alliance of law enforcement leaders serves as a powerful, bipartisan force to end mass incarceration, fighting to prevent the return of failed policies — including the racially devastating war on drugs.

And the Brennan Center needs your help to thwart abuses of executive power, including the administration's travel ban. Our challenge to the newest version of this unconstitutional policy is headed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

With the gift you make right now — which will have twice the impact thanks to a generous matching grant — you'll stand up for the sacred values we hold dear.

Together, we will lead the next wave of reform that will strengthen our great democracy.

Thank you in advance for your generosity.

Sincerely,

Michael Waldman
President

Give Now

* Gifts of up to $5,000 qualify for matching if they are made before December 31, up to a total of $175,000 for the campaign. Gifts received after that date or in excess of those limits will still be used for our general fund to help protect democracy.

The Brennan Center for Justice at NYU School of Law is a nonpartisan law and policy institute that seeks to improve our systems of democracy and justice.

Part think tank, part advocacy group, part cutting-edge communications hub, we work to hold our political institutions and laws accountable to the twin American ideals of democracy and equal justice for all.

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Hi Lori !

Confirming some details to press forward with request:

Our 2017 Southern Nevada Substance Use and Behavioral Health Summit: "Changing Lives through Capacity Building and Strategic Partnership" will be held on the campus of UNLV, Friday, September 29, 2017 at 8am – 3pm.

We are requesting 5-10 minutes of opening remarks or an address by Mayor Goodman in the 8:30a-9:00a time slot. We are confirming the Sheriff's attendance, in which case that window would be shared with his address as well.

We will be able to send speaking points as we approach the September date. The summit mission information is attached and we will update you with conference scheduling information as necessary. (I did send you the original schedule. The opening address will stay the same !).

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Greetings Lori!

Please see attached the updated Substance Abuse Summit slated for 8a-4p September 29th. We are locking in location now- UNLV is- more than likely the front runner!

We would appreciate a 5-10 minute address from Mayor Goodman to open the summit. The attached schedule and overview outlines community participation and support for this summit geared towards industry professionals. I will provide speaking points if necessary closer to the date.

Pleaee call me directly with any questions. Of course, we always appreciate the support of YDSI!

Create a Great Day!

MAYOR CAROLYN G. GOODMAN S BRIEFING SHEET

2017 Southern Nevada Substance Use & Behavioral Health Summit

UNLV Student Union Ballroom

4505 S. Maryland Parkway, Las Vegas, NV 89154

8:00 a.m.

Friday, September 29, 2017

PURPOSE

The overarching theme of the Substance Use & Behavioral Health Summit is: Changing Lives through Capacity Building and Strategic Partnership. The goal of the summit is to provide resources to direct service providers and community stakeholders. This summit will serve as an educational opportunity for professionals who work in the area of substance use and addiction, while issuing a "call to action" to participants resulting in successful inter-agency/inter-sector collaborations.

The summit will take place on Friday, September 29, 2017 from 8:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m. The Mayor is being asked to speak from 8:35 a.m. – 8:50 a.m. (Summit Schedule attached.) The Summit will be held at the UNLV Student Union Ballroom located at 4505 S. Maryland Parkway, Las Vegas, NV 89154.

OBJECTIVE

The planning committee for this summit seeks to increase professional competencies in addressing substance use through education on prevention, intervention, and service delivery strategies. The goals of the Substance Use Summit are to:

1. Build capacity by informing our community about the latest Southern Nevada resources available in diversion, treatment, and recovery.
2. Foster opportunities for collaboration and partnership.
3. Reduce stigma and increase understanding about the nature of addiction and recovery.

Substance Use & Behavioral Health Summit (Key Talking Points)

- In 2012, the city of Las Vegas coordinated with over 120 faith leaders, representing over 70,000 local congregants, initiating Las Vegas Mayor's Faith Initiative to address seven topics confronting our community: Strengthening the Family, Education, Homelessness, Human Trafficking, Community Unity, and Addictions- the subject mentioned as the most troubling to our community.
- Developed under The Las Vegas Mayor's Faith Initiative (LVMFI), our Addictions Workgroup offers our community a safe place for honest and open dialogue coordinating strategies to address substance use disorder, and community collaboration.
- Nevada has the second highest rate of Substance Use Disorders (SUD) in the nation (SAMHSA, 2013) but has the lowest number of providers able to treat SUD per 1,000 people (Advocates for Human Potential, 2014).
- "The number of psychiatrists, psychologists, counselors and social workers available to treat every 1,000 people with SUD – ranges from a high of 70 in Vermont to a low of 11 in Nevada.

- Nationally, the average is 32 behavioral health specialists for every 1,000 people afflicted with the disorder (Advocates for Human Potential, 2014).”
- An annual average of 233,000 persons aged 12 or older have used illicit drugs in the past year in the Las Vegas-Paradise Metropolitan Statistical Area (16.8% of the population), and 138,000 persons aged 12 or older were classified as having a substance use disorder in the past year (9.9% of the population) according to the National Survey on Drug Use and Health (SAMHSA Report, 2012).
- According to a 2017 fact sheet released by the Southern Nevada Health District, since 2008, more Clark County residents have died each year from opioid overdoses than firearms or motor vehicle traffic accidents.
- In 2012-2014, the mortality rate from opioid overdoses in Clark County was almost 70% higher than the national rate.
- It is only through Capacity Building and Strategic Partnerships that we will be able to make a difference and save lives.
- So thank you for being here and thank you for all that you do to address this deadly epidemic by building recovery-focused partnerships and providing tools, resources and training to support prevention, treatment, and recovery.

YOUR ROLE

Mayor Carolyn G. Goodman is being requested to provide the Opening Remarks for the Summit at 8:35 a.m. and has been allotted fifteen minutes to speak to the audience. Key talking points are attached above.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Thank the Summit Partners as follows:

- University of Nevada, Las Vegas - Southern Nevada Addictive Disorders Training Project (Stephanie Borene)
- University of Nevada, Las Vegas – Mental and Behavioral Health Coalition (Sara Hunt)
- Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department (William Scott, Ailee Burnett)
- Southern Nevada Health District (Jessica Johnson)
- PACT Coalition (Jamie Ross, Novlette Mack)
- Bridge Counseling (Cynthia Mota)
- Mayor’s Faith Initiative (Nyla Christian)

AUDIENCE

The summit will be free of charge and open to anyone who wishes to attend, however, the target audience for the Summit includes health and behavioral health professionals, criminal justice professionals, prevention professionals, and students. Approximately 200 attendees are expected to attend.

House Flip Could Mean Oversight 'Frenzy' At Enviro Agencies

Though the partial government shutdown has muted the oversight activity of new Democratic leadership in the House, as soon as the shutdown ends, freshly staffed-up committees that have jurisdiction over environmental matters won't waste any time launching investigatory requests that experts say could distract, if not derail, the Trump administration's deregulatory agenda. Maniac on the LOOSE!

It is our belief that Diciero is condescending, manipulative, pathological liar and a sociopath who hides by stalking and never goes face to face- a true coward!

Clark County Nevada
December 26, 2017

Mark Dominic DiCiero a one-time public figure on "Mark & Mercedes" KMB Mix 94.1 Morning Show affiliated with CBS Radio and also former host of Star 107.9 "Las Vegas for Mornings" has gone off the deep end!

According to several sources whom are affiliated with these radio shows report that DiCiero was terminated for drugs and alcohol use.

Since then DiCiero has filed for bankruptcy case # 1711466 discharged in the amounts over $200,000 and is recently divorced from Nancy Jean Zorzi case #D332298.

Now currently in a custody battle for their 14 year old daughter in a sealed case in Clark County Family Court.

DiCiero is currently represented PRO-BUNO by Attorney John D. Jones from Black & Lobello Attorneys At Law.

Mark DiCiero is a 46 year old currently living with his parents Pamela Jean DiCiero and George Dominic DiCiero in their Summerlin home.

DiCiero has started a campaign of cyber bullying, harassment, defamation, false hoods, interfering with Veterans In Politics business, stalking and now has threatened the life of my 9 year old daughter and 2 year old granddaughter.

DiCiero has sent a text to the mother of my daughter, pretending to be someone else and tried to blame another person for the post that he himself photo-shopped.

The photo contains a picture of my daughter and granddaughter that he obtained off of my Facebook page and reads as follows:

"Say good bye to your little girl you sick fucking monster. Don't worry little girl we will save you soon enough and your pain will end before you know it.

Your mother can't speak about the horrors he's put her through but soon enough you will be free. And know it's not your fault. God will come for you and man will deal with the inbreed."

DiCiero embedded the name 'Marcel' into the photo attempting to blame him for it. After going through all Marcel's Facebook posting this photo does not exist and all Marcel's photos contain both his first and last name.

Marcel has been adamantly going after Mark DiCiero so now DiCiero was attempting to blame Marcel for this threat, which he himself has done.

DiCiero uses alias and fake accounts on Facebook and one of his alias is "James Deam" among many others.

DiCiero also aligned himself with the following: Marshal S. Willick, Attorney; Jennifer V. Abrams, Attorney; Ernest Del Casal, former Fathers Rights Advocate; Lynn Conant, Pro Tem Hearing Master.

DiCiero is the administrator on the following Facebook pages "Clark County Family Court Warmongers United" using my likeness for a profile picture and "Nevada Court Watchers".

DiCiero contacts people pretending to be a friend or reporter he never calls and only texts and has used the following phone numbers/burner phones: 775-298-6611, 702-743-3338, 702-329-6483, 702-342-9649 these are some of the 24 phone numbers that we have uncovered.

We have blocked him and the people he has aligned himself with on several social media sights, but he always finds a way to appear.

DiCiero has deliberately contacted our panel members, radio show guest, and affiliates of Veterans In Politics in an attempt to discourage them from affiliating with our group.

Recently, DiCiero sent Clark County District Attorney Steve Wolfson an email to discourage him from being on our program and DiCiero publicly took credit for the cancelation by the District Attorney.

Our attorney also sent a "Cease and Desist" letter to DiCiero.

DiCiero then posted the letter on Facebook and said he will not comply.

DiCiero has attacked several of our Family Court litigants publicly on Facebook displaying very private and personal information and some cases are sealed.

We have also uncovered a Domestic Violence arrest on DiCiero from his home state of Colorado.

For the record; I have only met DiCiero once and only had one verbal very short conversation with him and that was done in the halls of Family Court.

A police report has been filed the District Attorney has been notified.

Anyone that has any association with this racist, is no better than he is!!

Is this who corrupt family court judges/lawyers gave the green light to in an effort to attack our group in retaliation of us exposing the corruption?

What prompted this article is the threat of my daughter and granddaughter and to publicly let everyone know the history and the people that would go this far.

ASLEEP AT THE WHEEL: Drowsy Driving and Public Health
Presented in Collaboration with The Huffington Post

Live webcast, Tuesday, May 10, 2016
12:30-1:30pmET

Driving while under the influence of drugs or alcohol has long been established as a public safety hazard. But what about hitting the road while fatigued? An estimated average of 83,000 accidents involving drowsy driving occurred annually between 2005 and 2009, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), and some estimates are even higher. These accidents cost lives, cause injuries, and damage property. This Forum event will explore the risks, impacts and prevention of drowsy driving. Speakers include Arianna Huffington, author of the new book The Sleep Revolution; Mark Rosekind, Head of NHTSA; Charles Czeisler, renowned sleep medicine expert; and Jay Winsten, leader of a large-scale media initiative to draw attention to the perils of distracted driving.

EXPERT PARTICIPANTS

Arianna Huffington, Co-Founder, President and Editor-in-Chief of The Huffington Post Media Group

Mark R. Rosekind, Administrator, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration

Jay Winsten, Frank Stanton Director of the Center for Health Communication at the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health and Associate Dean for Health Communication

Charles Czeisler, Professor of Sleep Medicine and Director, Division of Sleep Medicine, Harvard Medical School

Amazing my one-liner response justified this lengthy litany of his perspectives.
Two things (actually 3) since he's thinking himself king and thus is most judgmental:

1. "acknowledgement" should be acknowledgment
2. Hasn't he studied enough history to realize we (the historical "we") are all immigrants and probably most were church-mouse poor at one point?
3. who made him king?
4. Should we answer or not?

Mayor Goodman,
Thank you for your acknowledgement. Please read my summary of "Adios America" below.
Also, because some people are more influenced by feelings than facts, I thought you might be interested in my summary of this NYT book review, "Against Empathy: The Case for Rational Compassion" by Paul Bloom:
"Empathy, he argues, is a poor moral guide.... favouring the one over the many... empathy is untampered by reason, emanating from the murky bayou of the gut. He prefers a kind of rational compassion - a mixture of caring and detached cost-benefit analysis. ... To those who say empathy is essential to morality, he would reply that morality has many sources. Many 'wrongs' - like littering or cheating on your taxes - have no distinct victims to empathise with. Nor does it appear that the most empathetic people behave the most ethically. There have been hundreds of studies... the results are 'meh'. ... empathy is generally a bad tool to use for allocating resources. ... is part of the reason why governments and individuals care more about a little girl stuck in a well than about events that will affect millions. Consider parenting... almost all parents have a terrible time tolerating the discomfort of their children. Yet it's often essential (going to the dentist, doing homework, spending a night away from home). ...rationality in political domains often does seem to be in short supply."

"Adios, America!" by Ann Coulter. Excerpts below:

1. For forty years, the people have tried to tell politicians they want less immigration, but the politicians won't listen. Every single elite group in America is aligned against the public - the media, ethnic activists, big campaign donors, Wall Street, multimillionaire farmers, and liberal "churches." They all want mass immigration from the Third World to continue. Both political parties connive to grant illegal aliens citizenship and bring in millions more legally, and the media hide the evidence. ... How immigration is changing our country is a lot more important than most of the "news" we hear about endlessly. The media will pound away at Chris Christie's 'Bridge gate', apocryphal fraternity rapes, the Augusta National Golf Club's membership policies, 'white privilege... But getting the truth about immigration is nearly impossible. The media tell us: ... Immigrants are doing the jobs Americans just won't do: Americans are perfectly happy to do all manner of jobs - they just won't do them for $7.00 an hour. Unions used to care about that, but now they just want political power.... Amnesty will be Fantastic for the Economy: Unless we're talking about the Mexican economy, this is patently ridiculous. Adding another 30 million poor, unskilled, non-taxpaying, welfare-receiving people to America is good only for government workers and employers who refuse to mechanize their operations or pay Americans one dollar more. ... The problems stemming from unchecked immigration are all over the news. You'll just never be told they are problems of immigration - children living in poverty, childhood obesity, teen pregnancy, out-of-wedlock births, abysmal high school dropout rates, income inequality, 'homegrown' terrorists, massive Medicare frauds, internet crime, identity theft, prison overcrowding, the vast number of uninsured used to justify Obamacare, sex trafficking, the epidemic of child rape, the destruction of our national parks, drunk driving casualties, drug-resistant tuberculosis, measles and other viral outbreaks, bankrupt government pension, low reading and math scores and shorter 'Americans'. ... why is it a crisis that illegal aliens are 'living in the shadows'?... It's supposed to be uncomfortable to break the law. ... How did all those illegal aliens get into the shadows in the first place? They weren't kidnapped and dragged across the border... But 'living in the shadows' is evidently better than living in Guadalajara, otherwise, there's an easy solution. Democrats aren't big on amnestying other lawbreakers. they don't hysterically demand amnesty for accounting cheats or polluters - not even for "the children" of accounting cheats and polluters. Enron executives were hard workers. They loved their families and wanted the best for them, just I'm sure MS-13 gang members love their families.... When the bathtub is overflowing, the very first thing you do is: TURN OFF THE WATER. ... obviously, any amnesty functions as a magnet for more illegal aliens. Nothing shows the bad faith of amnesty advocates with more blinding clarity than their steadfast refusal to seal the border. Ordinary people see this and know they're being lied to. ... China built a thirteen-thousand mile wall several centuries before Christ, and it's still working. ... For whom is a 'world without borders' an ideal? People who don't much care for America, I gather. ... Congress has repeatedly voted to build a border fence. But somehow, the fence never gets built - and Congress does nothing. ... amnesty supporters tried a surprise argument: To stop illegals pouring across the border, congress had to pass amnesty. They were hoping to stun us into silence with the stupidity of their argument. ... The 1986 Simpson-Mazzoli Act was supposed to end illegal immigration forever: Give us amnesty one time, then: Never again. As with all laws that combine the bitter with the sweet, such as tax hikes and spending cuts, we got one and not the other. The amnesty came, but the border security never did. Illegal immigration sextupled. There have been a half dozen more amnesties since then... . "The moral thing to do" is usually defined as "following the law." ... To paraphrase what President Bush used to say about terrorists: The anti-amnesty side has to be perfect every time; the pro-amnesty side only has to win once. Then the country is finished. 2. ... shouldn't politicians be more concerned with what citizens think of them than what foreigners do? ... Wouldn't any sane immigration policy be based on the principle that we want to bring in only immigrants who will benefit the people already here? ... Try calling another country's embassy and asking to immigrate there. Consulate: What do you want? You: Well, I can't read or write, I have no skills, and I've got nine kids. Oh and by the way. If I can't make it in your country, would you mind cutting my family a check once a month? ... Our "family reunification" policies mean that being related to a recent immigrant from Pakistan trumps being a surgeon from Denmark. Our government does such a terrific job at choosing who gets to immigrate to America that 52 percent of legal immigrant households with children are on government assistance. In all, nearly 60 percent of immigrants - legal and illegal - are on government assistance, compared with 39 percent of native households. Why would any country voluntarily bring in people who have to be supported by the taxpayer? ... The immigrants get a taxpayer subsidy to work for the rich, and the rich get a break on the maid. This cozy deal is funded by the long-suffering middle class. The anti-American crowd used to dash off to fight with Communist insurgencies in Third World jungles. But the fun of being self-righteous was sometimes cut short when they ended up in prison.... Rather than hating America from abroad, today's radicals can hate it right here at home by bringing the Third World to America! ... Being openly hostile to America has become a part of ethnic pride. US Rep Luis Gutierrez calls on his own country (technically the USA) to "stop the deportation of our people . ... Gutierrez told Newsweek that he has "only one loyalty, and that's to the immigrant community."

Whose taxes will be raised to make up the shortfall? Not the people who don't pay any taxes at all. Employers don't care. They want the cheap labor NOW.... We're seeing exactly what Vladimir Lenin is supposed to have said about capitalists: 'They will sell us the rope with which to hang them.' ... Whey shouldn't employers be on the hook when their cheap labor becomes a public charge or commits a crime? ... An immigration law premised on the idea that America owes the rest of the world would be bad enough. But Third World immigration + massive welfare state + political correctness = The end of America. 4. America is not the natural state of the world. The natural state of the world is Darfur. The British Empire spread Anglo-Saxon culture around the globe - Protestant morals, individualism, and the rule of law. Most British colonies rejected those values. Only the ones populated by actual British people - America, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand - managed to hold on to them and, as a result, prospered. The empire's most successful experiment was the United States. Anyone who hesitates for a moment to recognize that some groups have it over other groups in producing free and prosperous nations has been brainwashed beyond reclamation.

5. America has already taken in more than one quarter of Mexico's entire population. ... Is that diverse enough yet? Why is it better that the ethnic population of our country be changed? ... Immigration of the past half century has been a homicide made to look like a suicide. ...a natural process? ... It's more like Americans are trying to stop an Army Corp of Engineers project that will flood the valley where they live in order to build a hydroelectric plant that will help one powerful corporation.

6. ... Until 1970, American immigrants did better than the natives - as any sane immigration policy would require. They made more money, bought more houses, and were more educated. By contrast, the post-1970 immigrants are far more likely to be unemployed and live in poverty that the native Americans. More that a third of the post-Kennedy act immigrants don't even have a high school diploma. ... In some bizarre notion of turn-about-is-fair-play, it is assumed that backward societies have the right to relocate to the countries of their former colonizers. I thought they hated those guys (the colonizers)? ... In just a few decades, Minnesota has gone from being approximately, 99 percent German, Dutch, Finnish, Danish, and Polish to 20 percent African immigrant, including at least one hundred thousand Somalis. And that's not counting the Somalis who have recently left the country to fight with al Queda and ISIS. One hundred thousand is just an estimate. We don't know precisely how many Somalis the federal government has brought in as "refugees" because the government won't tell us. ... Kate Towle, the parent leader of a high school group called "Students Together as Allies for Racial Trust" explained that diversity skills "have to be developed like math, history." Maybe it would be better for students to be learning math and history, rather than the important skill of getting along with Somalis. It doesn't seem to be working anyway. There are still violent ethnic brawls that send students to the hospital. What did we do to Somalis? ... absolutely nothing. But now these immigrants, who arrived yesterday, will get affirmative action over white Americans. ... Luckily, every Somali in Minnesota who has a job works for an ethnic grievance outfit - for example, the Somali Justice Advocacy Center, the Somali Resources Aid Associates, the African Development Center, and the Confederation of Somali Community in Minnesota. (And those are just some of the jobs being created by immigrants!). ... half of Somalis in Minnesota unemployed and 80 percent living at or below the poverty level... Recent mass murders committed by legal immigrants: The seven people murdered by Chechen immigrants Dzhokhar and Tamerlan Tsarnaev, who planted a bomb at the Boston Marathon, the four people fatally shot in a Carson City IHOP by... the Mexican-born Eduardo Sencion, the thirteen soldiers killed at Fort Hood by Major Nidal Malik Hasan, son of Palestinian immigrants, the thirteen people murdered by Vietnamese immigrant Jiverly Wong, at an American Civic Association in Binghamton, New York, the thirty-two people murdered at Virginia Tech by Seung-Hui Cho, a South Korean immigrant.... no one notices the immigrant crime wave because the media hide the evidence.

8. When did Americans get together and decide we want 30 percent of all immigrants to be from a single country and that country should be Mexico? If we're going to take almost all our immigrants from a single country, why not Denmark? There appears to have been only on Danish prisoner in New York State in decades - and, again, that was a Muslim. ...nearly 90 percent (of criminal aliens imprisoned in the states in 2009) were from one of eight countries: Mexico, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Cuba, Jamaica, El Salvador, Honduras, and Guatemala. ... What other country on earth would be so stupid? We have studies showing Hispanics are underrepresented in Hollywood, at top colleges, in the federal government, and in the national media... You know where else Hispanics are underrepresented? In the US military. You'd never know it... but Hispanics are half as likely to enlist in the military as either whites or blacks. ... Hispanic males in the US are more than three times as likely to spend time in prison in their lifetimes than white males. ... The vast majority of all drugs in America - heroin, cocaine, marijuana, and increasingly, methamphetamine - are brought in from Mexico. Most of the heroin sold in the US is grown south of the border, and Mexican cartels transport nearly all of it. ... More than 40,000 Americans were killed from all illegal drug use in 2010, surpassing car accidents and shootings as a cause of death. ... Today, China is once again battling drug smuggling because like America, it also has a poor, corrupt nation with a massive humanitarian crisis on its border; Not Mexico, but North Korea. Guess what China did? It built a fence! Despite stern warnings from the New York Times, China put a thirteen-foot barbed wire fence on its border, patrolled by armed guards. And you know what, it's working! ... Is an American citizen more likely to be murdered by a Muslim terrorist or by a Mexican? According to CNN, 29 Americans have been killed in Islamic terrorist attacks in the US since 9/11. I don't know why they excluded 9/11, so by my count, it's 3,029. In fact, let's round it up to 4,000 to cover the last several decades. According to the GAO's extremely conservative figures, Mexicans alone - forget other immigrants - have murdered a minimum of 23,000 Americans in the last few decades. ... If this were happening in Israel, forget a fence - Netanyahu would be bombing Mexico. ... President Eisenhower put a general in charge of the INS, who proceeded to round up and deport illegals in an operation dubbed "Operation Wetback." HBO's Bill Maher would be saying of our southern neighbors: "Americans have 349 Nobel Prizes; Latin Americans have 16. That seems like kind of a big advantage for Team America." ... Far more Americans are murdered by Mexicans, per capita, than Israelis are murdered by Palestinians. 11. The three young girls kidnapped and held as sex slaves for more than a decade in a boarded-up house in Cleveland had been held by Ariel Castro. ... But then it turned out Castro wasn't the only Hispanic raping young girls - on his block. ... While investigating the Castro case, detectives happened upon Acevedo... he had raped and killed two of his neighbors...

Chandra Levy's killer turned out not to be Democratic Congressman Gary Condit, but Ingmar Guandique - an illegal alien from El Salvador, given temporary amnesty by President Bush. (Does that guy have any brothers? I'd love to see another one like him in the White House!). The one Central Park rapist that even liberals admit was guilty was Hispanic Matias Reyes. After the other attackers had finished with the victim, Reyes came across the joggers beaten and bloody body, and raped her himself.

12. ... environmentalists used to care about gridlock, overcrowding, loss of parkland, and exhaustion of natural resources. Not anymore. Today's environmentalists turn a blind eye as 25 million people tramp through delicate ecosystems, set fire to national parks, kill livestock, dump tons of soiled diapers and Pepsi bottles in the desert, and deface ancient Native American sites. Political correctness demands that no one notice immigrants' toll on the environment. ... Of the 77 human-caused fires on federal or tribal land in Arizona between 2006 and 2010 investigated by the GAO, a cause could be determined in 60 cases. Fully half of those were caused by illegal aliens. ...One of the reasons the GAO was able to review only 77 fires was that the BLM and the Forest Service couldn't spare any agents for investigations. They were too busy protecting 'firefighters and their equipment from illegal aliens.' Apparently, when illegals see border patrol agents, they try to distract them by throwing lighted matches in the brush to start fires. Not only do illegal immigrants intentionally set wildfires, but they violently attack firefighters trying to extinguish the blazes. Firies are allowed to rage, because fire crews are forced to wait for law enforcement protection. ... The Forest Service had once gamely suggested trying to identify 'the group most likely to start fires,' but once the evidence was in, they buried it. To blame illegal aliens would be playing the 'blame the perpetrator' game. ... Because of new border restrictions after 9/11 - I guess it was possible to tighten the borders! - our dear friends in Mexico moved their drug cartel operations directly into America's parks. ... 'These guys shoot people'... Armed illegal aliens were in control of our national parks, so government officials leapt to action by shutting down the parks. A majority of Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument was closed to US citizens for more than a decade because it was too dangerous.

... For a glimpse into America's future, consider how Mexicans treat their own environment. In Mexico's most famous national park, a ten-thousand-year-old evergreen forest designated by presidential decree as a biosphere reserve, illegal loggers chop down about seventy mature tress a day... While environmentalists from around the world send millions of dollars to Mexico preserve the forest... For decades, Mexican refuse ended up on San Diego's world-famous beaches by way of the Tijuana River. ... One solution would have been for Mexicans to stop throwing their garbage in the river. ... Instead, US taxpayers funded a sewage treatment plant on the border at a cost of $239.4 million. Mexico chipped in $17 million. ... Where are the environmentalists? For 50 years, they've been carrying on about overpopulation; promoting family planning, birth control... The Sierra Club began sounding the alarm over the country's expanding population in 1965 - the very year Teddy Kennedy's immigration act passed - and in 1978, adopted a resolution expressly asking Congress to 'conduct a thorough examination of US immigration laws.' For a while, the Club taked about almost nothing else. "It is obvious" the Club said two years later, "that the numbers of immigrants the US accepts affects our population size and growth rate," even more than 'the number of children per family.

Over the next three decades, America took in tens of millions of legal immigrants and illegal aliens alike. But suddenly, about ten years ago, the Sierra Cub realized to its embarrassment that importing multiple millions of polluting, fire-setting, littering immigrants is actually fantastic for the environment! The advantages of overpopulation dawned on the Sierra Club right after it received a $100 million donation from hedge fund billionaire David Gelbaum with the express stipulation that - as he told the LA Times - 'if they ever came out anti-immigration, they would never get a dollar from me.' It would be as if someone offered the Catholic Church $100 million to be pro-abortion. But the Sierra Club said: Sure! Did you bring the check? Obviously, there's no reason to listen to them on anything.

... Not only did the Sierra Club never again say another word against immigration, but, in 2004, it went the extra mile, denouncing three actuals environmentalists running for the Club's board, by claiming they were racists who opposed mass immigration. The three 'white supremacists' were Dick Lamm, the three-time Democratic governor of Colorado; Frank Morris, former head of the Black Congressional Caucus Foundation; and Cornell professor David Pimentel, who created the first ecology course at the university... America's premiere hate group, the Southern Poverty Law Center, jumped into the fray, with multimillionaire con man and SPLC head Morris Dees running for the Sierra Club board simply to smear the three real environmentalist candidates... But, evidently, what poor Southerners need most is a massive influx of foreign poor people competing for their jobs. ... In 2012, Sierra Club executive director Michael Brune announced that the Club officially supported mass immigration - amnesty, no borders, more legal immigration, the whole nine yards.

13. Normally, (Carlos) slim is the kind of businessman the (NY) Times - along with every other sentient human being - would find repugnant. Frequently listed as the richest man in the world, Slim acquired his fortune through a corrupt inside deal giving him a monopoly on telecommunications services in Mexico. But in order to make money from his monopoly, Slim needs lots of Mexicans living in the US, sending money to their relatives back in Oaxaca. Otherwise, Mexicans couldn't pay him - and they wouldn't have much need for phone service, either, other than to call in ransom demands. Back in 2004, before the Times became Slim's pimp - a Times article stated: "Clearly... the nation's southern border is under siege." But that was before Carlos Slim saved the Times from bankruptcy. Ten years later, with a border crisis even worse that in 2004, and Latin America pouring across the border, the Times indignantly demanded the Obama "go big" on immigration and give "millions of immigrants permission to stay". ...

Republicans are terrified of saying anything about immigration for fear of being called 'racist.' ... The fact that most immigrants are Hispanic provides excellent cover for the elite's monumental self-interest. Here's a tip for the GOP: Don't talk about the illegal aliens. Talk about Carlos Slim, Talk about rich Americans finding a solution to 'the servant problem.' Talk about one-hit wonder Mark Zuckerberg underpaying his computer programmers while 32 percent of American graduates in STEM fields can't get job and the rest haven't seen their salaries rise for more than a decade. Talk about how Bill Clinton couldn't find someone to be his attorney general because of the prevalence of illegal alien employees in households of the '1 percent'. Determined to appoint a woman attorney general, Clinton kept producing women with illegal alien nannies (Zoe Baird, Kimba Wood). ... The elites just can't grasp that most Americans raise their own kids, make their own beds, cook their own food, and drive their own cars. ... America will be Brazil, with a well-pampered, itty-bitty upper class, amid an ocean of poor people. ... It's a sweet deal the elites have: They get to have cheap nannies and lawn boys in the whitest towns in America - and feel morally superior at the same time!

14. The vast majority of all legal immigrants - two thirds- get in on "family reunification" policies each year. In other words, America has no say about the single largest category of immigrants... Entire villages from Pakistan are dumped on the country, based not on their expertise in nuclear engineering, but because everyone in the village is related to the first guy who got in. If they're not, in the strict sense, related, they'll lie. In 2008, the State Department suspended the family reunification part of the African refugee program because DNA testing showed that only 20 percent of 'family members' were actually related. We'll still take as many refugees from Africa, but they won't have to lie about being related anymore. ... The special agricultural amnesty of 1986 is a good example of how even the most reasonable-sounding immigration law will inevitably be turned into a pipeline for criminals, welfare cases, and terrorists. ... illegal alien farmworkers who could prove they had done seasonal farmwork for a total of ninety days between May 1, 1985 and May 1, 1986, would be granted temporary legal status. what could go wrong? In the first three years of the program, 888,637 agricultural amnesty applications were identified as fraudulent - but only 60,637 of those were denied. Overwhelmed with amnesty applications under just this one provision, the INS found it to be a big time-saver to simply ignore fraud. ... Mohammed Salameh, another terrorist convicted in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing, was also in the US because of Schumer's special agricultural worker amnesty. The unskilled 19-year-old first came to the US on a tourist visa because, as the US consulate later explained, someone in the office "took a chance" on Mohammed. Mohammed not only had never worked on a farm, but he was not even in the country until 1988, two years after the special amnesty became law, though it was explicitly limited to those who had worked on farms in the US in the year before May 1, 1986. By the most basic definition of the law, Mohammed was not eligible, but he was allowed to stay in the US and obtain a work visa - while the INS processed his petition. Moving with the lightning speed of a government agency, the INS rejected his petition for amnesty as a farm worker three years later. Then, Mohammed applied for a general amnesty, claiming he had been living continuously in the US from 1980 to 1986. Actually, he was a teenager in Jordan then, but again, Mohammed was allowed to stay while the INS considered his request. As it considering, Mohammed bombed the World Trade Center.

How about all those brainy, high-tech H-!B immigrants that Senator Orrin Hatch keeps telling us about? ... the cheap-labor advocacy group Partnership for a New American Economy excitedly tweeted that two - yes two - of the five LindedIn founders were "born in Europe"!... Here's my counter tweet: 98.7% fo the founders of important Silicon Valley companies were born in America! 99 percent are white men! ... Professor Norman Matloff: 'The vast majority of H-1B's, including those hired from US universities, are ordinary people doing ordinary work, not the best and the brightest. On the contrary, the average quality of the H-1Bs is lower that theat of the Americans. ... The main advantage of foreign labor over native workers, Matloff explains, is aht H-1B workers are indentured servants: They can't quit without risking deportation. so American employers get to pay less for standard computer programming work. ... They want cheap people. Mass-immigration advocates push ethnic stereotypes about high-IQ immigrants, but then go crazy whenever anyone suggests we actually bring in high-IQ immigrants. ... The average Indian IQ is staggeringly low: 82. That's about the same as the average IQ in Afghanistan - 84; Panama - 84; Dominican Republic - 82; Paraguay - 84; Yemen - 85; and Tonga - 86. We take more immigrants from India than from Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Sweden, Switzerland, Spain, and the Czech Republic put together. Why are we discriminating...? The answer is: Because those immigrants would tend to fill the kinds of jobs rich people have.

15. The only thing that stands between America and oblivion is a total immigration moratorium. ... It's evident that the government can't be trusted to use three brain cells in admitting immigrants, so its discretion has to be completely revoked. No matter how clearly laws are written, government bureaucrats connive to confer citizenship on people that a majority of Americans would not want to let in as tourists, much less as our fellow citizens. ... No other fix will work. Congress could just insist that immigrants pay taxes, learn English, not collect welfare, and have good moral character, except the problem is: It already has. All those laws were swept away by INS officials, judges, and Democratic administrations. Doing it again won't produce a different result. ... Even if we could trust the government on immigration - and we can't - there are the legions of immigration lawyers, lobbyists, nonprofits, and general miscreants whose single-minded mission is to turn America into the Third World hellhole of liberal fantasies. ... The billion-dollar immigration industry has turned every single aspect of immigration law into an engine of fraud. The family reunifications are frauds, the 'farmworkers' are frauds, the high-tech visas are frauds - and the asylum and refugee cases are monumental frauds. ... the only result of our asylum policies is that we get good liars. Taxpayers subsidize sleazy immigration activists who coach immigrants to lie to immigration officials. Document mills produce phony passports, school records, and medical reports. ... immigration judges approve 92 percent of all "credible fear" asylum applications.

16. ... if Romney had won 71 percent of the Hispanic vote in 2012, instead of 27 percent, he still would have lost. On the other hand, had he won just 4 percent more of the white vote, he would have won.

17. America's suicidal immigration policies are the single biggest threat facing the nation. What happens with immigration will determine whether America continues to exist or becomes a Third World republic...

Mayor Goodman,
I was disappointed to watch you on your KCLV show Friday evening supporting illegal aliens. Worse yet was the inclusion of two guests, both of who were also advocates of illegal aliens. Wouldn't it have been fair to host an equal amount of speakers in opposition? Is the care and feeding of illegal aliens a part of the city charter? I doubt it. We need the illegal immigrants to return to their native countries. Your positions lure more of them here and encourage them to stay. Why don't you start looking out for US citizens first? Don't you realize that the reason people from third world countries sneak into the US is ultimately because they can't stand being around other third world people. Plenty of skilled people from developed countries are waiting patiently for admission to the US. Is it fair to reward those whose very first act into this county is illegal? You can disguise the problem by saying they are fleeing high crime rates, violence, rotten economy... but this deception hides the real reason. Why would you want to turn us into a third world country? If you feel so concerned about them, there is an easy solution: move to a third world country to help them where they are.

Please read:

The Immigration Solution, by MacDonald, Hansen & Malanga

While the cheapness of the immigrants' labor may benefit a very few industries and provide some upper and le-class families with cut-rate gardeners and nannies, it adds very little to our national standard of living. On the other side of the ledger, the costs these immigrants impose on US taxpayers for health care, schooling, welfare, and (all too often) incarceration far outweigh the benefits they offer. In California, the National Academy of Sciences found immigrant families cost each native-born household an additional $1,200 in taxes per year. Although a net loss for the US, such workers are an unalloyed boon for Mexico. Their ability to find work north of the border is an essential safety valve for Mexico's failed economy and stubbornly unreformed political culture, and the remittances these workers send home are indispensable to Mexico, constituting its second largest source of hard currency. No wonder the Mexican government – especially through its consuls in the US – vigorously fosters the illegal migration of its nationals into its northern neighbor. … But those earlier huddled masses of immigrants yearning to breathe free, however tired and poor they may have looked, were in fact on average more skilled than the native-born population of a century ago. In addition, the less-developed economy of that era also had a vastly greater need for immigrants without skills than does today's knowledge economy. More important, the US immigration system of that period was a machine for selecting the most enterprising and energetic migrants. With no welfare system whatever, those who came were those who thought they could make use of the opportunity and freedom America offered by their own efforts. Grateful for the chance, these newcomers were only too glad to assimilate to their new land as best they could, and their children did so wholeheartedly. Not so today. The first child born in America to an immigrant entitles his or her family to child-only welfare payments – a hefty-looking sum to a recent migrants from a peasant village. … Deprived of work, illegals would return home, just as 60 percent of immigrants from the first great migration eventually left these shores when they couldn't make it here. ...our new policy should select newcomers not because they are someone's brother or adult child or elderly parents, or because they successfully sneaked into the country some years ago, but because they have some special skill... that will enrich our nation. … Thousands arrive illegally from Mexico into California each year... They come in such numbers because a tacit alliance of Right and Left has created an open-borders policy, aimed at keeping wage labor cheap and social problems ever fresh, so that the ministrations of Chicano studies professors, La Raza activists, and all the other self-appointed defenders of group causes will never be unneeded. … nearly one quarter of California's inmates are aliens from Mexico. The pro-labor left found that the industrious new arrivals whom it championed eroded the wages of its own domestic low wage constituencies - the Labor Department attributes 50 percent of real-wage declines to the influx of cheap immigrant labor. … when I was ten, in 1963, all suburbanites mowed their own lawns – many with push mowers. Now almost everyone hires the job out. Nannies for toddlers and grannies, unheard of then, are now ubiquitous... Rural schools used to begin in mid-September to ensure that we natives could pick grapes to earn our school clothes and shoes. Today not a single student in California would do such hot, dirty work, now considered demeaning. … So we allow illegal aliens to obtain California driver's licenses – the foundation for all other means of legal identification – and to pay reduced in-state tuition at the University of California, thereby providing several thousand dollars in discounts not available to American citizens from out of state. Whether you break the law to reach California or immigrate legally, it makes little difference in how you drive, send your kids to college, or draw on the public services of the state. … I often suggest to teachers who tell aliens that our culture is racist, exploitative, and sexist that they should live in Mexico themselves to fathom why millions are dying to obtain what they so casually dismiss.

… America does not have a vast labor shortage that requires waves of low wage immigrants to alleviate; in fact, unemployment among native-born unskilled workers in high – consistently about double the nations' overall unemployment rate. … an unusual coalition of business groups, unions, civil rights activists, and church leaders thwarted the call for restrictions with passage of the inaptly names 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act, which legalized some 2.7 million unauthorized aliens already here, supposedly in exchange for tougher penalties and controls against employers who hired illegals. The law proved no deterrent, however, because supporters, in subsequent legislation and court cases argued on civil rights grounds, weakened the employer sanctions. Meanwhile more illegals flooded here in the hope of future amnesties from Congress, while the newly legalized sneaked their wives and children into the country rather than have them wait for family-preference visas. The flow of illegals into the country rose to between 300,000 and 500,000 per year in the 1990's, so that a decade after the legislation that had supposedly solved the undocumented alien problem by reclassifying them as legal, the number of illegals living in the US was back up to about 5 million. … In many American industries, waves of low-wage workers have also retarded investments that might lead to modernization and efficiency. Farming, which employs a million immigrant laborers in California alone, is the prime case in point. Faced with a labor shortage in the early 1960's, when President Kennedy ended a 22-year-old guest-worker program that allowed 45,000 Mexican farm hands to cross over the border and harvest 2.2 million tons of California tomatoes for processed foods, farmers complained but swiftly automated, adopting a mechanical tomato-picking technology created more than a decade earlier. Today, just 5,000 better-paid workers – one-ninth the original workforce – harvest 12 million tons of tomatoes using the machines. The savings prompted by low-wage migrants may even be minimal in crops not easily mechanized. … If the benefits of the current generation of migrants are small, the costs are large and growing because of America's vast range of social programs and the wide advocacy network that strives to hook low-earning legal and illegal immigrants into these programs. A 1998 Nationals Academy of Sciences study found that more than 30 percent of California's foreign-born were on Medicaid... compared with 14 percent of native –born households. The foreign-born were more than twice as likely as the native-born to be on welfare, and their children were nearly five times as likely to be in means-tested government lunch programs. Native-born households pay for much of this, the study found, because they earn more and pay higher taxes – and are more likely to comply with tax laws. Recent immigrants, by comparison, have much lower levels of income and tax compliance.

... This call for 'human rights' is a clever one, for it hides its radical status in a rhetorical safe harbor. What, exactly, are the 'human rights' that the US is denying illegal aliens? They have unfettered access to free medical care, free education, welfare for their children, free representation in court when they commit crimes, every due process protection during criminal prosecution that the Constitution guarantees citizens and legal immigrants, the shelter of labor laws, and the miracles of modern industrial society like clean water, the control of infectious diseases (including the ones they bring with them), and plumbing. The only putative 'right' they lack - and that, of course, is the 'human right' to which they and their ambassadors refer - is the right to legal status regardless of illegal entry. ....

No one will take the assurance that 'this time we mean business' seriously. If the executive branch is not willing to enforce the current law against violators, a new set of laws will not suddenly strengthen its resolve... border defenses have been fortified over the years, but the drill has been: if you can get past the border patrol, you are home free. The most important action the government could take to end illegal immigration would be to penalize employers that unlawfully hire illegal aliens... After 9/11, the department of Homeland Security deported fifteen hundred illegal Pakistanis. An additional fifteen thousand then left voluntarily, reports Jessica Vaughan of the Center for Immigration Studies. There is no reason to think this enforcement-through-attrition strategy won't work as well for Hispanic illegals.

It would be useful for open-borders optimists to spend some time in the Los Angeles Unified School District, which is 73 percent Hispanic, and where just 40 percent of Hispanic students graduate. (Nationwide, 53 percent of Hispanics graduate from high school...) Of those Hispanic students who do graduate, just 22 percent have completed the course work necessary for admission to a four-year state college - which means that of all Hispanic students who enter in ninth grade, fewer than 15 percent will graduate ready for college. Immigrant advocates have fiercely opposed in court a long-deferred California high school exit exam, which would require students to answer just over 50 percent of questions testing eight-grade-level math and ninth-grade-level English. The California Research Bureau predicts that if the exam becomes a reality, Hispanic graduation rates would drop well below 30 percent. ... Schools spend huge sums trying to improve the Hispanic graduation rate, even hiring 'outreach consultants' for dropout prevention. One Santa Ana consultant's approach is predictably multicultural. "We need to teach teachers that students need to be proud of where they are coming from," she told me. But, of course, Hispanic school failure derives not from ethnic neglect - the Sana Ana schools glorify the Hispanic heritage to a fault...
...a high level of immigration translates to increased levels of crime. Between the foreign-born generation and their American children, the incarceration rate of Mexican American jumps more than eightfold...
Pro-amnesty forces promote that illegal immigrants "risk everything for the dream of freedom"... However lousy the Mexican economy, there are few, if any, political freedoms enjoyed by Americans that Mexico denies. It is the Yankee dollar, not untasted freedom, that brings the vast majority of illegals here.

...in spring 2006 American witnessed millions of illegal aliens who not only were unapologetic about their illegal status but were demanding that their hosts accommodate their own political grievances, from providing driver's licenses to full amnesty. The largest demonstrations - held on May Day, with thousands of protesters waving Mexican flags and bearing placards depicting the Communist insurrectionist Che Guevara - only confirmed to most Americans that illegal immigration was out of control and beginning to become politicized along the lines of Latin American radicalism. I chronicled in Mexifornia the anomaly of angry protesters waving he flag of the country they vehemently did not wish to return to , but now the evening news beamed these images to millions. In short, the radical socialism of Latin America, seething in the angry millions who flocked to support Venezuela's Hugo Chavez, Bolivia's Evo Morales, and Mexico's Andres Lopez Obrador, had now seemingly been imported into our own largest cities. ...

Crippled America

We are the only nation in the world whose immigration system places the needs of other nations ahead of our own. … Too many people have forgotten the Mariel boatlift. … The Mexican government has published pamphlets explaining how to illegally emigrate to the US. … It's a great way for those governments to get rid of their worst people without paying any price.... Operation Wetback... was successful. It was a joint effort between the INS and the Mexican government. Special immigration teams were created to quickly process and deport illegal immigrants. One of the reasons it worked is that people who were caught were given to Mexican government agents, who moved them into central Mexico, where they could find jobs. ...In the first year, more than one million people were sent back. ...Why should we absorb the expense of keeping criminals in prisons? Let their countries of origin deal with the problems they sent us. If they refuse to take them back, we can stop issuing visas to those countries, preventing their citizens from legally visiting the US. I also would triple the number of immigration officers we currently employ until the wall is built. … Currently there are about 5,000 officers attempting to enforce the existing immigration laws against the more than 11 million illegal aliens. Compare that to the... 35,000 officers in the New York Police Department. Since 9/11 we have tripled the size of the border patrol but haven't substantially increased the number of ICE officers – the officers who enforce immigration laws. … We have to cut off federal grants to sanctury cities... We need to have real penalties for people who overstay their visas. … Most important is ending or curtailing so-called birthright citizenship, or anchor babies. … It is estimated that about 300,000 of these children are born here annually. That's 300,000 children who are entitled to all the rights and privileges granted to American citizens because their mothers entered this country illegally... There are businesses that specialize in making this happen! They call it 'birth tourism'…. And those people take advantage of the system and come here illegally should never enjoy the benefits of being a resident – or citizen – of this nation. So, I am against any path to citizenship for undocumented workers or anyone else who is in this country illegally. They should – and need to – go home and get in line. And you know who agrees with me? The Mexicans, the Chinese, and all the people from other countries who want to be here legally and can't get a visa or fit into a quota... We can be generous and do all of this humanely. But the security and prosperity of American citizens have to come first. .. (Chapter 3)

I believe in putting the needs of American citizens first, always.... There's an old phrase that, sadly, you rarely hear anymore, "Made in America". We will start saying this again. (Chap. 10)

This dispatch prepared for .

DAYS UNTIL EARLY VOTING BEGINS IN NEVADA: 4

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 21

Good morning, everyone. Donald Trump's ongoing, reckless chatter about a "rigged" election should disturb everyone, regardless of party affiliation. It's inimical to a democratic system of government to try to destroy the public's faith in elections, especially with zero evidence. I assume that's why Secretary of State Barbara Cegavske is calling a presser this morning with the Nevada Election Integrity Task Force. I hope they all lambaste him in no uncertain terms.

I was on KTNV last night wrapping up the stadium deal. You can also see the interview there I did with CD3 hopeful Jacky Rosen. (Danny Tarkanian has been unresponsive.)

COMING UP
Donald Trump, Jr., is in Reno. We. Kinda. Matter.

A COUPLE OF STATE SENATE RACE NUGGETS
Nugget No. 1 – Disclosure reports are due today, and I've learned that the state Senate Democratic candidates are setting records. To wit:

Nevada Senate Democrats:

CE3 - $280,026.25

Total Raised this Cycle - $831,843.20

Joyce Woodhouse:

CE3 - $277,582.88

Total Raised this Cycle - $616,833.49

Nicole Cannizzaro:

CE3 - $293,257.16

Total Raised this Cycle - $517,828.72

Devon Reese:

CE3 - $236,064.43

Total Raised this Cycle - $392,115.30

That means all three could win, but they will need some luck and….down-ticket Trump Effect.

Nugget No. 2 – It's not as if Democrats have not gotten the two southern districts to a place where they can win. Registration closes later today, but here is a comparison:

SD5

Raw Vote Democrats over Republicans: 3,475

Dem Adv. 5.38 percent

Raw Vote Democrats over Republicans: 3,956

Dem Adv. 5.59 percent

Raw Vote Democrats over Republicans:: 4,803

Dem Adv. 7.12 percent

Raw Vote Democrats over Republicans: 5,253

A QUARTET OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – I mentioned this on Twitter, but the $2.8 million raised by the state GOP is not only impressive, but also shows the mimickry of the state Democratic Party: Using the partisan apparatus as a legalized money-laundering operation for big national money. But there are lots of local contributors, too, including usual gaming suspects.

Nugget No. 2 – The Culinary union is taking full advantage of the debate attention by putting Trump Las Vegas workers in the spotlight and brilliantly building a wall of taco trucks around his hotel (TV ready!).

Nugget No. 3 – WikiLeaks shows this great Clinton campaign discussion about Harry Reid.

Nugget No. 4 – The NRCC is going all out to beat Ruben Kihuen, the latest is this ad, an exemplar of the over the top, guilt by association innuendo you expect a few days before early voting begins.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

At the turn of the last century, late 1800s to early 1900s, short to medium distance transportation was provided by either train or stage coach throughout Nevada. The first automobile, in the southern Nevada mining camps, arrived at Goldfield, NV on August 10, 1904. It was a 16 horsepower Rambler. The Rambler needed 3 hours to cover the distance between Goldfield and Tonopah, NV on the stage coach roads. In the early 1900s, automobiles were too expensive for the average Nevadan, but transportation companies used them to compete with the stage lines. On October 18, 1904, the Tonopah-Goldfield Auto Company was incorporated to provide automobile transportation between the two main camps of the day. By 1905, they merged with a competitor to become the Nevada Mobile Transit Company. Routes were extended southward to the Bullfrog Mining District, including Rhyolite, NV, and other mining camps, such as Manhattan, NV. An automobile route was added from Rhyolite to Las Vegas, NV as well. Because early cars could not carry many passengers, the cost of the tickets were higher than the alternative modes of transportation. In 1905, the fare between Tonopah and Goldfield, 30 miles, was about $6.00, while the trip from Las Vegas to Rhyolite demanded a $40 fare ($40 is over $900 in today's dollars). In May of 1905, it took the automobile service 10 hours to drive from Las Vegas to Rhyolite, 120 miles using the wagon roads. Breakdowns were not uncommon, and there was no AAA back then.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

One more try with hints: One was an ex-governor of an eastern state,the other of a Midwest state: On this day in history, a former governor held a rally and a fundraiser in Las Vegas. He was joined at the rally by a then-governor of another state and a current lieutenant governor, who also attended the fundraiser later. The fundraiser was co-hosted by a former first lady and a current congressman. Name all of the players.

Monday's winner: No one

Regs For Small Commercial Drones Finalized By FAA

The Federal Aviation Administration on Tuesday finalized its long-awaited rule on the routine commercial use of small unmanned aircraft systems, or drones, aiming to make the regulations flexible enough to accommodate expected future innovations while also reining in rogue drone use through strict enforcement.

ANALYSIS

FAA OKs Small Drones But Leaves Big Questions Hovering

The Federal Aviation Administration's new rule clearing the skies for the commercial use of small unmanned aircraft systems provides operators with long-sought flexibility to fly drones, experts say, but myriad still-forbidden activities and unanswered questions surrounding privacy and safety concerns mean additional regulations are still on the horizon.

EPA's 40-Year Battle For Water Cooling Regs: A Cheat Sheet

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's thus-far unsuccessful attempt to regulate how existing power plants and factories suck in water to cool their machinery is one of the longest-running environmental rulemakings, dating back to 1976 and leading to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling in 2009. Now that the legal battle is flaring up again at the Second Circuit, Law360 provides a cheat sheet on what's at stake and the key developments so far.

Commerce Seeks To Make Export Violation Penalties Clearer

The U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Industry and Security issued a final rule Tuesday revising the factors it uses when deciding whether to settle allegations of Export Administration Regulations violations and how it sets penalties for violations, saying the rule is intended to make penalties clearer and easier to predict.

BANKRUPTCY

Puerto Rico Bondholders Sue To Nix Debt Moratorium Law

Several Puerto Rico bondholders filed a lawsuit Tuesday in New York federal court to invalidate an emergency law enacted by the commonwealth in April that gives its governor the power to halt debt payments, arguing the measure is unconstitutional.

IMMIGRATION

4th Circ. Tosses Long Sentence In US Re-Entry Case

The Fourth Circuit vacated a Mexican national's five-year prison sentence for illegally re-entering the U.S., saying Tuesday a district court erred in concluding that the man's prior aggravated assault conviction constituted a crime of violence under the sentencing guidelines.

NATIVE AMERICAN

DOI Says It Can't Settle County's Boundary Row With Tribe

The U.S. Department of the Interior urged a federal judge Monday to toss a Washington county's suit over the agency's alleged refusal to make a decision on whether a tract of land rests within the Yakama Nation's reservation, saying the county is improperly seeking to resolve its boundary row with the tribe.

Oregon, Enviros, Tribe Oppose Feds' Salmon Plan Schedule

The National Wildlife Federation, the state of Oregon, and the Nez Perce Tribe on Friday asked a federal judge to reject the U.S. government's proposed timeline for an analysis of salmon health on the Columbia River as too slow, and pushed for a faster review.

Pennsylvania Attorney General Kathleen Kane's bid to escape criminal charges for alleged grand jury leaks due to what she believes is a biased prosecution was denied by a state judge Monday, advancing the high-profile case closer to a trial in August.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Highlights From SEC Plan To Overhaul Mining Disclosures

A U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission proposal announced last week would require mining companies to publicly disclose extensive information — some of it proprietary and some forward-looking — which will raise important issues of confidentiality and liability, say attorneys with Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton LLP.

What To Know About DOL's Contractor Discrimination Regs

New regulations from the U.S. Department of Labor will shape the way the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs interprets and enforces Executive Order 11246, which prohibits federal contractors and subcontractors from engaging in discrimination on the basis of sex, among other protected categories. Attorneys at Fox Rothschild LLP detail federal contractor best practices for meeting the new nondiscrimination obligations.

FWS Proposes, Again, To Issue 30-Year Eagle Act Permits

The proposed changes to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Eagle Act permitting program are likely to be welcomed by applicants. However, the amendments would introduce some uncertainty for holders of long-term permits, say Keith Garner and Khyati Dalal at Sheppard Mullin Richter & Hampton LLP.

NY Fantasy Sports Law May Face Constitutional Roadblock

The months-long legislative battle to legalize daily fantasy sports in New York mercifully ended last week with the passage of NY Senate Bill 8153 nearly 12 hours after the New York Assembly passed an identical version of the DFS bill. But that does not necessarily mean that DFS has cleared its final legal hurdle in New York, says Daniel Wallach of Becker & Poliakoff PA.

EPA Great Lakes Plan Greatly Contrasts Chesapeake Bay

Following the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's success in defending its Chesapeake Bay plan, the Mississippi River Basin or the Great Lakes could be the next target of a regional total maximum daily load strategy. However, federal funding through the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative may incentivize land users to act voluntarily, alleviating the need for federal TMDL intervention, says Erik Lange at Squire Patton Boggs LLP.

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 376

Good morning, everyone. Last night's GOP debate, in case you missed it, was mostly the candidates attacking the moderators, the moderators not controlling the debate and Marco Rubio showing why the Democrats fear him the most. Ted Cruz also has the potential to ascend, as I have said for weeks, and he did very well. Not sure what Jeb's strategy was, but he got creamed in the the confrontation with Rubio that will linger. Sure, Chris Christie did well, but does that matter? Ben Carson was low energy, misleading (about his involvement with a diet supplement company) and seemed lost at times. Maybe the biggest news: Donald who? Can't wait for Vegas on Dec. 15 at Sheldon's place.

The gaming numbers are out.

Four RGJ veterans are retiring this week. Nevada journalism will not be the same. Guy Clifton took a picture.

What's below: House vote nuggets, Fiore's gun theory and a trivia question about a gaming pioneer.

COMING UP

Ted Cruz is in Nevada today, ready to bask in the debate afterglow.

A COUPLE OF HOUSE VOTE NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Rep. Joe Heck's vote against the debt ceiling, while it mirrors a vote he cast in 2014, is hard not to put in the context of a potential Sharron Angle challenge. Heck's explanation was not surprising, as he said in part: "Yet this budget bill suspends the debt limit, giving the President a blank check until 2017, without making the significant reforms necessary to reduce spending and address the major drivers of our nearly $18.5 trillion debt." I still don't think Angle will be a factor unless she gets a lot of money –hello, buyer's remorse. But everything from now on will be seen through the prism of politics.

(By the way, noted pundit Danny Tarkanian was on conservative talk radio Wednesday and said he had heard Angle was getting in as early as this weekend and that Michele Fiore (see below) was getting in soon to the race he is in, CD3. It does not appear that Tarkanian put such pronouncements through any rigorous journalism standards. But that would be the answer to all of my 2016 prayers.)

Nugget No. 2 – Interesting chart published by The Cook Political Report showing votes on bipartisan bills in 2015 and divided the House into various factions based on how many times out of five the GOP member voted for the bill. Nevada's delegation:

Mark Amodei, "The Helpers," those who voted for three of the five measures

Joe Heck, "The Allies," those who voted for four of the five measures

Cresent Hardy, "The Dependables," those who voted for all five.

HEY, TED, HERE'S ONE OF YOUR SUPPORTERS

As Ted Cruz campaigns in Nevada today, I wonder if he realizes that one of his elected supporters, the one and only Michele Fiore, has been saying a lot about guns this month in the wake of the Oregon shooting, including her obsession with psychotropic drugs. First, there was this blog post. And what hasn't received any attention is how she followed up this month on a conservative podcast. Hey, senator, THIS is Michele Fiore (I've heard the audio):

Host: "You know, Michele, you were saying we need to make some real big moves on actual psychotropic drugs.

Fiore: "Now looking at this. When you look at this particular situation here's where you have this kid who lives with his mom who is on public assistance. Most likely has an Obama free phone and an Obama free this and an Obama free Education, free everything! Free Drugs! Okay, so obviously heavily medicated with tax payers dollars and where did he get the guns? So if they are on public assistance and he's got 13 guns is there some kind of Obama subsidy for guns to go shoot people? Like where did he get the guns?"

Host: "That's a lot of money, isn't it?"

Fiore: "I'm just wondering. I mean he can get a free phone you know where did he get the guns?"

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Warren Leslie Lerude was born in Reno, NV on October 29, 1937. After a stint in US Naval Reserve, Lerude completed his Bachelor's degree at the University of Nevada in Reno, NV in 1961. After three years at the Associated Press, Lerude worked in various capacities at the Nevada State Journal and Reno Evening Gazette from 1963 into 1981, including Reporter, Publisher, Managing Editor, and Executive Editor. In 1977, jointly with Norman Cordoza and Foster Church, Warren Lerude received a Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing specific to his work on the influence of brothel owner Joe Conforte. In 1981, Editor Lerude became Professor Lerude, teaching courses in media law, journalism, and more at his alma mater, University of Nevada in Reno, NV. Lerude was influential in the establishment of a separate School of Journalism at the University of Nevada (it became Donald W Reynolds School of Journalism and Center for Advanced Media Studies). Warren Lerude retired from teaching at the University of Nevada in June 2009, but did not stop writing. His latest work was a biography on another legendary Nevada writer, Robert Laxalt. Lerude's book, "Robert Laxalt: The Story of a Storyteller," was published on June 7, 2013. Warren Lerude is a member of the Nevada Press Hall of Fame, and Professor Emeritus of the University of Nevada.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

This is the anniversary of the opening of the first gaming venture by a Nevada pioneer, one that would actually close just two weeks later because of a poor location. But he persevered and his company would later merge with another casino giant. Who was he, and what was his first property called?

Wednesday's winner: Assemblyman Elliot Anderson

The question: Who am I? I defeated a rising Democratic star, a former gaming executive and a mayoral daughter to win my seat. Which I later lost. Who am I and who were those three opponents?

The answer: Jon Porter. Dario Herrera, Tom Gallagher and Tessa Hafen.

ASLEEP AT THE WHEEL: Drowsy Driving and Public Health
Presented in Collaboration with The Huffington Post

Live webcast, Today, Tuesday, May 10, 2016
12:30-1:30pmET

Driving while under the influence of drugs or alcohol has long been established as a public safety hazard. But what about hitting the road while fatigued? An estimated average of 83,000 accidents involving drowsy driving occurred annually between 2005 and 2009, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), and some estimates are even higher. These accidents cost lives, cause injuries, and damage property. This Forum event will explore the risks, impacts and prevention of drowsy driving. Speakers include Arianna Huffington, author of the new book The Sleep Revolution; Mark Rosekind, Head of NHTSA; Charles Czeisler, renowned sleep medicine expert; and Jay Winsten, leader of a large-scale media initiative to draw attention to the perils of distracted driving.

EXPERT PARTICIPANTS

Dear President Cynthia Stephens,

I am retired, I am 75, I am half-blind & disabled, But I try to help Community & Champion.

I made $ 3 millions from Bill Clinton era's helps. But I lost $ 3 millions [in 1,999 & 2,008] in Vegas for wrong investments. I thought that to suicide after lost $ 3 millions for 18 months in 2014.

But I came back in 2015. I started to try my plans to Buy & Sell the RE in 2015. I recovered to $ 1 million level after 4 years. Thanks to God.

Thank you for your Emails & helps.

Summer is here .... are you ready for Water Fun?

Pool Safety

Never leave children alone in or near the pool or spa, even for a moment.

Install a fence at least 4 feet high around all four sides of the pool. The fence should not have openings or protrusions that a young child could use to get over, under, or through.

Make sure pool gates open out from the pool, and self-close and self-latch at a height children can't reach.

If the house serves as the fourth side of a fence surrounding a pool, install an alarm on the exit door to the yard and the pool.

Keep rescue equipment (a shepherd's hook — a long pole with a hook on the end — and life preserver) and a portable telephone near the pool. Choose a shepherd's hook and other rescue equipment made of fiberglass or other materials that do not conduct electricity.

Avoid inflatable swimming aids such as "floaties." They are not a substitute for approved life vests and can give children and parents a false sense of security.

Children ages 1 to 4 may be at a lower risk of drowning if they have had some formal swimming instruction. However, there is no evidence that swimming lessons or water survival skills courses can prevent drowning in babies younger than 1 year of age. The decision to enroll a 1- to 4-year-old child in swimming lessons should be made by the parent and based on the child's developmental readiness, but swim programs should never be seen as "drown proofing" a child of any age.
Whenever infants or toddlers are in or around water, an adult – preferably one who knows how to swim and perform CPR – should be within arm's length, providing "touch supervision." Avoid entrapment: Suction from pool and spa drains can trap a swimmer underwater.

Do not use a pool or spa if there are broken or missing drain covers. Ask your pool operator if your pool or spa's drains are compliant with the Pool and Spa Safety Act.

If you have a swimming pool or spa, ask your pool service representative to update your drains and other suction fitting with anti-entrapment drain covers and other devices or systems.

Large, inflatable, above-ground pools have become increasingly popular for backyard use. Children may fall in if they lean against the soft side of an inflatable pool. Although such pools are often exempt from local pool fencing requirements, it is essential that they be surrounded by an appropriate fence just as a permanent pool would be so that children cannot gain unsupervised access.

Boating Safety Children should wear life jackets at all times when on boats or near bodies of water. Make sure the life jacket is the right size for your child. The jacket should not be loose. It should always be worn as instructed with all straps belted. Blow-up water wings, toys, rafts and air mattresses should not be used as life jackets or personal flotation devices. Adults should wear life jackets for their own protection, and to set a good example.

Adolescents and adults should be warned of the dangers of boating when under the influence of alcohol, drugs, and even some prescription medications.

Open Water Swimming

Never swim alone. Even good swimmers need buddies!
A lifeguard (or another adult who knows about water rescue) needs to be watching children whenever they are in or near the water.

Younger children should be closely supervised while in or near the water – use "touch supervision," keeping no more than an arm's length away.

Make sure your child knows never to dive into water except when permitted by an adult who knows the depth of the water and who has checked for underwater objects.

Never let your child swim in canals or any fast moving water.

Ocean swimming should only be allowed when a lifeguard is on duty. Teach children about rip tides. If you are caught in a rip tide, swim parallel to shore until you escape the current, and then swim back to shore.

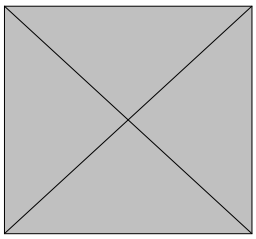
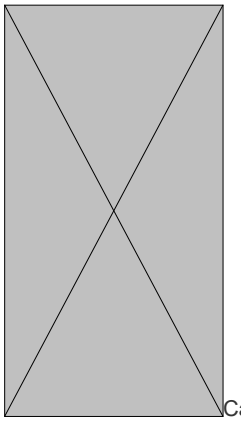
Subject: [Marketing Mail] Please Take 60 Seconds to Prevent Child Poisoning





Carolyn,

Imagine a container of insecticide or bleach being sold without a child resistant cap.

It doesn't happen, because it's against the law. But even though a vial of liquid nicotine has enough poison to kill four children, child resistant caps are currently not required. Congress is considering a bill to change that and ensure that child resistant caps would be required on liquid nicotine vials.

These caps work. Studies have shown that requiring caps has led to a 45% reduction in child deaths from accidentally ingesting oral prescription drugs. Meanwhile, calls to poison centers because of kids swallowing liquid nicotine have increased by 1460% in the past four years.

Because you live in Nevada, you can help make this happen! Your senator can have a significant impact in passing this bill.

Helping is easy. All you have to do is type in your zip code and follow the instructions. The email is designed to go just to the key senator from your state. Please take the next 60 seconds to ask your senator to take action. If you have any questions, contact me at agreen@safekids.org.

Senators Bill Nelson (D-FL.) and Kelly Ayotte (R-NH) are sponsoring the Child Nicotine Poisoning Prevention Act of 2015. Let's help them get this legislation to the Senate floor.

Thanks for helping us keep kids safe.

Auto Emissions Plan Puts Trump, Calif. On Collision Course

The Trump administration's proposal to roll back greenhouse gas emissions standards for vehicles and yank California's authority to set its own requirements sets the stage for a vicious legal battle that experts say goes to the heart of the federal government's obligation to regulate GHGs as determined by the U.S. Supreme Court in Massachusetts v. EPA. Read full article »

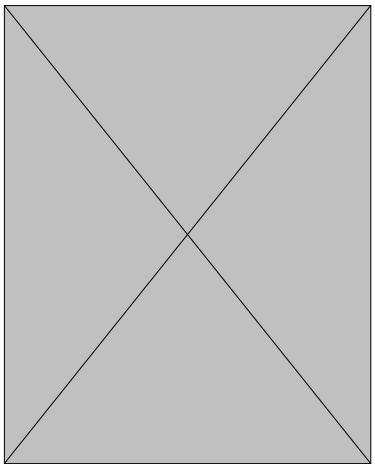
Subject: [Marketing Mail] Tune in TODAY: Acting Director Baum Hosts A LIVE Town Hall in Pennsylvania

A Word from Acting Director Richard J. Baum



Friends and Colleagues,

This is Richard Baum, the Acting Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy. As you may have heard, President Trump asked me to take on this role beginning Tuesday, March 28. I replaced Acting Director Kemp Chester, who did an outstanding job leading ONDCP through the presidential transition. He will continue to play a major role in ONDCP's work as he returns to his previous position leading ONDCP's National Heroin Coordination Group, which oversees the Federal government's response to the threat of illicit opioids.

I am excited to be serving as the Acting Director while we await the President's selection of a permanent Director. Over the past two decades, I have held a variety of positions at ONDCP, most recently as the Chief of the International Division.

My experience has taught me much about our Nation's drug problem and the devastating consequences of drug use. It has also shown me the incredible commitment of people inside and outside of government who are working tirelessly to make life better for people suffering from addiction.

Last Wednesday, I joined President Trump for a listening session on opioids and drug abuse where we heard heartbreaking stories of loss and touching stories of recovery. The President then led an active discussion on how the Federal government can address the problems posed by opioids and other drugs. It was a great honor to represent ONDCP in this discussion with the President, the Vice President, Attorney General Jeff Sessions, Secretary of Homeland Security John Kelly, Secretary of Veterans Affairs David Shulkin, Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos, New Jersey Governor Chris Christie, Jared Kushner, and others. Throughout the meeting, I was encouraged to see the President's compassion and understanding for people suffering from addiction, and to see how committed he is to making sure people can get the help they need.

Everyone has a role in improving the health of our country, and our work depends on great partners like you – whether you're parents, advocates, public health officials, treatment providers, first responders, law enforcement officers, leaders at the Federal, state, local, or tribal levels, or other members of the community.

The work you do every day in invaluable and I look forward to working with you to fulfill ONDCP's mission.

Sincerely,

Richard Baum
Acting Director
Office of National Drug Control Policy

Johnstown, Pennsylvania Heroin Town Hall: TODAY- April 5, 2017

This discussion is an opportunity to talk about local solutions to the prescription opioid and heroin epidemic in the region. Marty Radovanic, WJAC-TV 6 News anchor, will moderate a panel where Acting Director Baum will be joined by Dr. Ken Martz, Special Assistant to the Secretary of the Department of Drug and Alcohol Programs for Pennsylvania. They will also be joined by Johnstown leaders and residents who have led community-wide responses to this deadly epidemic.

Tune into the live town hall at 7:00pm EST TODAY - Wednesday, April 5th by clicking here.

2017 National Drug Control Strategy

As an important stakeholder and partner, thank you for the work you do every day to foster healthy individuals and safe communities. We are beginning the development of the Administration's first Strategy, and would like your input as we move forward. Please email your comments directly to 2017Strategy@ondcp.eop.gov.

We always appreciate your feedback, but please send all Strategy comments by May 5, 2017.

New Tax-Free Distribution Rules Raise Valuation Concerns

While newly proposed Internal Revenue Service rules governing tax-free corporate spinoffs provide some clarity in a fuzzy area of tax law, experts say fresh questions about how assets will be valued and defined mean the guidelines may ultimately not make the planning of such transactions any easier.

Calif. Carbon Plan Puts Rainforest Credits Down, Not Out

California air regulators said last week that the Golden State's carbon trading program won't allow companies to buy credits generated from the preservation of Mexican and Brazilian rainforests to offset their emissions, but experts say that idea may end up being part of carbon trading schemes in the future.

DOI's Arctic Drilling Rule May Squeeze Native Companies

The U.S. Department of the Interior's controversial new rule to tighten standards for oil and gas drilling in the Arctic Sea aims to protect the subsistence livelihoods of Alaska Natives, but experts say the rule may end up costing tribes by discouraging drillers and depriving Native corporations that provide oil and gas services of much-needed income.

Ill. AG Builds State's Profile As Tough Consumer Advocate

Illinois may be known for its budget crisis, pension bills and a stark partisan divide, but state Attorney General Lisa Madigan has added consumer advocacy to that list through her office's dogged litigation against some of the nation's biggest banks and corporations accused of defrauding their customers.

New UK Financial Watchdog Chief Plots Mission Overhaul

The new head of the U.K. Financial Conduct Authority has promised to aggressively target bad behavior in firms on its radar and increase transparency, after admitting Tuesday it has let down consumers.

Lending Bias Found In St. Louis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis

The St. Louis, Milwaukee and Minneapolis areas have extensive mortgage lending imbalances, the National Community Reinvestment Coalition said in a report released on Monday, finding that mortgage credit distribution is heavily swayed by family income levels and the racial makeup of neighborhoods.

ENERGY & ENVIRONMENTAL

DC Circ. Backs EPA's Revocation Of Coal Permit

A divided D.C. Circuit panel on Tuesday upheld the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's revocation of an Arch Coal unit's coal permits, with the majority saying the agency reasonably explained its decision to yank the permit due to wildlife concerns, which it has broad authority to do under the Clean Water Act.

FWS Yanks Lesser Prairie Chicken From Threatened List

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service on Tuesday removed the lesser prairie chicken from its list of threatened species after declining to appeal a Texas federal court decision vacating the listing and said it would re-examine the bird's status to determine whether a threatened listing is now warranted.

Mich. Environmental Officials Seek To Skirt Flint Water Suit

Officials with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality are looking to escape a proposed class action filed by a mother in Flint who seeks to hold them responsible for the lead contamination of the city's water system, saying on Tuesday that she doesn't state any claims against them directly.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

The EU-US Privacy Shield: A How-To Guide

The Privacy Shield — formally adopted last week — is more flexible, more convenient and less costly than other available data transfer mechanisms. Organizations that will derive the most benefit from the Privacy Shield are those that route the majority of their EU-originating personal data from the EU to the U.S., say Lisa Sotto, leader of Hunton & Williams LLP's privacy and cybersecurity practice, and Christopher Hydak.

IRS Ruling Is Cause For Tax-Exempt Provider Concern

A recent ruling by the IRS highlights a practical consideration that many tax-exempt providers have had with respect to their participation in accountable care organizations or other clinically integrated networks that include diverse not-for-profit and for-profit providers, causing many to pause and carefully examine their participation in such networks, say David Manko and Kate Heptig at Rivkin Radler LLP.

How States Are Reacting To EPA's CAA Mandate

States' responses to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's action calling for revision of their Clean Air Act implementation plans suggest that while they are working to comply with the EPA mandate, at the same time many are attempting to build in some flexibility where there are excess emissions as a result of startup, shutdown or malfunction, say Allison Rumsey and Erika Norman at Arnold & Porter LLP.

A Good Time For Public Cos. To Review D&O Questionnaires

A new Nasdaq rule recently approved by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission requires listed companies to disclose annually any compensation or other payment provided by a third party to the company's directors or director nominees in connection with their candidacy for or service on the company's

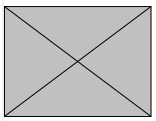
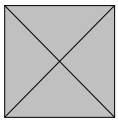
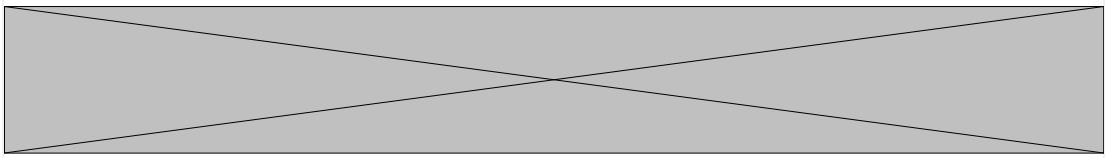
Community Policing is Not Soft on Crime: The Evidence





Dr. Richard Johnson

Dolan Consulting Group is committed to the principles of community-oriented policing. Unfortunately, we sometimes encounter push back from attendees in our courses that suggest community-oriented policing strategies are some form of a "hug-a-thug" philosophy that is soft on crime and criminals. We are often baffled when we encounter such views as we struggle to understand how community-oriented policing strategies, designed to include law abiding citizen input to determine crime priorities and responses, could be considered soft on crime.



The community-oriented policing strategies we advocate focus on the targeting of crime and criminals. These strategies involve officers getting out of their patrol cars and actively engaging the community in a way that builds relationships that lead to intelligence-gathering and crime prevention and prosecution. Including citizens in the processes of alerting the police about crime and identifying criminals is designed to lead to the successful prevention and prosecution of criminals preying upon communities.

Continue reading to learn why community policing is tough on crime.

Subject: FW: news release - Police Fatality Public Fact-finding Review of Tashi Brown's Death to be Held on Sept. 24

Please see this update from the DA's Office. The date of this hearing has changed…

Police Fatality Public Fact-finding Review of Tashi Brown's Death to be Held on Sept. 24

The Police Fatality Public Fact-finding Review to look into the circumstances surrounding the death of Tashi Brown will be held at 9 a.m. on Sept. 24, in Commission Chambers at the Clark County Government Center at 500 S. Grand Central Parkway in downtown Las Vegas.

The review of Brown's death will be presided over by Hearing Officer Craig Drummond. Eric Jorgensen will serve as ombudsman for the review, and Chief Deputy District Attorney Marc DiGiacomo will represent the District Attorney's Office in this proceeding. Brown died during a confrontation with law enforcement in May.

This review was initially set for Sept. 11.

The review will be aired live on Clark County Television (CCTV) and streamed live at www.ClarkCountyNV.gov and www.YouTube.com/ClarkCountyNV.

A fact-finding review is held when a police-involved death occurs and the District Attorney's Office preliminarily determines that no criminal prosecution of the officer or officers involved is appropriate. Presiding officers and ombudsmen are selected by the county manager from lists approved by the County Commission. The ombudsman represents the public and the deceased's family during the review.

During a review, representatives from the District Attorney's Office present witnesses and make a presentation of the essential facts surrounding the police-involved death. After the prosecutors finish their presentation, the presiding officer and ombudsman may also ask questions.

The procedure for questioning witnesses is informal and intended to provide the public with relevant information about the use of force. Members of the public observing the review may submit proposed written questions to the presiding officer on forms available at the review. The presiding officer may ask the proposed questions, revise them or decline to ask them if he deems them "redundant, irrelevant or an abuse of the review process," according to County ordinance. At the end of the review, no formal determination about the manner or cause of death is rendered.

CCTV will carry the entirety of the proceeding. CCTV is available in the Las Vegas area on Channel 4/1004 on Cox cable and on CenturyLink on Channels 4 and 1004, as well as in Laughlin on Channel 14 via Suddenlink. Live streaming of CCTV programming is available at www.ClarkCountyNV.gov and www.YouTube.com/ClarkCountyNV. CCTV is also available in Boulder City on Channel 4 and in Moapa Valley on Digital Channel 50.3.

Editor's note: CCTV will air the review live and you are welcome to use our signal. Like Commission meetings, reporters, photographers and videographers will be able to come and go as they please. If any television outlet wishes to string cable into the review so that they may carry any of them live, please alert Dan Kulin, at (702) 455-5534, (702) 376-3764, or DKulin@ClarkCountynv.gov, in advance so that we can discuss requirements. Any outlets wishing to lay cable in order to carry the proceeding live will need to ensure that the cable is laid prior to the 9 a.m. start of the review in order to avoid disruptions.

Quote of the Day

"Who's going to pay for all that? Every one of us is taxpayers. If you can't afford your co-pay today, if you can't afford to buy your prescription drugs, how are going to be able to afford some increased tax in order to have the health care you need?"

"Look, there are a lot of good intentions with Medicare-for-all in all of their various plans. But with all due respect to those proponents, come spend a day in Congress and tell me how you're really going to get that done."

— Democratic Rep. Steven Horsford

The Federal Communications Commission's deputy chair for the Telecommunications Bureau will take over the post-incentive auction transition as a deputy chair for the auction's task force, the agency announced Wednesday, one of several staff moves at the commission.

Media Writers Urge FCC To Protect Ads In Set-Top Box Plan

A union representing writers for TV, radio and film has told Federal Communications Commission officials that its plan to unlock the TV set-top box would help content creators but that benefit could be jeopardized if the commission fails to bar third-party devices from altering or replacing embedded advertising.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Democrats And Republicans Unite To Challenge TCPA

In a recent Law360 Expert Analysis article, we predicted that the Federal Communications Commission's restrictions on the communication of important information to cellphone users would be challenged for burdening far more speech than is necessary to serve any significant governmental interest. Now, a spate of recent suits has motivated a serious First Amendment challenge to the Telephone Consumer Protection Act in a new context — political calling, say Bradley Andreozzi and Justin Kay of Drinker Biddle & Reath LLP.

The Latest Roadblock For Insider Trading Enforcement

In U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission v. Committee on Ways and Means, the Second Circuit will address the scope of the speech or debate clause in connection with an insider trading investigation involving developments in health care legislation. But regardless of which side prevails, the clause's protections will likely limit insider trading allegations linked to legislative channels, say Justin Shur and Lauren Weinstein of MoloLamken LLP.

Beverly Hills Could Drive Autonomous Vehicle Revolution

On your next visit to Beverly Hills, California, the driver of your shuttle might be a software program. Small affluent cities like Beverly Hills are ideally situated to move the low-speed urban component of the autonomous vehicle landscape forward, and the city's forthcoming driverless shuttle program could incentivize other cities to follow suit, says John Swenson at the Scali Law Firm.

The Resurrection Of The Miscellaneous Tariff Bill

There is every reason to hope that, by reviving the Miscellaneous Tariff Bill, the new American Manufacturing Competitiveness Act of 2016 has created an efficient and transparent process for identifying hundreds of nuisance tariffs that are needless burdens on the U.S. economy, say Greg Mastel and Jennifer McCadney at Kelley Drye & Warren LLP.

Defining Proportionality: Amended Rule 26's First 6 Months

Case law from the first six months after the amendments to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(b)(1) shows that while courts will limit the scope of discovery when it is truly disproportionate to the needs of the case, they will also order production of easy-to-obtain information, says Samantha Southall at Buchanan Ingersoll & Rooney PC.

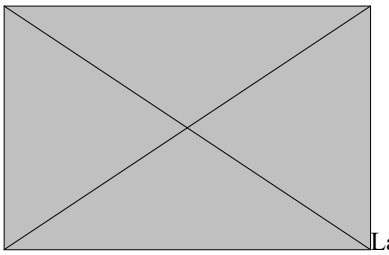
Law Enforcement Leaders to Mitch McConnell: Pass Sentencing Reform



Last week Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Chuck Grassley and other senators unveiled the long-awaited revisions to the Sentencing Reform and Corrections Act.

The bill reduces mandatory minimums for some non-violent crimes, and gives judges more discretion in sentencing low-level offenders. Originally introduced last year, the bill was recently modified to gain broader Senate support. The National District Attorneys Association, a partner of Law Enforcement Leaders to Reduce Crime and Incarceration, released a letter of support shortly before the announcement.

Law Enforcement Leaders is a key supporter of the measure, saying it will both protect public safety and reduce the federal prison population. The group held a media briefing call with Sen. Mike Lee (R-Utah), a key architect of the measure, after the announcement.

"Law enforcement is counting on Congress to pass sentencing reform this year to help us keep crime rates at historic lows," said Ronal Serpas, chairman of Law Enforcement Leaders and former superintendent of the New Orleans Police Department. "We have spent our entire careers focused on keeping citizens safe. From that experience, we know our current policies put people in prison who don't belong there. That ultimately gets in the way of smart, effective policing and prosecution."

Former U.S. Attorney General Michael Mukasey said the bill's widespread support — it's now cosponsored by a bipartisan group of 37 senators — "should allay concern" among critics. "The compromise sentencing reform bill will enhance public safety, not harm it, by allowing the government to target its enforcement efforts where they are most needed," he added.

Leaders called on Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell to bring the bill to the Senate floor for a vote.

Read more in Roll Call, listen to the media breifing, and read the group's letter of support.

Members Talk State Prison Reforms and 2016 Election

Law Enforcement Leaders are also active in their own jurisdictions. T.J. Donovan, the state's attorney in Chittenden County, Vermont, who is also running for state attorney general, is calling for an end to sending inmates out of state to serve sentences in private prisons.

Although private prisons may be less expensive, Donovan, writing in the Vermont Digger, said they also mean "bad service, low to no accountability, and poor outcomes for those warehoused in these facilities." He added that the practice "abandons the obligation we owe our communities and each other to ensure that offenders can re-enter our cities, towns and villages as productive members of safe communities."

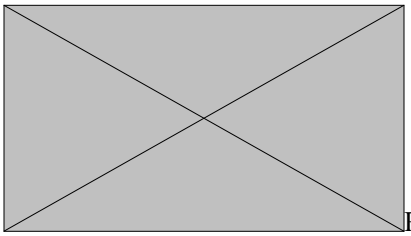
And, Middlesex County, Mass., Sheriff Peter J. Koutoujian is supporting an effort to retain Medicaid for pretrial detainees. Under the current system, defendants who make bail maintain Medicaid coverage, while those who cannot afford bail and are detained lose their coverage, despite having not been convicted of a crime. As a result, sheriffs' offices must pay for health care costs.

Koutoujian recently joined the Major County Sheriffs' Association, the National Sheriffs' Association, and the National Association of Counties at a Washington, D.C., meeting calling for expanding Medicaid access. His jail was cited in a letter to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services from Sens. Sherrod Brown (D-Ohio), Richard Durbin (D-Ill.), Al Franken (D-Minn.), and Edward Markey (D-Mass.).

Dekalb County, Georgia, Police Chief Cedric Alexander wrote an op-ed for CNN listing three questions the presidential candidates should be asked about policing. In summary, the questions were:

- How will you support police in building trust with the community?
- How will you move forward with the recommendations by the Task Force on 21st Century Policing?
- What is your plan for "life-saving, life-enhancing" relations between the police and the community?

Member Spotlight: Former U.S. Attorney Richard Pocker



Richard Pocker (left) is a partner in the Las Vegas office of Boies, Schiller & Flexner. He was the U.S. Attorney for the District of Nevada from 1989 to 1990, and was an assistant U.S. Attorney from 1985 to 1988.

"We've come to the point in the country at this time where sentencing reform is necessary. And we have to do it in such a way to protect the public."

Watch his testimonial and others here. Pocker also participated in a standing-room only briefing on Capitol Hill in support of the Sentencing Reform and Corrections Act. Read what he had to say at that event here.

Congress Acts on President's Call for $1 Billion for Treatment

Washington, D.C. – Today, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) released new data that show that overdose deaths associated with prescription and illicit opioids increased to 33,091 in 2015 (see data summary below). The increase in deaths was driven in large part by continued sharp increases in deaths involving heroin and synthetic opioids such as fentanyl. As in 2014, overdose deaths involving prescription opioids (excluding the category of synthetic opioids that includes fentanyl) rose only slightly, suggesting that efforts in recent years to reduce the misuse of these drugs may be having an impact.

"The prescription opioid and heroin epidemic continues to devastate communities and families across the country—in large part because too many people still do not get effective substance use disorder treatment," said Michael Botticelli, Director of National Drug Control Policy. "That is why the President has called since February for $1 billion in new funding to expand access to treatment. This week Congress finally acted on the President's request. The Administration will work to get this new funding out to States as quickly as possible to make sure that every American who wants treatment for an opioid use disorder is able to get it."

"The epidemic of deaths involving opioids continues to worsen," said CDC Director Tom Frieden, M.D., M.P.H. "Prescription opioid misuse and use of heroin and illicitly manufactured fentanyl are intertwined and deeply troubling problems. We need to drastically improve both the treatment of pain and the treatment of opioid use disorders and increase the use of naloxone to reverse opioid overdose. We must also work collaboratively with our public safety partners to further reduce access to illicit opioids."

The data released today are for 2015; since then the Administration has taken significant new actions to address the epidemic, including:

- Issuing the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Guideline for Prescribing Opioids for Chronic Pain – the Agency's first-ever recommendations for primary care clinicians on prescribing opioids. Subsequently, more than 60 medical schools, nearly 200 nursing schools and more than 50 pharmacy schools have committed to prescriber training.
- Establishing enhanced measures in conjunction with the Chinese government to combat the supply of fentanyl and its analogues coming to the United States.
- Providing new funding to 271 Community Health Centers across the country to increase substance use disorder treatment services, with a specific focus on expanding medication-assisted treatment for opioid use disorders in underserved communities.
- Increasing the patient limit from 100 to 275 for practitioners prescribing buprenorphine to treat opioid use disorders. Since August 2016, more than 2,500 practitioners have applied for and been granted waivers to prescribe at the increased limit—improving access to medication-assisted treatment (MAT).
- Increasing funding by nearly $100 million to improve opioid prescribing, increase access to naloxone, build MAT treatment capacity to address the epidemic, and improve state surveillance efforts.

This week, Congress passed the 21st Century Cures Act, which provides $1 billion in new funding that the President requested to combat the epidemic, primarily by increasing access to substance use disorder treatment.

Summary of 2015 Drug Overdose Data

According to the National Center for Health Statistics, the number of overdose deaths involving opioids rose from 28,647 in 2014 to 33,091 in 2015.

- Heroin overdose deaths rose from 10,574 in 2014 to 12,990 in 2015, an increase of 23 percent.
- Overdose deaths involving synthetic opioids other than methadone rose from 5,544 in 2014 to 9,580 in 2015, an increase of 73 percent. This category of opioids is dominated by fentanyl-related overdoses, and recent research indicates the fentanyl involved in these deaths is illicitly manufactured, not from medications containing fentanyl.

- Taken together, 19,885 Americans lost their lives in 2015 to deaths involving primarily illicit opioids: heroin, synthetic opioids other than methadone (e.g., fentanyl), or a mixture of the two.
- Overdose deaths involving prescription opioids, excluding the category predominated by illicit fentanyl, rose only slightly from 16,941 in 2014 to 17,536 in 2015, a 4% increase.
- NOTE: A portion of the overdose deaths involved both illicit opioids and prescription opioids.

These data are compiled from the CDC's WONDER database: https://wonder.cdc.gov/

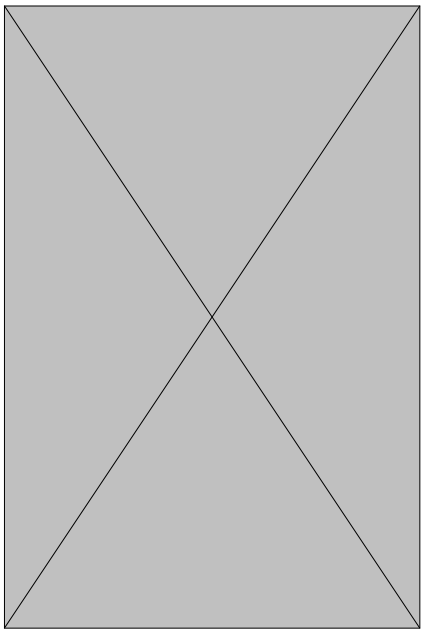
UNLV School of Medicine Community Advisory Board discuss practice plan goals and objectives at its October 19 meeting.

Issue 17 - Oct. 20, 2015

Making the Rounds with Planning Dean Barbara Atkinson

Friends and Colleagues,

The third year of medical school, known as clerkships, is one of the most exciting experiences and favorite parts of medical school for students. Traditionally, clerkships are conducted in a hospital (inpatient setting) under the supervision of physician faculty. Clerkships provide students hands-on experience in the basic medical specialties. These are family medicine, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, pediatrics, psychiatry, surgery and neurology. Each specialty is taught in a block rotation ranging from four to 12 weeks depending on the school.



A new clerkship model

When creating our curriculum we examined the challenges facing physicians in the future. We wanted to ensure our students learned how to treat the whole patient. The best way to accomplish this is to follow patients over time. For instance, diabetes patient care is a lifetime process that includes counseling, dietary education, laboratory tests and monitoring, treatment with insulin or drugs, and occasional crises requiring hospitalization. In a hospital-based clerkship, the student would only see the diabetes patient when in crisis. Taking care of extremely sick patients in the hospital doesn't always prepare students for the holistic management of patient care. That's why we decided to use a new model -- the longitudinal integrated clerkship (LIC). It allows students to learn the medical specialties simultaneously rather than separately. We also decided our students would complete a yearlong clerkship in a community clinic (outpatient setting) versus a hospital. The LIC model is more patient-oriented and nurtures stronger doctor-patient relationships by enabling students to:

- provide continuity of care over a 12-month period;
- nurture meaningful relationships with patients and their families, faculty, residents, and the entire health care team; and
- attain the majority of the year's core clinical competencies across multiple disciplines simultaneously.

In a community clinic setting, students will start examining patients under a physician's supervision. After the student takes the patient's history, conducts a physical exam, decides on the diagnosis and if laboratory or imaging studies are needed, determines a treatment plan, the student and faculty member discuss the case, and then the faculty member sees the patient and checks the student's work. This learning by experience and guidance ensures excellent patient care and tremendous learning for the student. Students also will have the opportunity to follow their patient to the hospital setting if they become seriously ill.

Our students will gain valuable experience working with health care teams, which are essential for good patient care. We also will provide supervised learning experiences for UNLV nursing and physical therapy students and College of Southern Nevada and Nevada State College students who are pursuing other health care professions.

We intend to use the LIC model with all 60 of our students. To give our students a jump-start, we will implement the curriculum during the last two months of their second year. We are confident this will prepare them to determine their specialty by the end of their third year. It also gives them time to do an additional elective in a specialty they find interesting.

During their fourth year, our students will complete three months of hospital rotations, including two sub-internships and a rotation in the ICU. The sub-internship will allow students to manage a small group of hospital patients under the supervision of faculty and residents. They also will have an additional five months of electives designed to prepare them for residency training.

Currently, schools in the U.S., Australia, Canada and South Africa have established LIC programs, and more than a 100 schools have joined an international consortium to discuss and explore this teaching option. We believe the LIC is transformative for medical schools and students alike. We can't wait to implement the model here.

Best wishes,

Barbara

DAYS UNTIL THE NEVADA PRESIDENTIAL CAUCUS: 211

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 470

Good morning, everyone. How low will it go? That question vis a vis the presidential race should worry any thinking person. With Trumpmania still soaring, Clintonian evasions continuing and media criticism growing, at least it couldn't get worse, right? Mike Huckabee begs to differ.

Huckabee invoking the Holocaust to pound Obama on the Iran deal is not just beyond the pale. It is a sick manifestation of a GOP primary wherein the marginal candidates will do and say anything to ensure they get into the debate. Where is the repudiation by his foes, by prominent Jews (even those upset by the Iran deal), by Benjamin Netanyahu. Rule of thumb: If anyone invokes the Nazis to make a point, they have already lost the argument and should be ignored. Period.

What's below: Bateman and Klaich, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a Nevada pioneer and an unfortunate quote.

COMING UP

Ted Cruz will be on "Ralston Live" soon.

INSIDER WRAP: BATEMAN FOR CD3 MAYBE, KLAICH IN TROUBLE?

Is Henderson Councilman Sam Bateman the next DCCC recruit in CD3? Would he have a chance or be a sacrificial lamb? My insiders, who expounded for premium subscribers on Sunday, generally think the race is slipping away from the Democrats, but some think Bateman may be the candidate. I can hear the pitch now: "He's no Erin Bilbray!"

A number of my insiders also were surprisingly united that Chancellor Dan Klaich is in trouble. I was surprised because of the wagon-circling by the board and the big-name community support, even though the letter does not address the current controversy.

A TRIO OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – A few days after CD4 hopeful Lucy Flores defended Planned Parenthood, her primary rival John Oceguera chimed in. A snippet:

"Anti-choice extremists and their Republican pals in Congress are at it again.

"After the release of two deceptively edited videos meant to smear Planned Parenthood, Republicans in Congress are on the attack. They're adding amendments that effectively shut down Planned Parenthood to anything moving through Congress – from the highway trust fund to a veterans health bill.

"It's sick, and it's time to stand up to the anti-choice madness."

Nugget No. 2 – Bernie Sanders has no real staff in Nevada, but when his campaign holds a countrywide online rally Wednesday to generate enthusiasm, I'm told there will be at least a dozen house parties across the state, including in…Pahrump. I thought Hillary OWNED Pahrump.

Nugget No. 3 – In case I haven't told you in awhile, dear Flashees, I love Las Vegas Councilman Bob Coffin's auto-reply to emails:

"Thanks for writing. I am not on vacation but vacation reply features allow you to leave a followup to your initial message and it allows me to better serve you.

"I should see your letter on the same day you send it but I might not be able to immediately reply. The benefit of email is that I can take your suggestion or complaint and promptly send it to someone in the City of Las Vegas who is equipped to help you and me deal with it.

"So, if you left out important information in your first letter please put more detail in the next. Such details include appropriate street addresses and your telephone number(s)."

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

When we think of the mob in Las Vegas, we generally think of the famously famous Chicago Outfit, or the Kansas City mob. Organized crime families from other cities sent operators to southern Nevada as well, including New York and Los Angeles. Anthony Milano was a longtime underboss of the mob in Cleveland, OH. Anthony had two sons – Peter and Carmen. Carmen was born on July 27, 1929 in Cleveland, OH, where he would become a lawyer (and get disbarred). The Milano brothers moved to southern California and began muscling in operations in Los Angeles. Peter became the boss of the Milano family mob out of Los Angeles, CA, and Carmen, nicknamed Flipper after the dolphin, would become the Los Angeles mob's underboss in Las Vegas, NV. Carmen Milano (the George Costanza of the LA Mob) moved to Las Vegas, NV in the early 1990s to manage the Los Angeles mob's Las Vegas interests.

After the Milanos were indicted in Los Angeles in 1987, family moved into Las Vegas involved forging partnerships with existing mobsters rather than establishing competing businesses. Their biggest partner was Herbie "Fat Herbie" Blitzstein. Blitzstein's business was also their goal. Milano planned a shakedown of Blitzstein to take over his operations. The other mobsters that Milano partnered with to carry out the threats had their own plan, and killed Blitzstein in his home on January 6, 1997. The planning meetings for the Blitzstein takeover had been infiltrated by the FBI, who had plenty of informants after Blitzstein was murdered, as mob factions fought over Blitzstein's "assets." Milano had not intended to murder Blitzstein, but his family, already reeling from indictments in Los Angeles, were further decimated. Carmen Milano plead guilty to money laundering and his part in a diamond fraud scheme that never materialized (selling Blitzstein's diamonds, but switching for a fake after the buyer paid). Milano served almost two years in prison from 2000 into 2002, and remained in Las Vegas after his release. Milano died in Spring Valley Hospital in Las Vegas, NV on January 3, 2006.

Side note: In the 1970s, the Milano brothers established a Las Vegas-style casino operation in southern California (on Sunset Blvd). The games were rigged. They got caught, and were charged. John Ludlow Dubeck helped set up some of the rigged table games for the Milanos. Dubeck became a key witness for the government against the Los Angeles mob family. Late on March 18, 1974, John Ludlow Dubeck, who was by this time working as a shift manager at a Las Vegas casino, was shot and killed (along with his wife) near their apartment in Las Vegas before he could testify. It was generally considered against mob rules to murder someone in Las Vegas at the time, as it would bring unwanted attention to the mob. The double murder was never solved.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

What Nevada pioneering elected official said this publicly: "I do not believe in the intermingling of races."

Friday's winner: AGA's Christopher Moyer

The question: "I know there are times, I'm told, that I get on your nerves…" In 2010, Harry Reid said these words. Who was he talking to (Hint: Not me.

The answer: Netroots Nation

MOVIE TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Even with one flawed clue, lobbyist Josh Griffin was first on this (GM, not manager): Name the actor and movies: He plays a cop who kills a serial killer; he plays a spy thrown into a prison; he plays a godlike warrior with a vulnerability that kills him; he plays a coach with an unusual approach. The answer: Brad Pitt in “Seven.” “Spy Game,” “Troy” and “Moneyball.”

Boyd Briefs: February 5, 2015

From Dean Dan

Here at Boyd we are starting off the spring 2015 semester with an exciting new program offered in partnership with Nevada Legal Services' Low Income Taxpayer Clinic. Professor Francine Lipman and Associate Dean Christine Smith have created a new class, Taxes for Working Families, a free income tax education program we are offering to our community. Professor Lipman will work with law students helping them master the complexities of certain tax provisions that challenge working families, including taxpayer filing status, child tax credit, earned income tax credit, premium tax credit, and the dependent care credit. Boyd students will answer taxpayer questions at community outreach events, such as the following workshops:

- Saturday, Feb. 28, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Downtown Learning Village, 715 Fremont St., Las Vegas, NV 89101

- Friday, March 13, 5 to 7 p.m.

Hermandad Mexicana, 2915 W. Charleston Blvd. #4, Las Vegas, NV 89102

- Saturday, April 17, 2 to 4 p.m.

West Charleston Library, 6301 W. Charleston Blvd., Las Vegas, NV 89146

Boyd students and our public interest fellows will also assist Nevada Legal Services attorneys with monthly clinics in Pahrump and also provide tenants' rights clinics. Because students are among the most common tenants with landlord-tenant problems, these clinics will be advertised to Nevada college students and held at the law school. Boyd has long had wonderful partnerships with the Legal Aid Center of Southern Nevada and Nevada Legal Services and we are excited to foster these new initiatives to enhance the legal assistance programs we provide to Nevadans throughout the state. Our thanks to AnnaMarie Johnson, executive director of Nevada Legal Services, and Bill Curran, managing partner at Ballard Spahr in Las Vegas and chair of the Board at Nevada Legal Services.

FACULTY SPOTLIGHT: Lydia Nussbaum

The idea that scholarship is a conversation has been around for quite some time. In this sense, books and articles are components of a framework of interconnected perspectives and insights, rather than arguments that can be consumed independently. Each piece of scholarship, then, contributes to the conversation. These conversations, in turn, may lead ultimately to profound shifts in human behavior or to better public policies.

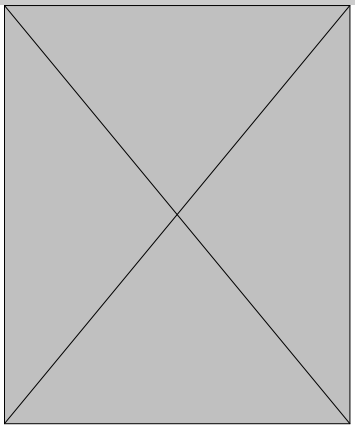
The faculty members at Boyd not only contribute to these scholarly conversations, they also instigate and lead them. Lydia Nussbaum's work, for example, explores how the popular and familiar institution of mediation may be experiencing an important transformation. In her forthcoming article, tentatively titled "Mediation Creep: Expanding State Regulation of Private Disputes," Nussbaum describes how "[a]cross the country, state legislators are mandating mediation in a fundamentally different way than ever before." In its original conception, mediation was a voluntary and largely unstructured option for disputants seeking an alternative form of dispute resolution. More recently, courts and legislative mandates have required litigants to mediate as a prerequisite to formal adjudication. Nussbaum argues that we are now moving toward a third step in this evolution, to-wit, "legislators are embedding mediation requirements into statutory regimes, imposing a direct mandate on private parties to mediate." Moreover, increasingly, these statutory mandates micro-manage various components of the mediation process, thereby converting a once voluntary and unstructured enterprise into a mandatory and hyper-legalized one.

In this article, Professor Nussbaum explores this phenomenon, addressing both the Why? and the So What? Her theory is that this is an expression of a new, decentralized approach to governance which conceives of the state's regulatory role as building procedural architecture to advance social welfare. This piece of scholarship is a very important conversation starter. So once again, a Boyd faculty member is generating an important conversation.

Professor Nussbaum is the associate director of the Saltman Center for Conflict Resolution and is the director of the Strasser Mediation Clinic. She joined the faculty in the fall of 2013.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT: Kerry Kleiman

"It was either this or stand-up comedy," quips third-year student Kerry Kleiman when asked why she came to law school, "and attorneys have better health plans." True though that may be, Kerry didn't come to Boyd as a joke. After years of working in theater and television, Kerry found herself in a relationship with someone mired in a child-custody dispute. Private attorneys were too expensive, and the court-appointed attorney didn't return phone calls or file papers. "It was the first time in my life that I understood why people said that justice could be bought," recalls Kerry,

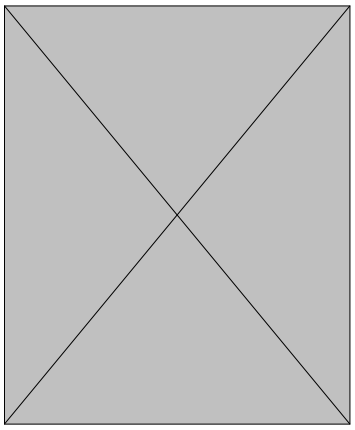


"and, to be honest, I agreed with them."

After her ex went pro se, Kerry taught herself substantive and procedural law to help her ex draft motions, earning the nickname "Kerry Mason" from her family in the process. "I couldn't appear in court, but at least responses were getting filed, so it was progress."

Although stand-up comedy may have been a viable career option -- after all, she does have a B.A. in theater from the University of Southern California Kerry has not spent her time at Boyd goofing off. She is the editor-in-chief of the UNLV Gaming Law Journal and won both IAGA's 2015 Shannon Bybee Scholarship Award and the 2014 Anthony Cabot Award for Best Student Note for her article on conflicting international anti-money laundering protocols for casinos. As a member of our Society of Advocates, she was named second best oralist at Fordham University School of Law's 2014 Kaufman Memorial Securities Law Moot Court Competition. Currently, Kerry is a student attorney in our Juvenile Justice Clinic representing accused juveniles and working to combat the sex trafficking of minors.

Following graduation, Kerry will be a law clerk in the Eighth Judicial District Court for Judge Elissa F. Cadish.



ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT: Assly Sayyar '04

Assly Sayyar was born in Great Britain and immigrated to the United States as a child. In 2000, she received her Bachelor of Arts in English Rhetoric, cum laude, from the University of Alaska Anchorage. In 2004, she graduated 16th in her class and cum laude from the William S. Boyd School of Law.

Admitted to the Nevada Bar in 2004, Assly worked for several private practice firms and soon developed her skills as a trial attorney, focusing on business and real estate-related litigation. From her time working as senior associate at Adams Law Group, Ltd., Assly branched out and developed her skills as a transactional attorney assisting clients creating, negotiating, and drafting leases, stock purchase agreements, licensing agreements, independent contractor agreements, sale and purchase agreements, security and loan agreements, and a wide variety of other business and real estate contracts. Four years later, she was admitted to the California Bar. Assly also continued her higher education, receiving her Master of Arts in English Literature from UNLV in 2010.

After over seven years of civil litigation and transactional practice in small- and medium-size firms in the Southern Nevada area, Assly opened her own solo practice in the northern county of San Diego in May 2012, with a satellite office in Las Vegas. She continues to offer her skills as a trial attorney, civil practitioner, and business and corporate transactional attorney in both states. She is active in San Diego's legal community, joining The Lawyer's Club, where she co-chairs and participates in several committees; and she is a member of San Diego's North County Bar Association.

Assly travels to Las Vegas frequently to provide professional services to her Nevada clients; attend court hearings and trials; and meet with friends and family. She is happy building her practice in Southern California and putting down roots as a solo practitioner.

Texas Intended to Discriminate With Voter ID Law, Judge Rules

A federal judge ruled - — for the second time — that Texas passed its strict voter ID law in 2011 with the intent to discriminate against minority voters. The Brennan Center was co-counsel to two of the plaintiffs. “Texas passed the most restrictive photo ID law in the country — a law the legislators knew would hurt minority voting rights, without any evidence justifying it,” noted the Brennan Center’s Myrna Pérez,

SEC's Big DC Circ. Win Won't End In-House Clash

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission may feel as though it can rest easy after the influential D.C. Circuit became the first appellate court to affirmatively rule its administrative law judges are constitutional, but experts say the decision won't resolve the ongoing debate over the agency's use of its in-house tribunal.

BANKING & SECURITIES

SEC Wins 1st Appellate Ruling On In-House Constitutionality

The D.C. Circuit on Tuesday became the first appellate court to find that the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's administrative courts are constitutionally sound, rebuffing an appeal brought by an investment adviser who claimed the agency's in-house judges needed to be appointed by the president.

ENERGY & ENVIRONMENTAL

Former GOP EPA Leaders Endorse Clinton, Slam Trump

Two former Republican administrators of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency said Tuesday they're backing Hillary Clinton for president over Donald Trump, whom they faulted for denying climate change and not supporting strong environmental policies.

Flint Residents Say Mich., Gov. Can't Duck Water Crisis Suit

Residents of Flint, Michigan, told a federal judge Monday that the state and several officials, including Gov. Rick Snyder, can't shake a proposed class action over the city's water contamination crisis, alleging that they mischaracterize the suit's claims and attempt to distort the issues.

DOE Clarifies Reimbursement Rules For Whistleblower Cases

The U.S. Department of Energy issued guidance Monday clarifying when the agency will reimburse legal costs to contractors in whistleblower cases, as part of a broader response to a recent watchdog report criticizing the DOE's purported lack of whistleblower protections.

7th Circ. Greenlights Energy Regs For Commercial Fridges

The commercial refrigerator industry will soon have to comply with new standards regulating the energy efficiency of its products following a Monday decision from the Seventh Circuit that found the U.S. Department of Energy did not cross the line in laying down the standards.

EPA Incinerator Ruling Undercuts CPP, DC Circ. Told

Opponents of the Obama administration's plan to reduce carbon dioxide emissions from existing power plants told the D.C. Circuit on Monday that the program can't proceed in light of a recent ruling that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency can't require sources to average their emissions.

NJ Agency OKs $1B Bond Plans For Meadowlands Project

The New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority on Tuesday unanimously approved two resolutions backing efforts to secure about $1.15 billion in bonds for American Dream Meadowlands, a long-delayed retail and entertainment project being built in East Rutherford, New Jersey.

Witness Lies Led To Pa. AG's Leak Charges, Jury Hears

The trial of Pennsylvania's embattled attorney general got underway on Tuesday as a defense attorney told jurors during opening arguments that criminal charges in the case stemmed from lies told by two individuals the AG allegedly ordered to leak confidential investigative material.

TRANSPORTATION & INFRASTRUCTURE

Gov. Christie Served Subpoena For Phone In Bridge Scandal

Counsel for a former public official charged in the George Washington Bridge lane-closing scandal on Tuesday said they have served subpoenas on Gov. Chris Christie and former members of his staff, taking another shot at accessing the governor's cellphone after a New Jersey federal judge denied a related bid last month.

Fuel Fraud Law Drained Up To $2B From Airport Fund: GAO

The Airport and Airway Trust Fund has lost out on between $1 billion and $2 billion over the past decade because of a federal law meant to curb fuel tax fraud, according to the U.S. Government Accountability Office.

Texas County Enacts Roadblock To High-Speed Rail Project

A Texas county on Tuesday passed a first-of-its kind permitting requirement for high-speed rail projects that cross county rights-of-way, in what the county government's leader said was an effort to block a planned Dallas-to-Houston rail line.

INSURANCE

Life Insurers Say Fiduciary Rule Will Harm Annuity Trade

The U.S. Department of Labor's new fiduciary rule, which requires retirement account investment advisers to act in their clients' best interest when recommending products, will "restrict consumers' access to annuity products," the annuities industry said in Texas federal court filings Monday.

Donald Trump said Monday that while he and Hillary Clinton both oppose the Trans-Pacific Partnership for now, Clinton will eventually support the 12-nation trade pact if elected, framing the issue as the former secretary of state's "next betrayal" of the U.S. electorate.

TAX

IRS Is Asked For Info On Carbon Credits For Oil Extraction

A coalition of environmental and taxpayer groups on Tuesday announced it has asked the Internal Revenue Service for records on the 45Q tax credit for carbon capture and long-term storage, looking to see how many credits have been given out for oil extraction since the provision was enacted in 2008 in the wake of the financial crisis.

IRS Scales Back Tax Preparer Fee Amid Class Action

The IRS plans to issue a final rule Wednesday to reduce the fees paid by tax professionals, in the midst of a class action claiming the agency had set the fee too high.

IMMIGRATION

Gov't Argues It Did Not Mislead Court In Immigration Case

The U.S. Department of Justice did not intentionally mislead the Texas federal court overseeing the challenge to President Barack Obama's executive actions on immigration and does not deserve to be sanctioned, the federal government argued Monday.

NATIVE AMERICAN

Ex-Tribe Leaders Want Rehearing Of Election Challenge

Former leaders of California's Timbisha Shoshone Tribe asked the Ninth Circuit Monday to rethink tossing as moot their challenge to the U.S. Department of the Interior's decision to recognize a new tribal council, arguing that the court was wrong to conclude they had conceded the validity of a new constitution.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

CenturyLink Urges FCC To Adopt Changes In Lifeline Program

Telecommunications company CenturyLink Inc. on Monday urged the Federal Communications Commission to reconsider some of the heightened standards it has floated for the Lifeline program, which provides subsidies for low-income Americans' phone and internet services.

FCC, Station Ask To Stay Case Pending Spectrum Auction

The Federal Communications Commission and a Florida-based broadcaster asked the D.C. Circuit to set aside their dispute over spectrum auction eligibility Monday until after the end of the auction this year.

Irish Regulator Warns Of Location Data Privacy Risks

Companies that collect data that can pinpoint an individual's location should ensure that they have that person's informed consent and that they take steps to minimize the amount of information they scoop up in order to avoid running afoul of Europe's privacy laws, the Irish data protection regulator advised Tuesday.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Spotlight On 'Shadow Banking'

A recent speech by Federal Reserve Gov. Daniel Tarullo indicates that the Fed — and Tarullo in particular — continues to believe that the post-financial crisis regulatory reform efforts must include “shadow banking” entities and runnable funding. Further, the Federal Reserve is considering wide-ranging, and perhaps unorthodox, approaches to the regulation of runnable funding, say attorneys with Sullivan & Cromwell LLP.

A Better Approach To Environmental Prosecution?

As a result of the Yates memo and the U.S. Department of Justice's subsequent environmental announcement, we may now see an increase in prosecutions against persons for environmental crimes, which often create dilemmas for corporate compliance officers, who may find themselves caught in the middle of higher-level management and the personnel directly involved in the violations, says David Edelstein at Vorys Sater Seymour and Pease LLP.

Time To Reform The Antitrust Sentencing Guidelines

The U.S. sentencing guidelines for bid-rigging, price-fixing or market-allocation agreements among competitors do a lousy job of formulating a recommendation based on the actual culpability of an individual defendant. My recommendation is that the American Bar Association Antitrust Section forms a task force to review the guidelines and recommend changes, says Robert Connolly, a partner at GeyerGorey LLP and former federal prosecutor.

FINRA Is Wrongfully Imposing Rule 2010 Sanctions

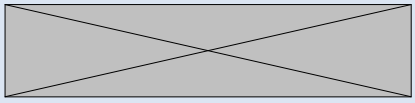
In nearly every letter of acceptance, waiver and consent involving a registered representative, the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority’s attorneys cite violations of FINRA Rule 2010. The rule has become a FINRA violation catchall and its inclusion in so many AWCs is questionable, says Max Schatzow of Stark & Stark.

FDA's Pursuit Of A National Medical Device Evaluation System

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration's recent draft guidance on evaluation of medical devices adds fuel to an ambitious initiative that could transform not only the FDA’s regulatory oversight of medical devices, but also how devices are developed by manufacturers and reimbursed by payors, say attorneys at Sidley Austin LLP.

NYC ‘Labor Peace’ Order May Clash With Federal Law

While the stated aim of New York Mayor Bill de Blasio's recent executive order is to ensure “labor peace” at development projects in which the city has a financial or propriety interest, the law undercuts the rights of covered employers and employees to make their own decisions regarding union representation, which may present conflicts with the National Labor Relations Act, says Robert Nagle at Fox Rothschild LLP.



BigLaw's Diversity Problem Puts It On Collision Course With Millennials

If law firms don’t make immediate strides toward becoming more inclusive, they risk alienating the next generation of lawyers, who are highly attuned to institutional bias and increasingly vocal about eradicating it.

Porn, Politics And The Undoing Of Kathleen Kane

Some say Pennsylvania Attorney General Kathleen Kane sought to shed light on a boys club culture when she released emails that sparked the “Porngate” scandal, and others say it was a distraction and retaliation ploy — two narratives that vie for legitimacy as she heads to trial on perjury charges.

Unbiased Jurors Will Be Tough To Find As Trump U. Cases Progress

The judge overseeing a pair of Trump University lawsuits faces the challenge of navigating competing goals: moving the cases along and finding juries that have not been tainted by the presidential election.

LEGAL INDUSTRY

5 Ways Firms Waste Money

Continuing to pay high salaries to consistently underperforming attorneys and staying put in office space that no longer suits a firm's needs are among the top ways firms throw good money after bad and damage their own profitability, according to legal industry experts. Here, Law360 shares what legal industry consultants say are the five major ways that firms pour money down the drain.

Litigation Powerhouse: Winston & Strawn

A year of squaring off against powerful adversaries such as the federal government, Apple and a potential class of 90 million members on behalf of major clients including Goldman Sachs, Comcast and Verizon Wireless has earned Winston & Strawn LLP a spot on Law360's Litigation Powerhouses list.

Contentious ABA Anti-Bias Rule Could Face Local Challenges

A flurry of late changes to a controversial American Bar Association anti-discrimination rule mollified most opponents and ultimately secured approval from a majority of delegates, but the policy may still face opposition as state judges and ethics committees ponder enactment and whether the rule undermines free speech and other rights.

Greenberg Traurig Exec Becomes ABA's President-Elect

Greenberg Traurig LLP's co-president Hilarie Bass took on another prestigious role Tuesday as the president-elect of the American Bar Association, which will lead directly to her assuming the role of association president next year.

DLA Piper Sees 4% Revenue Bump For International Ops

DLA Piper on Tuesday said that revenue for its operations outside the Americas over the last fiscal year grew by about 4 percent to £768.8 million ($999 million), marking another sign of growth after reporting a decent boost in global gross revenue.

Subject: RE: Freedom Park Suicide

Good Morning, please read below the information relative to the referenced suicide;

On August 10, 2017 at approximately 0815 hours, I was notified of a deceased male at Gary Reese Freedom Park. I responded to Freedom Park at approximately 0830 hours and met with Deputy Marshal Sergeant Charles Seipel and Marshals Compson and Thatch. LVMPD patrol officers arrived shortly after.

Sergeant Seipel advised that City of Las Vegas Fire was notified by an unidentified caller of a sick or injured-white male in the park this morning at approximately 0739 hours. LVFD arrived and discovered 55 year-old Donald Wright, lying on his side on a picnic bench in the park. LVFD determined Wright was deceased.

The Deputy City Marshals arrived shortly after and cordoned off the scene with evidence tape.

Coroner's Office Investigators arrived at Freedom Park at approximately 1000 hours. They inventoried and photographed Wright's property at the scene. They found several bottles of prescription medication next to Wright and in his personal belongings. Next to the pill bottles was a note that read:

"Please let me say livin life just to have fun and play gets old especially once all the drugs are sold out then your left in the shadows."

A second note was found that provided an address for Wright's father and Wright's statement that he wanted to die.

The Coroner investigators saw no trauma on Wright's body. They found nothing that made them suspect Wright's death was related to foul play. Per the Coroner Investigators, the medication found at the scene was most commonly prescribed for schizophrenia, depression and epilepsy.

Davis mortuary personnel arrived at Freedom Park at approximately 1030 hours.

There were no media personnel at the scene.

A citizen by the name of Warren Foshee walked up next to the scene and stated a friend in the park called him and told him about Wright. Warren stated his son lives with the decedent's sister in Arkansas. The sister's name is Carol Doviall at 870-291-3285. Warren stated he has been a friend of the decedent for 6-7 years.

Wright's SCOPE record indicates he had two felony convictions; Possession of Controlled Substance and Arson 1st degree. He had a Murder charge in 1995 that was later dismissed. All other offenses were mostly drug related. Per Offendertrak, Wright was never incarcerated at the City Detention Center.

Please let me know if you need anything else.

Hi, All. Please be aware our DPS team is investigating an apparent suicide in Gary Reese Freedom Park. A black male adult, 55, was found dead at one of the picnic tables. Investigators say it appears he overdosed on some type of pills. Metro is assisting in the investigation. Those on the scene are waiting for the coroner to arrive at this time.

Payments and the friction of security

In a Feb. 2 blog on the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank's Retail payments Risk Forum, David Lott writes: "One of the critical elements in a consumer's experience when performing a financial transaction is the concept of friction. In the payments environment, friction can be measured by the number and degree of barriers that impede a smooth and successful transaction flow. ... We usually think that to decrease friction is to increase convenience."

Lott raises the issue of increased friction due to the requirement to leave EMV cards in retailer terminals during transactions. Read the blog

Study: Childhood Spanking Linked to Adult Mental Health Problems

Spanking young children can cause long-term emotional harm, raising the risk of depression, substance abuse, and suicide into adulthood, according to a University of Michigan analysis. The researchers examined data from more than 8,300 adults who had participated in the landmark CDC-Kaiser ACE study to confirm the link between physical punishment and mental health problems. The authors believe that the results raise the question of whether spanking should be considered an adverse childhood experience in line with abuse, neglect, or household dysfunction, including divorce or having an incarcerated parent.

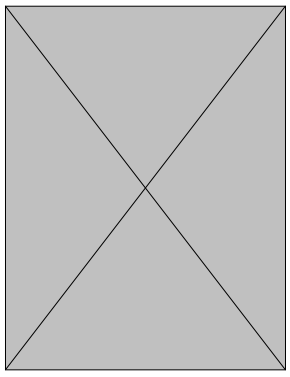
This list-style booklet offers practical tips and helpful strategies for handling child discipline and behavior issues.

A positive-discipline handbook that parents will turn to again and again

As you know, it's important for parents to understand that positive, loving discipline is the most effective way to nurture children and help them learn to make responsible choices.
Loving Discipline For Children Ages 1 Through 5; A Parent's Handbook in English (EM93254)K and Spanish (EM94487)K guides parents to a better understanding of age-appropriate discipline techniques. It helps parents:



32 pages, 8 1/2" x 11"

- improve their understanding of developmental stages and behavior
- gain insight into the role healthy discipline plays in their child's self-control, self-esteem, and respect for others.

What Act 170 Means For Shareholder Litigation In Pa.

Pennsylvania corporations should not overlook Act 170's provisions concerning shareholder litigation, which differ from Delaware's standards and procedures in several important respects. The newly effective law is more demanding of shareholders and deferential to the properly considered determinations of a corporation, say Michael Kichline and Stuart Steinberg of Dechert LLP. Honestly, What Is The Best Science?

No doubt, there will be a vigorous debate over which interpretation of "best science" the new administration should (or must) apply in developing chemical regulations. It is therefore timely to review briefly these science policy issues and speculate over whether there is any hope that there are opportunities to reach consensus on this issue, says William Walsh of Clark Hill PLC. IMPORTANT TOPICS OF INTEREST

Monday, April 10, 2017:

AB 307 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Health and Human Services. AB 307 requires a host organization in a county whose population is 700,000 or more (currently Clark County) to obtain from the applicable local government before the special event an approval of the reserve transport services that are to be provided by the host organization at the special event. Proposed amendments submitted by Assemblyman Oscarson, MGM, and City of Henderson. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman James Oscarson. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 359 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Commerce and Labor. AB 359 exempts a person who enters into a contract with the State of Nevada or any of its political corporations or subdivisions to perform work to maintain or repair property and who directs the work of a licensed contractor from licensure as a contractor. Assemblyman Thompson submitted an amendment that exempts an entity recognized by the Internal Revenue Service as a nonprofit, which facilitates the repair or maintenance of a property and facilitates work to be performed by a licensed contractor, from licensure as a contractor. The amendment further specifies that the property owner must also be a party to a contract with the exempt entity and the licensed contractor. Sponsored by: Assemblyman Thompson. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 452 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Commerce and Labor. AB 452 requires the Legislative Committee on Energy to conduct a study during the 2017–2018 Interim concerning energy choice. The study must include: 1) consideration of any issue, policy, or requirement identified in Ballot Question No. 3, the Energy Choice Initiative, approved by the voters at the 2016 General Election; and 2) a review of the work of the Governor's Committee on Energy Choice established by the Governor after the voters' approval of the Energy Choice Initiative. Primary Sponsor: Assembly Committee on Commerce and Labor. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 469 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Education). AB 469 contains various provisions regarding the organization of a "large school district," which is defined as a school district that has more than 100,000 students enrolled in its public schools (currently the Clark County School District). Among other provisions, the bill repeals AB 394 from the 2015 Session and places in statute the requirements for the reorganization of a large school district, including deeming each public school within such a district, other than a charter school or a university school for profoundly gifted pupils, to be a local school precinct that is operated under site-based decision-making and that has authority to carry out certain responsibilities that have traditionally been carried out by the district. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Jason Frierson. Do Pass.

SB 267 (Strongly Support) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Senate Committee on Judiciary. SB 267 revises provisions governing the expedited process for the foreclosure of abandoned residential property and removes the 2017 sunset date. The sponsor has submitted a friendly amendment which removes a requirement that sales in a county with a population of less than 100,000 must take place at the county courthouse. Primary Sponsor: Senator Aaron Ford. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 356 (Oppose): Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Senate Committee on Government Affairs. SB 356 revises provisions relating to collective bargaining by increasing the amount of time within which the Local Government Employee-Management Relations Board must conduct a hearing relating to certain complaints ; removing certain restrictions on payment of compensation or monetary benefits upon expiration of a collective bargaining agreement; revising various provisions relating to negotiations between a school district and an employee organization; and repealing certain provisions governing leave for services to an employee organization and governing school administrators. Primary Sponsor: Senator Kelvin Atkinson. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 453 (Strongly Oppose): Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Senate Committee on Judiciary. SB 453 revises provisions relating to criminal procedure authorizing a person who was dishonorably discharged from probation to apply to a court for the sealing of records of criminal history relating to the conviction; revising various provisions relating to the filing of petitions for the sealing of records of criminal history. The City of Henderson and the Nevada District Attorneys Association each submitted a proposed amendment. Primary Sponsor: Senate Committee on Judiciary. Amend, Re-referred to Senate Committee on Finance. (Exempt)

AJR 10 (Strongly Support) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Commerce and Labor. AJR 10 expresses opposition to the development of a repository for spent nuclear fuel and high-level radioactive waste at Yucca Mountain in the State of Nevada. The resolution protests any attempt by the United States Congress to move forward with the repository for spent nuclear fuel and high-level radioactive waste at the site; calls on the President of the United States to veto legislation that would locate such waste in this State; and calls on the Secretary of Energy to find the proposed repository unsuitable, abandon consideration of Yucca Mountain as a site, and initiate a process to find alternative strategies for dealing with such waste. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Chris Brooks. Do Pass.

Tuesday, April 11, 2017:

AB 154 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 154 revises provisions relating to prevailing wages which decreases the minimum threshold for the applicability of prevailing wage requirements on public works projects from $250,000 to $100,000. The bill also removes the 90 percent prevailing wage rate exception for public works constructed by school districts and the Nevada System of Higher Education. Finally, the bill eliminates the prevailing wage exemption for public works constructed by charter schools. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Chris Brooks. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 179 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, in Senate Committee on Revenue and Economic Development. SB 179 provides that an owner of a business or a person who has operated a business in this State continuously for at least 10 years that owns, operates, manufactures, services, maintains, tests, repairs, overhauls or assembles an aircraft or any component of an aircraft may apply to the Governor's Office of Economic Development (GOED) to receive a partial abatement of personal property taxes and sales and use taxes. Under the provisions of SB 179, such a business that has operated continuously in the State for at least 10 years would not be required to meet the eligibility requirements with respect to new employees, capital investment, or average hourly wages that are established under the current GOED abatement program for aircraft-related businesses. However, receiving the partial abatement requires the business to commit to remain in the State for the next five years expands the eligibility for tax abatements for certain businesses related to airplanes. Primary Sponsor: Senator Moises Denis. Do Pass.

SB 391 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, in Senate Committee on Education. SB 391 establishes the Nevada Promise Scholarship Account in the State General Fund, and provides the eligibility requirements for a student to receive or renew a Nevada Promise Scholarship. This bill requires community colleges within the Nevada System of Higher Education to award scholarships to eligible students, and to provide training and mentoring programs for scholarship applicants. The bill also requires the State's plan to improve the achievement of pupils enrolled in public schools to include strategies to provide information regarding Nevada Promise Scholarships. The scholarship program is subject to audit and the Board of Regents must submit an annual report to the Legislature. Senator Harris and the College of Southern Nevada each proposed a friendly conceptual amendment. Among other things, the amendments require each community college or local partnering organization to maintain and offer a list of approved community service opportunities. Primary Sponsor: Senator Moises Denis. Amend, Re-referred to Senate Committee on Finance. (Notice of Eligibility, Exempt)

ACR 7 (Support) Work Session: Heard on March 30, 2017, in work session on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, and scheduled to be heard again on Tuesday, April 18, 2017, all in the Assembly Committee on Legislative Operations and Elections. ACR 7 proposes a study of property taxes to be conducted in the 2017–2018 Interim by a committee of six legislators. The members of the interim study committee must include the Chairs of the 2017 Assembly Standing Committee on Taxation and the Senate Standing Committee on Revenue and Economic Development. The remaining members of the interim study committee must also be members of the same standing committees. The Legislative Commission must submit a report and recommendations from the interim study committee to the 2019 Session of the Legislature. Primary Sponsor: Assemblywoman Dina Neal. Heard.

SJR 14 (Support): Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, in Senate Committee on Revenue and Economic Development. SJR 14 is proposing to amend the Nevada Constitution to revise provisions relating to the assessment and taxation of property which is sold or transferred and to require the Legislature to enact a "Senior and Disabled Taxpayers Protection Act" to provide property tax assistance to senior citizens and persons with disabilities. Primary Sponsor: Senate Committee on Revenue and Economic Development. Heard. (Waiver granted)

Wednesday, April 12, 2017:

AB 100 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 100 removes a provision that requires a contractor to waive a right to damages or an extension of time as a result of a delay caused by certain actions by a public body. Instead, the bill makes applicable to an agreement between a public body and a prime contractor for work and labor on a public work a provision of existing law that provides that in an agreement between an owner and a prime contractor a provision that requires the prime contractor to waive a right to damages or an extension of time acquired as a result of certain disruptions or other events is void and unenforceable. Nevada Chapter Associated General Contractors submitted an amendment that removes changes proposed to Chapter 624 ("Contractors") of Nevada Revised Statutes (NRS) and revises Chapter 338 ("Public Works") of NRS to clarify that provisions of the bill only apply to public works contracts. Primary Sponsor: Assemblywoman Heidi Swank. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 223 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Commerce and Labor. AB 223 revises provisions relating to energy efficiency programs and requires an electric utility to include in its resource plan an energy efficiency plan that reduces the consumption of electricity through energy efficiency and conservation programs and is designed to be cost effective. Assemblyman McCurdy II submitted an amendment that revises the definition of "cost effective" to allow the Public Utilities Commission of Nevada to select the test it will utilize to assess an energy efficiency plan or program. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman William McCurdy II. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 267 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Commerce and Labor. AB 267 modifies provisions relating to claims for occupational illness or disease. The bill would allow a claimant with an occupational disease of cancer, lung disease, or heart disease to obtain temporary total disability benefits, regardless of whether the claimant was incapacitated for at least 5 cumulative days within a 20-day period. The bill also provides that if an employer, insurer, or third-party administrator denies an occupational disease claim and the claimant ultimately prevails, the employer, insurer, or administrator must pay all the claimant's attorney's fees and associated costs. Finally, this bill restricts the dissemination and use of certain physical examinations required to be obtained by firefighters, arson investigators, and police officers and revises provisions governing industrial insurance. Assemblyman Araujo submitted an amendment to: 1) further refine the allowable dissemination and use of the physical examinations required of certain employees; 2) include the word "reasonable" for the award of attorney's fees and associated costs; and 3) specifies that the attorney's fees and costs do not include those incurred by the claimant prior to a hearing before a hearing officer. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Nelson Araujo. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 271 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 271 provides that the findings and award of the fact finder are final and binding on the parties engaged in collective bargaining negotiations. For labor disputes involving firefighters and police officers, the bill provides that unless the parties to the dispute agree to make the findings of the fact finder final and binding: 1) the report of the fact finder must include recommendations for settlement of the dispute, in lieu of an award; and 2) the findings and recommendations of the fact finder are not binding on the parties. The bill clarifies that leave provided by a local government employer to an employee for time spent by the employee in performing duties or providing services for an employee organization is a mandatory subject of collective bargaining. The bill also provides that unless the terms of the agreement between a local government employer and an employee organization provide otherwise, if the local government employer agrees to provide such leave, there is a rebuttable presumption that the full cost of such leave has been offset by the value of concessions made by the employee organization. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Richard Carrillo. Do Pass.

SB 329 (Strongly Oppose-Marijuana Bill) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, in Senate Committee on Judiciary. SB 329 revises various provisions relating to marijuana concerning health and regulation. SB 329 transfers the medical marijuana program from the Division of Public and Behavioral Health to the Department of Taxation and authorizes registration of medical marijuana research facilities and nonprofit medical marijuana dispensaries. This bill also increases the amount of marijuana a registry cardholder may possess and allows a cardholder to grow or produce marijuana and give marijuana to another cardholder in certain instances. The bill authorizes the growth and handling of industrial hemp and agricultural hemp seed; and allows medical marijuana establishments to organize as corporations and issue stock. The holder of a medical marijuana establishment agent registration card to work in various facilities without having to obtain more than one card. Senator Segerblom proposed two amendments. The first amendment: 1) removes hemp; 2) removes provisions on nonprofits; 3) defines an "attending provider of health care"; 4) removes the increased amount of marijuana a person may hold; 5) requires at least one cultivation facility and production facility in each county; and 6) deletes certain other provisions. The second amendment: 1) requires the Department of Taxation to collect and compile certain information; 2) adds provisions relating to race, ethnicity, and gender; and 3) applies pesticides provisions to recreational marijuana in the same manner they are currently as applied to medical marijuana. Primary Sponsor: Senator Tick Segerblom. Re-referred to Senate Committee on Finance.

SB 344 (Support-Marijuana Bill) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, in Senate Committee on Judiciary. SB 344 sets forth the following requirements regarding edible marijuana products: 1) products must be labeled with the number of THC servings based on a 25 milligram single serving; 2) edible or marijuana-infused products must be in a single package and contain a notice regarding its potency established via testing; 3) various potency requirements are set forth depending upon the product in question; 4) edible products that appear to be candy or modeled after cartoon characters, mascots, action figures, balloons, fruits or toys, or another product that is marketed to children are prohibited; 5) transparent packaging is prohibited; 6) advertising that appeals to children is prohibited; and 7) concentrated marijuana is prohibited from being applied to commercially available food or candy. Senator Farley proposed three amendments that add a definition of "candy" for the purpose of regulating the production and sales of edible marijuana products in order that they not appeal to children and reduces a single serving amount of edible marijuana from 25 milligrams to 10 milligrams. The amendments also make changes regarding how retail stores are to handle edible products and prohibits local governments from enacting ordinances regulating edible marijuana products. Primary Sponsor: Senator Patricia Farley. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 407 (Strongly Support): Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Senate Committee on Commerce, Labor and Energy, Subcommittee on Energy and then again during work session on Wednesday, April 12, 2017. SB 407 creates the Nevada Green Bank Program. The measure creates a Board of Directors of the Program, whose responsibility is to carry out the Program. An account for Clean Energy Loans is created and administered by the Board; the money from which is to be used only to carry out the Program. Further, the bill sets forth the duties and powers of an energy improvement program that makes loans of money distributed to the energy improvement program from the account. Primary Sponsor: Senator Pat Spearman. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 449 (Strongly Support) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, in Senate Committee on Judiciary. SB 449 authorizes justice and municipal courts to establish treatment programs for offenders who are veterans or military members and to assign such offenders to those programs rather than transfer jurisdiction to a district court to take part in such programs. Senator Cannizzaro submitted a conceptual amendment to the bill as follows: 1) amend Section 2 to include victims of military sexual assault to the definition of an "eligible defendant"; 2) clarify that a defendant accused of a misdemeanor battery constituting domestic violence or a misdemeanor offense of driving while under the influence may elect to participate in Veterans Court so long as the defendant is adjudicated of the offense prior to admission to a Veterans Court; and 3) upon competition of Veterans Court by such a defendant, the court may dismiss the case; however, the defendant may not seal their records until after seven years, and any case dismissed pursuant to this section may be used for enhancement or bail purposes in the future and prior to the records being sealed. Primary Sponsor: Senate Committee on Judiciary. Amend, Do Pass.

Thursday, April 13, 2017:

AB 68 (Strongly Support) Work Session: Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, and again in work session on Thursday, April 13, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Transportation. AB 68 was introduced by the Department of Motor Vehicles as a cleanup bill to address a variety of programs. The original bill focused on clean up language related to records dissemination, autonomous vehicles and other technologies, driver authorization cards, drive schools, and amendments to clean up license fees for those 65 years of age or older. The Department of Motor Vehicles submitted a friendly amendment due to an agreement to move forward with language within Assembly Bill 69 under the Governor's Office of Economic Development. Primary Sponsor: Assembly Committee on Transportation. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 108 (Strongly Support): Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, and in work session on Thursday, April 13, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Ways and Means. AB 108 provides for the periodic review of Medicaid reimbursement rates every four years by the Division of Health Care Financing and Policy (DHCFP) of the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS). If DHCFP finds that the rate of reimbursement for a service or item does not accurately reflect the actual cost of providing the service or item, this bill requires DHCFP to calculate the rate of reimbursement that accurately reflects the actual cost of providing the service or item and recommend that rate to the Director of DHHS for possible inclusion in the State Plan for Medicaid. Southern Nevada Forum priority bill. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman James Oscarson. Do Pass.

AB 417 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, and again on Thursday, April 13 during works session in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 417 creates the Nevada Main Street Program within the Department of Tourism and Cultural Affairs. The Program is designed to provide State-level coordination with the National Main Street Center, Inc., which is a wholly owned subsidiary of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. The bill requires the Director of the Department of Tourism and Cultural Affairs to: 1) adopt regulations setting forth the requirements to apply for and receive approval as a designated local Main Street program; and 2) coordinate the Program and approve or deny applications for grants to designated local Main Street programs. Further, the bill creates the Account for the Nevada Main Street Program in the State General Fund to accept donations, grants, and other types of funding for the award of grants and operation of the Program. The bill makes an appropriation of $500,000 from the State General Fund to the Interim Finance Committee for allocation to the Department of Tourism and Cultural Affairs for the operation of the Program and to provide grants to designated local Main Street programs. Primary Sponsor: Assemblywoman Heidi Swank. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 463 (Support-Marijuana Bill): Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, and again on Thursday, April 13, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Taxation. AB 463 revises current provisions relating to state and local taxes imposed on medical marijuana in this state. The bill removes the current 2 percent tax imposed on producers of edible marijuana products or marijuana-infused products, as well as the 2 percent tax imposed on the retail sale of marijuana products at a medical marijuana dispensary. The rate on the wholesale sale of marijuana by a cultivation facility is increased from 2 percent to 15 percent. Additionally, this bill limits the license tax that may be imposed by cities and counties on marijuana establishments or medical marijuana establishments to 5 percent of the gross revenue of the establishment. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Nelson Araujo. Do Pass.

SB 315 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Thursday, April 13, 2017, in Senate Committee on Natural Resources. SB 315 revises the provisions relating to waste disposal by requiring the State Environmental Commission to study and make recommendations concerning certain agreements limiting the amount that a franchisee may charge certain persons for the disposal of construction and demolition waste and prohibiting the governing body of a municipality from displacing or limiting competition in the collection, transportation and disposal of commercial recyclable material. This bill also requires a county whose population is 100,000 or more to divert a certain percentage of solid waste from landfills revising the statutory goal for recycling solid waste and requiring the board of county commissioners of each county in this State to report certain information to the Commission and the Legislature. Primary Sponsor: Senator Patricia Farley. Re-refer to Senate Committee on Finance.

SB 341 (Strongly Oppose-Marijuana Bill) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, in Senate Committee on Judiciary. SB 341 allows local governments to request additional medical marijuana dispensary registrations, provides that money generated from registrations may be used for educational purposes related to the safe use and abuse of marijuana, allows the Nevada System of Higher Education to seek approval for and the establishment of marijuana research programs. The bill also prohibits local governments from regulating medical and nonmedical marijuana establishments differently from other businesses and limits any license tax to 3 percent of the establishment's gross revenue. Several amendments were proposed at the initial hearing on this bill. The sponsor has incorporated approved amendments into a proposed amendment in conceptual form that authorizes medical marijuana research facilities and removes Sections 8 through 11 of the bill relating to local government regulation. Primary Sponsor: Senator Patricia Farley. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 390 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, and in work session on Thursday, April 13, 2017, in Senate Committee on Education. Kelly Crompton, City of Las Vegas, testified in support of SB 390 as it extends the Zoom schools program for the 2017–2019 biennium, and revises the manner in which a certain amount of money received by an elementary Zoom school must be used. The Clark County School District submitted a friendly conceptual amendment to: 1) eliminate the 2 percent cap on the use of funds for professional development, family engagement, and teacher incentives; and 2) require a reading skills center in a Zoom elementary school to provide support in the assessment of problems and barriers for students in grades K through 5, and additional instructional intervention for students in grades 4 or 5 for whom problems or barriers still exist. In addition, the Department of Education proposed a friendly comprehensive conceptual amendment to revise and expand the Zoom program to incorporate elements of Senate Bill 504 from this Session. Primary Sponsor: Senator Moises Denis. Heard, Re-referred to Senate Committee on Finance.

SB 448 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, and in work session on Thursday, April 13, 2017, in Senate Committee on Transportation. Brian McAnallen, City of Las Vegas, testified in support of SB 448 as it extends provisions authorizing a public body to accept a request from a person who wishes to develop, construct, improve, maintain, or operate a transportation facility to other facilities, including tourism improvement projects. The bill also provides for the use of a public-private partnership to plan, finance, design, construct, improve, maintain, operate, or acquire the rights-of-way for an eligible facility. The measure provides for the financing of certain eligible facilities and the disposition of money that is received and is to be retained by a public body pursuant to a public-private partnership. The Regional Transportation Commission of Southern Nevada submitted an amendment, which makes various changes, including: 1) changing "this State" to "the county in which the revenue is generated" when referring to where money may be used that is generated by a public body pursuant to a public-private partnership; and 2) changing the definition of "transportation facility" to match the definition in Senate Bill 517 from this session. Southern Nevada Forum bill. Primary Sponsor: Senate Committee on Transportation. Amend, Do Pass.

Friday, April 14, 2017:  First Committee Passage Deadline April 14, 2017 **

AB 5 (Strongly Support) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, and in work session on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. Brian McAnallen, City of Las Vegas, testified in strong support of AB 5 as it provides for the creation by a local government, without an election, of a local improvement district that includes an energy efficiency improvement project or a renewable energy project. A conceptual amendment submitted by the Governor's Office of Energy will allow Property Assessed Clean Energy (PACE) enabling legislation for commercial PACE programs only with a requirement for lender consent to be provided on a form and in a manner, which is a legally recordable document. The amendment also requires an energy audit and/or renewable energy feasibility study to be performed prior to the issuance of any loan. Primary Sponsor: Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 135 (Oppose - Marijuana) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017 in Assembly Committee on Judiciary. AB 135 removes the use of a person's urine to test for specified amounts of marijuana and marijuana metabolite when a person is suspected of driving or be in actual physical control of a vehicle on a highway or public premises. The measure provides that the amount of marijuana and marijuana metabolite in a person's system must be measured through a blood test. The bill makes the same changes to similar provisions of existing law relating to a person driving or being in actual physical control of a commercial motor vehicle on a highway or on premises to which the public has access or operating or being in actual physical control of a vessel under power or sail on the waters of this State. Assemblyman Yeager proposed an amendment deleting the saliva test in Section 4 of the bill. Primary Sponsor: Assembly Committee on Judiciary. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 217 (Strongly Support) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 217 requires a county or city, as applicable, to revoke the business license issued to a place of transient lodging located within its jurisdiction if: 1) there have been repeated acts of prostitution regularly occurring on the premises; and 2) the person in control of the place of transient lodging knew or should have known that acts of prostitution were regularly occurring on the premises and failed to take reasonable remedial measures to ensure that such violations did not continue to occur. Assemblyman Hambrick submitted a proposed amendment that will make the following changes: 1) makes the bill permissive by replacing “shall” with “may” regarding the revocation of a license; 2) allows for a civil penalty in lieu of a suspension or revocation of a license; 3) describes the circumstances in which an owner, operator, agent, property manager, or employee of a place of transient lodging knew or should have known of violations regularly occurring on the premises; and 4) makes conforming changes for incorporated cities. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman John Hambrick. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 277 (Strongly Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 277 restricts the general authority of any local government in this State to enact certain changes relating to planning, subdividing, and zoning of certain lands located within any national conservation area, national recreation area, or adjacent lands. The bill repeals certain provisions of the Red Rock Canyon Conservation Area and Adjacent Lands Act and also repeals certain provisions of the Spring Mountains National Recreation Area Act. Assemblyman Yeager submitted a proposed amendment to reduce the buffer zone down to 1.5 miles and exempt all development agreements executed prior to this bill date. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Steve Yeager. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 321 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 321 requires the board of county commissioners of a county or the city council or governing body of an incorporated city to adopt an ordinance requiring the submission of quarterly reports by an online hosting platform that facilitates the rental of a residential unit or a room or space within a residential unit for the purposes of transient lodging. Under this bill, the quarterly report must include certain information concerning the rentals facilitated by the hosting platform in the county or city, as applicable, and the revenue from such rentals. The bill further requires the ordinance to authorize an agency of the county or city, as applicable, to issue a subpoena requiring a hosting platform to produce documents, records, or materials necessary for determining whether a rental of a residential unit or a room or space within a residential unit has violated the laws of this State or an ordinance adopted by the county or city in which the residential unit is located. City of Henderson proposed an amendment that changes “shall” to “may” to make the law permissive for the purposes of authorizing an agency of the county to issue subpoenas for certain records related to short-term rentals. The amendment also revises the required contents of reports provided to a city by a hosting platform that facilitates the rentals for the purposes of transient lodging. Primary Sponsor: Assemblywoman Heidi Swank. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 404 (Strongly Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 404 creates the Nevada Office of the Inspector General and provides that the Office of the Inspector General consists of the Inspector General and any person employed in the Office of the Inspector General. The bill requires the Governor to appoint the Inspector General for a term of four years from a list of candidates submitted by the Legislative Commission. The bill also requires the Inspector General to appoint a Deputy Inspector General and a Special Counsel who are in the unclassified service of this State and authorizes the Inspector General, within the limits of available money, to employ such persons in the classified service of this State as he or she deems necessary to provide an appropriate staff for the Office. Assemblywoman Miller submitted a proposed amendment that: 1) defines “Waste” as the squandering of money or resources, whether or not the activity is lawful; 2) requires the Inspector General to be certified by the Associations of Inspectors General; 3) bars a former Inspector General from holding an elected office in this State for four years; 4) lowers the felony level from C to E for a person who willfully impedes the Inspector General from carrying out his or her duties; and 5) clarifies the reporting requirements of the Inspector General. Primary Sponsor: Assemblywoman Brittney Miller. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 409 (Support): Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, and again in work session on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Education. Kelly Compton, City of Las Vegas, testified in support of AB 409 as it revises provisions relating to the subject area of reading. The Nevada Association of School Psychologists has proposed a conceptual amendment to: 1) reinstate a retention provision, but "shift the final determination of the retention decision to a collaborative team-based model" that includes the parent or legal guardian as a team member who makes the final determination regarding whether a student is retained in grade 3; and 2) replace language referencing kindergarten through grade 5 with language referencing "elementary grades". Primary Sponsor: Assembly Committee on Education. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 433 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Tuesday, April 11, 2017, and during work session on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 433 revises provisions relating to public works for which the estimated cost exceeds $100,000 to the responsive and responsible bidder offering the best value bid if, after notice and a public hearing, the public body or its authorized representative determines that the public work presents unique and complex construction challenges. This bill also sets forth the criteria for a public body or its authorized representative to consider when determining the responsive and responsible bidder offering the best value bid. Assemblyman Brooks and Clark County each submitted conceptual amendments. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Chris Brooks. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 437 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. AB 437 requires the Division of Enterprise Information Technology Services of the Department of Administration to establish and maintain a statewide nonemergency information system to provide information to and accept reports from the general public regarding nonemergency situations in this State. Further, the bill requires each State agency in the Executive Department of the State Government to participate in the statewide nonemergency information system unless it is authorized to withdraw from participation. Additionally, the measure also authorizes a local governmental agency to participate in the statewide nonemergency information system if the local governmental agency pays certain costs associated with its participation. Finally, the bill requires the Division to: 1) develop a plan for the design, development, and implementation of the statewide nonemergency information system by May 1, 2018; and 2) enter into a contract for the design, development, and implementation of the system by June 30, 2019. Primary Sponsor: Assembly Committee on Government Affairs. Do Pass.

AB 356 (Strongly Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Judiciary. AB 356 revises provisions governing discovery in criminal cases. The bill requires the prosecuting attorney, defendant's attorney, and lead investigating law enforcement officer to meet and exchange all discoverable materials not less than 30 days before trial. The bill specifies that the court is authorized to make such an order upon a sufficient showing that the material subject to discovery or inspection is privileged. The court is authorized to order upon a sufficient showing that the material subject to discovery or inspection is privileged and requires the court to include a statement explaining the determination that the material is privileged revises provisions relating to criminal procedure. Assemblyman Yeager proposed an amendment that would: 1) delete the entire bill; 2) amend NRS 174.315 to indicate that a subpoena can be issued for witnesses to appear for an evidentiary hearing (in addition to a preliminary hearing or trial); 3) amend NRS 174.335 to specify that providing the option of production of documents in lieu of personal appearance for a subpoena for documents does not invalidate the subpoena; and 4) amend NRS 175.161 (3) (jury instructions) to state that "Either party may present to the court any written charge, and request that it be given. If the court thinks that the charge is pertinent and an accurate statement of the law, whether or not the charge has been adopted as a model jury instruction, it must be given. If the court thinks that the charge is not pertinent or not an accurate statement of the law, then it must be refused". Primary Sponsor: Assemblywoman Dina Neal. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 376 (Strongly Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Judiciary. AB 376 revises provisions governing criminal procedure and discovery in criminal cases. The bill requires the complaint when a person is arrested without a warrant to be filed within 48 hours after the person is brought before the magistrate. The prosecuting attorney is deemed to be in constructive possession of all materials that are created, generated, or collected by any and all law enforcement agencies, and must meet with the defendant's attorney and the law enforcement officer who is in charge of the investigation and exchange all discoverable materials no later than 30 days before trial. To ensure compliance, the prosecuting attorney and the defendant's attorney must sign and file with the court an affidavit. Assemblyman Yeager proposed an amendment that: 1) deletes Sections 2 through 12 of the bill; 2) requires that after an arrest, a complaint must be filed within 72 hours, and allows 48-hour extensions for good cause shown. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman James Ohrenschall. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 470 (Strongly Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, and in work session on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee on Judiciary. Kelly Crompton, City of Las Vegas, testified in strong opposition of AB 470 as it creates a pre-prosecution diversion program for certain persons who have been accused of a misdemeanor, gross misdemeanor, or felony. The bill specifies who is eligible for the program and provides when a court is required to order a defendant to complete a pre-prosecution diversion program. The probation officer, the district attorney, and the defendant are required to appear at a hearing to determine whether the defendant could be rehabilitated by a program of treatment and to determine any appropriate sanctions to be imposed on the defendant, which may include, without limitation, community service, restitution, or a curfew. The bill requires the court to dismiss the charge or charges against the defendant if he or she successfully completes the terms and conditions of the pre-prosecution diversion program. A defendant who fails to complete the terms and conditions of the pre-prosecution diversion program must be dismissed from the program and be prosecuted in the normal manner provided by law. Assemblyman Yeager proposed a conceptual amendment to clarify several areas of the bill. Primary Sponsor: Assemblyman Steve Yeager. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 357 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Senate Committee on Commerce, Labor and Energy and then in Work Session on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Senate Committee on Commerce, Labor and Energy. SB 357 requires a public body that awards a contract for a public work for which the estimated cost exceeds $1,000,000 to ensure that an apprentice performs not less than a certain percentage of the total hours of labor on the public work, starting at 3 percent for a contract awarded in Calendar Year 2018 and rising to 15 percent for a contract awarded in or after Calendar Year 2022. The measure imposes that requirement upon the Department of Transportation if the estimated cost of the contract exceeds $2,000,000. The measure requires the State Apprenticeship Council to approve or deny certain written request submitted by a public body concerning the required use of an apprentice on a public work. The Council is authorized to suspend the right of a contractor on a public work to participate in a program of apprenticeship under certain circumstances. Senator Atkinson submitted an amendment. Primary Sponsor: Senator Kelvin Atkinson. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 392 (Support) Work Session: Heard on Monday, April 10, 2017, in Senate Committee on Commerce, Labor and Energy, Subcommittee on Energy and again on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Senate Committee on Commerce, Labor and Energy. SB 392 revises provisions relating to the payments of incentives to participants in the Solar Energy Systems Incentives Program, the Wind Energy Systems Demonstration Program, and the Water Power Energy Systems Demonstration Program. The measure enacts provisions governing a community solar garden. Primary Sponsor: Senator Moises Denis. Amend, Do Pass.

AB 429 (Oppose): Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Assembly Committee of Health and Human Services. AB 429 enacts provisions governing the interstate provision of EMS and the interstate practice of psychology. Assemblyman Oscarson submitted a conceptual amendment to: 1) eliminate all sections of the bill related to the Recognition of Emergency Medical Services Personnel Licensure Interstate Compact, and retain sections related to the Psychology Inter-Jurisdictional Compact; 2) revise sections implementing the Psychology Inter-Jurisdictional Compact to reflect the most recent version of the Compact as proposed by the Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards. Primary Sponsor: Assembly Committee on Health and Human Services. Heard, Amend Do Pass.

SB 5 (Strongly Oppose): Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Senate Committee on Government Affairs. SB 5 revises provisions to the issuance of private activity bonds revising provisions governing the allocation of the limits established by federal law on the issuance of certain bonds that are exempt from taxation. Nevada League of Cities and Municipalities submitted a proposed amendment to establish a special committee in statue instead of regulation. Nevada League of Cities and Municipalities bill. Primary Sponsor: Senate Committee on Government Affairs. Do Pass, Re-referred to Senate Committee on Finance.

SB 282 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Senate Committee on Government Affairs. SB 282 revises provisions relating to peace officers in an administrative proceeding or civil action against a peace officer, if evidence was obtained in violation of the peace officer's rights, the evidence is inadmissible and the arbitrator, hearing officer, or court shall exclude the evidence and enter an order. This bill also prohibits the suspension of a peace officer, without regard to contrary provisions in an applicable collective bargaining agreement, until the conclusion of the investigations of the peace officer; and prohibits, with certain exceptions, a law enforcement agency from keeping or making a record of any inadmissible evidence from an investigation which is abated pursuant to an order by an arbitrator, a hearing officer. or the court. Senator Segerblom submitted a proposed amendment that changes "a request" to "an order" and other changes. Primary Sponsor: Senator Tick Segerblom. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 317 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Senate Committee on Government Affairs. SB 317 creates a preference of 5 percent for a bid or proposal for a State purchasing contract that is submitted by a "Nevada-based business". The measure imposes certain penalties and restrictions upon a business that makes a material misrepresentation or commits a fraudulent act in applying for a preference or fails to comply with the requirements for a preference. Further, it is punishable as a misdemeanor for any person who willfully makes a material misrepresentation or commits a fraudulent act in applying for a preference or fails to comply with the requirements for a preference and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000. A separate violation is created for each worker or vehicle by which the applicant falls below the requirements. The bidding preference that a contractor, applicant to serve as a construction manager at risk, or design-build team who meets certain requirements receives for certain public works contracts is increased from 5 percent to 10 percent. Senator Cannizzaro submitted a proposed conceptual agreement that will make several changes including: 1) deem the cost of the bid to be 5 percent lower than the cost of the bid submitted; 2) deem the score of the proposal determined pursuant to NRS 333.335 to be 5 percent higher. Primary Sponsor: Senator Nicole Cannizzaro. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 395 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Wednesday, April 12, 2017, and again in work session on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Senate Committee on Government Affairs. Brian McAnallen, City of Las Vegas, testified in opposition of SB 395 as it requires the Nevada Commission on Homeland Security to designate as critical infrastructure an entity, asset, or system that is so vital that the incapacity or destruction thereof would have a debilitating impact on the economy or security of this State or the public health and safety of the citizens of this State. The Commission is prohibited from disclosing or authorizing or requiring the disclosure of any proprietary information or information indicating a weakness in the cybersecurity of the critical infrastructure except in certain circumstances. Senator Spearman submitted a proposed amendment to: 1) add a preamble to the bill which describes the importance of information security for governmental entities, private businesses, and private citizens, so that they can protect their information and systems; and 2) remove the existing provisions of the bill and instead add new provisions which would be modeled, in part, after NRS 603A.215 which governs security measures for data collectors that accept payment cards. Primary Sponsor: Senator Pat Spearman. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 429 (Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Senate Committee on Government Affairs. SB 429 authorizes a governing body of a city or county to establish an urban agriculture zone by ordinance for the purpose of promoting the development and operation of urban agriculture. This bill provides that a master plan may also include an urban agricultural element, which must include a plan to inventory any vacant lands owned by the city or county and blighted lands in the city or county to determine if such lands may be suitable for urban farming or gardening. The fiscal note from the City of Las Vegas was prompted by a provision in existing law, specifically subsection 5 of NRS 278.150, that requires the governing body of the city or county, in a county whose population is 700,000 or more, to adopt a master plan that addresses each of the elements set forth in NRS 278.160. Primary Sponsor: Senate Committee on Natural Resources. Amend, Do Pass.

SB 477 (Strongly Oppose) Work Session: Heard on Friday, April 14, 2017, in Senate Committee on Government Affairs. Brian McAnallen, City of Las Vegas, testified against the bill, noting that building and fire code did not belong in state statute. Agreed to work on language to help remove those provisions and address the concerns of the sponsor. Clark County building officials strongly opposed. SB 477 requires that in any ordinance adopted by a city or county, the definition of the term "single-family residence" must include: 1) a residential facility for groups in which 10 or fewer persons with disabilities reside with house parents; 2) a home for individual residential care; and 3) a halfway house for recovering alcohol and drug abusers. The term "residential establishment" is defined as: 1) a home for individual residential care in a county whose population is 100,000 or more; 2) a halfway house for recovering alcohol and drug abusers; or 3) a residential facility for groups. The governing body of a city or county is prohibited from refusing to issue a special use permit to a residential establishment that meets local public health and safety standards unless the residential establishment lacks a required license or certification. The bill prescribes certain requirements relating to the zoning of certain facilities that provide residential care. A residential facility for groups must be equipped with a fire sprinkler system that meets certain requirements prescribed by the National Fire Protection Association if the facility has two or more residents who would have difficulty perceiving danger or moving to safety in the event of a fire. Primary Sponsor: Senate Committee on Government Affairs. Amend, Do Pass.

Study: Childhood Trauma Linked to Teen Drug Use

Children who were abused or who experienced other types of trauma before the age of 11 are more likely to use drugs as teens, according to a new study. Researchers at Columbia University's Mailman School of Public Health also found that the likelihood of trying marijuana and other drugs increases with the number of traumatic events a child experiences. "Abuse and domestic violence were particularly harmful to children, increasing the chances of all types of drug use in the adolescent years," said postdoctoral fellow Hannah Carliner. "We also found that trauma such as car accidents, natural disasters, and major illness in childhood increased the chances that teens would use marijuana, cocaine, and prescription drugs."

Our goal is to provide our customers with pertinent information and answers to all of their questions!

Q&A: Delivering accurate and up-to-date information

Q: It's very important for us to be sure that the literature we distribute to people is factual, accurate, and up to date. What steps does Channing Bete Company take to ensure that all the information in their products meets this standard?

A: We agree that when people rely on you for health and safety information, nothing is more important than accuracy. Every fact we publish is backed by verifiable, authoritative sources. And it's not enough to get the facts and figures right. For real accuracy, you have to keep up with the most current laws, mandates, regulations, and guidelines relating to specific topics. For example, our editorial staff regularly monitors the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the National Institutes of Health, and the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, to name just a few.

In addition, we adhere to rigorous writing and design standards for readability -- so people of all reading levels can understand the material. Our products are also subject to careful internal review and are reviewed by outside experts before publishing.

Finally, once published, our materials undergo constant revision to reflect the most recent research findings. When new research affects our publications, we respond quickly and efficiently to update our resources.

For example, we provide educational materials that reflect the new Every Student Succeeds Act; all of our nutrition resources reflect the 2015-2020 Dietary Guidelines for Americans; and we've provided thousands of publications to help health officials educate the public about the Zika virus and other mosquito-borne diseases.

Solving the convenience risk conundrum

White paper—The easiest and most convenient path between consumers and the financial experience they expect is online account opening, and most fintech players provide that. How user friendly is your bank's onboarding process? In a report sponsored by Mitek, Mercator Advisory Group analyst Alex Johnson believes banks must add this capability or risk losing new accounts. The challenge: Designing a mobile account opening process that is seamless yet safe. Read more

Subject: Future Learning Center for the 89106 Community

Hello mayor Goodman . Let me start by saying that I hope all is well with you and your love ones .

My name is Stephanie Thomas, I am the owner of a behavioral/mental health agency and I moved into the property located at 800 west Bonanza RD Las Vegas, NV 89106. The name of the business is Mind Over Matters LLC, I really have a heart for the PEOPLE in my community. As we service the community, often times we come across individuals and families that are homeless, hopeless and less fortunate. Many of the individuals in this area have been victimized by drug use and abuse. What I find after speaking with them is that they want help and they are tired of using drugs as a way to cope with their lack of. We have been fortunate to help many families and individuals get jobs, go back to school, and find housing. We are currently providing as many services to the community as possible. Because we our operating a small family owned business, many times our resources for providing services are limited. We have used our own funds, cars and income to provide as many services as possible, such as; feeding and clothing the homeless, we offer spiritual enrichment, as well as assistance with completing important documentation (TANF, Medicaid, Disability), we also offer GED Preparation assistance along with life skills, mentoring and tutoring. Many times Transportation is a issue for our clients so we provide rides to and from doctors/ therapy appointments, as well as to food banks. Being right next door to the Rescue Mission, I have found that there several families with small children being put on the streets daily, because they have maxed out on their time in the shelter. I HAVE EVEN SENT INDIVIDUALS HOME VIA BUS (GREYHOUND) BECAUSE THEY WERE STRANDED. With all that I have stated, I TRULY HAVE A PASSION FOR THE NEEDS OF OTHERS AND IT IS MY FONDEST WISH THAT EVERYONE HAVE A CHANCE TO LIVE AND NOT JUST EXIST. I REALLY NEED ASSISTANCE with finding the right people to help me help my community. I am currently residing on over a acre of land and I would like to put it to use. I have a strong passion to create a learning center here on my property that would be geared towards helping at risk individuals, get their life back on the right track. I WANT TO CREATE A ENVIROMENT WHERE CHILDREN AND THE ADULTS WOULD LOVE TO COME WHERE THEY CAN BE COMFORTABLE FEEL LOVED, CARED FOR AND MOST IMPORTANTLY WELCOME. It is my prayer that you can find time to meet with me to hear more about my calling and my purpose. Thank you so much for taking the time to read my email. I look forward to hearing back from you soon.

Respectfully Submitted.

Unclaimed Property Rules At Stake In High Court Fight

The U.S. Supreme Court on Monday agreed to review a dispute between Delaware and several other states on who gets to keep abandoned MoneyGram checks, and experts say a broader ruling on how unclaimed property, including prepaid checks and gift cards, should be distributed could significantly impact states' coffers.

NJ Transit Crash May Spur Regulatory Crackdown

Last week's commuter train crash that killed a woman and injured more than 100 people at New Jersey's Hoboken Terminal may push federal regulators to crack down on railroads and lend momentum to proposals calling for redundant staffing, crash-avoidance technology and improved data collection.

CFPB's Prepaid Rule May Preview Checking Overdraft Fight

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's new restrictions on overdraft fees for prepaid accounts, part of a broader set of rules released Wednesday, may offer clues as to how the federal watchdog agency will ultimately look to rein in overdraft fees on traditional checking accounts, experts say.

Clinton Admin. Would Hit Ground Running On Labor Issues

If Hillary Clinton is elected, there would be a continuity to the party holding the White House not seen since the 1980s, a development that experts say means she would be uniquely poised to swiftly push ahead Obama administration priorities such as extending overtime pay, increasing pay equity and expanding the definition of joint employment.

New Pa. Justices Go Green In 2nd Rollback Of Drilling Laws

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court's recent decision to strike parts of the state's 2012 framework for guiding natural gas development returned regulation of the industry much to where it stood five years ago, but the ruling also hinted that the reshuffled court might be more sympathetic to environmental protections in future cases.

Cable Cos. Want FCC To Keep Out Of App Licensing

Cable and broadcast giants urged the Federal Communications Commission in a Tuesday phone call to take a hands-off approach to third-party licensing for online applications that would replicate or replace set-top cable boxes under a plan currently under consideration by the commission.

FCC Gets Public Interest Pressure To Adopt Data Rate Regs

A dozen public interest organizations made a last-minute push in support of rate regulations for the business data services market as the Federal Communications Commission looks to tackle the issue at an upcoming meeting, saying market abuse by incumbent providers has cost businesses and consumers billions of dollars.

States Seek New Block On FCC's Inmate Call Rate Plan

Nine states and assorted organizations asked the D.C. Circuit on Tuesday to temporarily block a Federal Communications Commission order imposing new rate caps on inmate calls, saying the FCC's latest version of the order fails to address the very issue that put the brakes on its prior attempts.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

What To Expect From A Congressional Investigation

For companies that haven't been through one, congressional investigations often seem like surreal bolts from the blue. Given the disorientation that sets in, it is not surprising that companies tend to make serious strategic mistakes, says Robert Kelner, chairman of Covington & Burling LLP's election and political law practice group.

The Upside Of New Limits On Fee Shifting, Forum Selection

Delaware's new limitations on fee-shifting and exclusive non-Delaware forum selection provisions are consistent with the state's policies favoring flexibility and private ordering in corporate law. The legislative restrictions should be understood alongside the Delaware Chancery Court's new, more skeptical approach to disclosure-only settlements, says Jonathan Rohr of Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law.

An Update On Drone Privacy Concerns

While many fear increased government use of drones for surveillance and use by individuals to invade the privacy of others, industry leaders are concerned with the possibility of regulations stifling economic growth. Meanwhile, federal and state governmental authorities are struggling to keep up with the rapid growth of technology without proactive and uniform legislation in place, say attorneys with Mintz Levin Cohn Ferris Glovsky and Popeo PC.

The Latest Developments In Paid Sick Leave Compliance

Since May, seven cities have enacted broad paid sick leave requirements, one city has amended and expanded its paid sick leave ordinance, and several more are taking up the issue on the November ballot. As states, counties and cities continue to jump on the paid sick leave bandwagon, employers must remain proactive or risk noncompliance, say Jennifer Terry and Daisy Sanchez of Arent Fox LLP.

The 'Tough Noogies' Doctrine: Rights But No Remedies

In recent years the courts have demonstrated an increased use of the “tough noogies” doctrine. These types of cases involve individuals wronged by powerful institutional interests who are shown the door, often based on poor or weak reasoning or in defiance of common sense. Andrew Melzer of Sanford Heisler LLP highlights a few recent examples of this doctrine and discusses whether the pendulum is beginning to swing back the other way.

Congressional Forecast: November

After months of talk, speculation and behind-the-scenes negotiations, the Republican tax reform proposal is expected to be released to the public this week. The stakes surrounding it are high; failure to pass the bill could put at risk Republican control of Congress in the 2018 elections, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP. Massachusetts Emerges As An Energy Storage Leader

The energy storage market is developing rapidly, thanks to both federal efforts and state policies like Massachusetts' Energy Storage Initiative. The state recently set an “aspirational” goal for the procurement of 200 megawatt-hours of energy storage capacity by 2020, putting Massachusetts in the energy storage vanguard, says Eric Runge of Day Pitney LLP. Financial Crisis Anniversary

A Crisis Caused By Housing Policies, Not Lack Of Regulation

Supporters of the Dodd-Frank Act regularly claim that any change or reform of that law will open the U.S. economy to another financial crisis. This view is based on the fallacious idea that the crisis 10 years ago was the result of insufficient regulation of banks, says Peter Wallison, a senior fellow at the American Enterprise Institute and a dissenting member of the Financial Crisis Inquiry Commission. Subject: Fwd: Assembly Bill 166 - Illegal Prostitution, Involuntary Servitude, and Sex Trafficking

At last weeks' briefing, there was some discussion about the City's position on the subject bill. It was disclosed that there was a hearing in the Assembly Judiciary Committee in March and that staff and a Councilmember testified in support of the bill. At the briefing, concerns were brought up by another Councilmember. Because there was differing opinions on the bill we intended to seek guidance on our position from the Mayor & Council at Wednesday's meeting.

Unfortunately the bill is scheduled to be heard Monday, May 13, 2019, at 8:00 am in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The bill will be videoconferenced to Room 4412E (4th Floor) of the Grant Sawyer Building. The committee agenda is provided via the following link: https://www.leg.state.nv.us/Session/80th2019/Agendas/Senate/JUD/final/1064.pdf?930132969 . Anyone interested in testifying on the bill Monday morning is welcomed to do so. Our Lobbying Team will not lobby the bill one way or the other.

Here is a link to the latest version of the bill: https://www.leg.state.nv.us/App/NELIS/REL/80th2019/Bill/6253/Text

The reason staff (Business Licensing) recommended support of the bill was that it would help prosecute the real criminals behind the human trafficking. Since 2014 the City of Las Vegas has been very proactive in stopping human trafficking. We have had 18 businesses revoked, denied or closed down due to solicitation with prostitution and human trafficking concerns.

Unfortunately, the person who solicits gets criminal charge. There is very little if anything done to the actual owner or the people behind this criminal activity. The business owners are brought before City Council. The licenses are revoked and sometimes they also receive a civil fine. The fine is not usually over $5000 which is not normally paid. Over the last 5 years we have issued at total of $103,000 in fines. The owners of record usually just walk away. The way our current laws read, it is very difficult to prosecute the people behind the crime of human trafficking without a witness willing to testify. This bill allows for prosecution without a witness.

The concerns that were raised included that a landlord might not have any idea what is going on at a leased location, especially if they are out of state. There was concern that a landlord could be subject to the felonies listed in the bill without proper notification. In addition, Section 13 of the bill adds new language to NRS179.121 which, if found guilty, would allow for the forfeiture of the land. The NRS specifically states "all personal property, …….which is used as an instrumentality in any of the following crimes is subject to forfeiture." There was concern that there should not be a seizure of the assets in all situations.

If you have any questions, please let me know. Thanks!!

Subject: [Marketing Mail] Tomorrow is National Prescription Drug Take Back Day

Dear Friends,

Tomorrow is National Prescription Drug Take Back Day, when you can drop off your expired, unused, and unneeded prescription drugs at approved collection sites – no questions asked. This year, I'm dropping off some old prescriptions because I don't need them, and disposing of them prevents these pills from being misused in the future. This can even save lives.

Prescription opioid pain medications are an important tool for managing the pain of people who have had surgery or other severe injuries, but the misuse of these medications and the use of heroin have taken a heartbreaking toll on too many Americans and their families while also straining law enforcement and treatment programs. More people now die from drug overdoses than in motor vehicle crashes.

You can help prevent opioid abuse by participating in Take Back Day. So tomorrow, head down to your local collection site between 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. to drop off your expired, unused, and unneeded medications. And by doing so, you may just save a life.

Sincerely,

Richard Baum
Acting Director of National Drug Control Policy

REBUTTAL: Establishing Standards And Norms In Mediation

A recent Law360 guest article asks whether by signing a mediation confidentiality agreement a lawyer surrenders the power to protect his client against inappropriate mediation conduct. The short response to this concern is that parties to a mediation should refuse to execute such an agreement that removes all future recourse against the mediator, no matter how egregious the mediator's actions, says William Ruskin of Gordon Rees Scully Mansukhani LLP.

Foreign Agents Registration Act May Be At A Tipping Point

The Foreign Agents Registration Act — an obscure, sweeping, 80-year-old federal criminal statute that requires certain individuals and companies acting on behalf of foreign principals to register with the U.S. Department of Justice and file reports — has rocketed to national headlines. The story of former Donald Trump campaign chairman Paul Manafort falls squarely within a pattern of increased enforcement interest, say attorneys with Covington & Burling LLP.

Rainmaker Q&A: FordHarrison's Sarah Pierce Wimberly

I read far too many attorney biographies in my practice that convey the same thing, an “expertise” in everything. But that makes it challenging for an aspiring rainmaker to differentiate herself to clients and prospects. Expertise naturally leads to a certain level of confidence, and confidence makes it easier to go after the work, says Sarah Pierce Wimberly, leader of the airline employment practice at FordHarrison LLP.

Rainmaker Q&A: Patrick McNicholas

The way I look at it, you’re never really making a pitch. You are entering into a potential relationship. Credibility is king. You must be in command of the facts of that client’s particular situation and in command of the law that’s going to govern that client’s issue, says Patrick McNicholas, a partner with McNicholas & McNicholas LLP.

Conflict in the Home Affects Children's Brain Activity

A University of Vermont study measured brain activity in children from homes where parents argued frequently and in children from low-conflict homes. The test asked children to identify photos of angry couples and happy couples, monitoring the electrical activity called P-3 -- activity associated with the brain's ability to focus on and give meaning to different stimuli. The study found higher P-3 signals in the children from high-conflict homes, possibly indicating a heightened degree of watchfulness when confronted with attitudes of anger and conflict, which could lead to greater social challenges later in life.

Quote of the Day

"Under the failed economic policies of the Obama Administration, #Nevadans suffered through 8 years of historically low economic growth. Think about this: in those 8 years, the average economic growth was less than 2 percent. As a result, wages and workers suffered."

--- Sen. Dean Heller last night on Twitter

Eleven governors including Gov. Sandoval sent a letter to Congress urging them to find a bipartisan DACA solution and stave off looming deportations.

A partnership between immigration authorities and local police has been strained in the Trump era, Megan Messerly and Luz Gray report.

A lawsuit against the state medical board is over sexual harassment but raises a host of other issues, Riley Snyder reports.

Lawmakers Eye Biosimilar-Delay Deals, But None Are Here Yet

Pay-for-delay deals staving off generic competition have become a favorite target for lawmakers eager to be seen combating soaring pharmaceutical costs and for antitrust enforcers who believe consumers are hurt when drug companies agree to postpone the introduction of generics. Promoting such competition for biological therapies may be next on Washington's list. Read full article »

THE RED SAND INITIATIVE & ELECTED WOMEN

NFWL Policy Committee Chair, MN Senator Carrie Ruud takes a moment to recognize those populations who are overlooked with The Red Sand Project. These sidewalk interventions invite you to take the time to fill a sidewalk crack with red sand and to then document your sidewalk transformation on social media using #RedSandProject.

We can't merely walk over the most marginalized people in our communities—those who fall through the metaphoric cracks. It is easy to participate, just request sand from their website, get a group together to fill the cracks, and take a moment to reflect. Be sure to tag NFWL @electedwomen so that we can feature your event.

NFWL Chair NJ Assemblywoman Serena DiMaso committed the organization to remain dedicated to combating human trafficking. She encourages all members to get involved and take time to participate.

Meaningful Transparency Lowers Health Costs, Improves Quality and the Consumer Experience

Lida Etemad, PharmD, VP Pharmacy Management Strategies, UnitedHealthcare

The number one identified issue for voters in the 2018 midterm elections was health care costs, and a poll conducted in March by Politico and the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health confirms that trend continues with 76 percent of respondents citing high health care costs as a serious problem. The same poll found that the price of prescription drugs is also an issue of concern with half of Americans switching from a brand name drug to a generic drug to save money.

Because of the rising prices of prescription drugs, we're working to expand the tools doctors and consumers have to understand how much they will pay for their prescription drug before they get to the pharmacy counter.

Toward this end, UnitedHealth Group has developed and implemented a digital tool, PreCheck MyScript, available in the doctor's office, right at the point of prescribing. Integrated into electronic medical record platforms, the tool provides physicians the ability to see and provide meaningful information to patients about their anticipated out-of-pocket costs at the pharmacy. This information is provided and shared before the patient leaves the physician's office, so there are no surprises at the pharmacy counter. So far, the tool is making a real difference, enabling patients to save an average of $135 per prescription.

As State lawmakers consider solutions to help increase transparency, we encourage them to consider expanding the use of meaningful real-time transparency tools that would provide doctors and consumers visibility into drug coverage, formulary options, and cost information at the point of prescribing.

Senate On Judicial 'Obstruction' Streak, Ranking Dem Says

The ranking Democrat on the Senate Judiciary Committee again raised the call for action on federal court nominees, saying Thursday that a “pattern of obstruction” has led to the least productive record for judicial approvals in more than half a century.

Chamber Eyeing Challenge To DOL's Fiduciary Rule

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce on Thursday said it is considering its next steps, including a legal challenge, in response to the U.S. Department of Labor’s final rule imposing a fiduciary duty on broker-dealers advising retirement plans, calling the agency’s changes a case of “the good, the bad and the ugly.”

Vote On SEC Nominees Delayed After Senate Dems Revolt

The Senate banking committee on Thursday scuttled a vote on two nominees to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission after four top Democrats came out against the contenders, one of whom is a Democrat as well, because of their stance on the agency’s shelved plans to force public companies to disclose their political spending.

1st Circ. Orders Puerto Rico Court To Recognize Gay Marriage

The First Circuit on Thursday ordered Puerto Rico to recognize same-sex marriages in a scathing opinion overriding a district judge who refused to follow its earlier order to enter a judgment enforcing the U.S. Supreme Court's Obergefell v. Hodges decision.

FTC's McSweeny Criticizes Proposed Merger Review Reforms

Federal Trade Commissioner Terrell McSweeny criticized Thursday a House-passed merger review reform bill meant to bring FTC and Justice Department reviews closer together as a "solution in search of a problem," saying there is already little practical difference between the two standards and making changes would only cause legal uncertainty.

Obama Stumps For Garland At U. of Chicago

MetLife Opinion Could Halt SIFI Designations

A Washington, D.C., federal judge’s ruling liberating MetLife from its designation as a systemically important financial institution could give regulators pause before they subject a firm to enhanced supervision, even if the decision is overturned on appeal.

Garland Takes Back Seat To SCOTUS Culture Wars At Debate

Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton paid scant attention to Merrick Garland's long-dormant nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court during the final presidential debate in Las Vegas on Wednesday, instead using an opening segment on the high court to cater to their respective conservative and liberal bases with views on abortion, the Second Amendment and campaign finance.

White House Proposes New Regs To Protect Air Travelers

The Obama administration on Tuesday proposed new regulations requiring airlines to refund handling fees for passengers' delayed baggage and barring any favoritism or bias in how airlines and online ticket agents display fares, part of efforts to bolster competition and improve consumers' air travel experiences.

Regulators Aim For Banks To Prevent Cyberattack Contagion

Federal banking regulators unveiled a proposal Wednesday that would force the largest banks and other critical financial companies to ensure their cybersecurity protocols are strong enough to prevent a hack from spreading to other firms and to recover from an attack in a matter of hours.

Clinton, Trump Spar On Borders, Deportations In 3rd Debate

The Democratic and Republican presidential candidates clashed over immigration policy during Wednesday night's debate, with Hillary Clinton having to explain her leaked comments on "open borders" and Donald Trump dinged for having "choked" on the border wall issue during his trip to Mexico.

Clinton, Trump Poke Holes In Each Other's Trade Records

Wednesday night's final presidential debate saw the candidates attempting to expose one another's shifting positions on international trade issues, with Donald Trump again bashing Hillary Clinton's pivot on an Asia-Pacific trade accord and Clinton rebuking Trump's use of Chinese steel in his development ventures.

T-Mobile To Pay $48M Over Misleading 'Unlimited' Data Plan

T-Mobile USA Inc. has agreed to pay a $7.5 million fine, $35.5 million in consumer benefits and $5 million to help connect low-income students following a Federal Communications Commission investigation into whether the company sufficiently disclosed constraints on speed and data in its allegedly "unlimited" plans, the FCC said Wednesday.

Calif. High Court Throws Wrench In Cooperative Federalism

The holding and logic of the California Supreme Court's recent decision in Department of Finance v. Commission on State Mandates has the potential for significant implications in California and nationwide. Importantly, the logic of the decision could apply to any cooperative federalism-based environmental statute, potentially opening the door to other challenges to state implementation of federal laws, says Samuel Brown of Hunton & Williams LLP.

Preparing For Changes To Federal Appellate Rules

On Dec. 1, 2016, several important amendments to the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure take effect. The most impactful amendment is the shortening of the permissible length of appellate briefs, which will affect many appeals and will have a particularly significant impact on complex appeals such as patent cases, says Matthew Dowd of Dowd PLLC.

1 Year After Yates Memo: The DOJ's Yates-Lite Approach

There have been no major signs of a Yates memo impact on large multijurisdictional cases. But the U.S. Department of Justice has issued significant settlements in the last year and presumably has the information included in those agreements to initiate individual prosecutions. So why haven't we seen a significant increase? asks Joan Meyer of Baker & McKenzie LLP.

Leaders in Washington, industry stakeholders, and consumers alike are grappling with issues of health care affordability and access.

From lowering the price of prescription drugs to emphasizing value over volume - what steps can be taken to reduce cost while improving quality of care?

How can barriers to access best be addressed and eliminated for all Americans? What market-based strategies can be implemented and what role can Congress play?

The Hill will convene policymakers, health industry leaders, patient advocates and health policy experts for a conversation about boosting patient outcomes, reducing drug prices, and reining in health care spending.

Ross Soft-Pedals Trump's Tariff Threats, Holds Firm On NAFTA

Billionaire investor Wilbur Ross said Wednesday that he would follow through with President-elect Donald Trump's vow to renegotiate NAFTA if confirmed as the next Department of Commerce secretary, but also walked back Trump's threat to impose blanket tariffs on Chinese goods.

State Attys Say Sessions' Record Makes Him Unfit As AG

Attorneys general in New York, Massachusetts and four other states urged U.S. senators on Wednesday to reject Jeff Sessions as the new U.S. Department of Justice head, pointing to a judge's finding of "serious and wholesale prosecutorial misconduct" when he was Alabama's state attorney.

Analysis

Obama's NLRB Legacy To Face Some Trump Reversals

Barack Obama's NLRB was a polarizing one for labor attorneys even by its own relatively partisan standards. While attorneys agree Donald Trump's board will be kinder to business than Obama's has been, attorneys tell Law360 they're unsure how far the other way the pendulum will swing.

Swaps Trading Is On New CFTC Chair's Radar

Soon-to-be U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission acting chair and current commissioner J. Christopher Giancarlo on Wednesday outlined his plans and outlook for the near future, paying special attention to a swaps trading regime he said "has caused numerous harms."

Gov. Haley Pushes For Stronger US Role, Reforms At UN

South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley, President-elect Donald Trump's nominee to serve as United Nations ambassador, told a Senate panel Wednesday that the United States should be more assertive at the international body, and that she intends to drive action on the environment, refugees and sanctions enforcement.

IRS Issues Long-Awaited Proposals For Partnership Audits

The Internal Revenue Service on Wednesday released highly anticipated guidance for partnerships wondering how the agency will interpret and implement rules under a new audit regime passed by Congress more than a year ago.

Senate Panel Sends Trump's DOD Pick To Full Body

The Senate Armed Services Committee cleared President-elect Donald Trump's pick for defense secretary, former Marine Corps Gen. James Mattis, for the full Senate on Wednesday, setting the stage for a confirmation vote hours after the new president's swearing-in.

Atty-Legislators Are Fundraisers Before Politicians: Study

Seen as well-educated, capable and often shrewd professionals, lawyers at first glance may look a natural fit for politics, but it's their access to early fundraisers, not voter preference, that has led them to be a vastly overrepresented group in Congress, according to a recent study.

BANKING & SECURITIES

SEC General Counsel To Leave Agency This Month

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission announced on Wednesday that its general counsel — a former WilmerHale partner — will step down later this month, ending her near-four-year tenure providing legal advice and representation to the nation's securities market watchdog.

Coinbase Gets NY BitLicense, Clearance For Its Operations

The New York State Department of Financial Services on Tuesday handed out the fifth of its BitLicenses to Coinbase Inc., a digital currency wallet that allows buyers and sellers to complete transactions with Bitcoin and other virtual currencies, after finding that the company's policies and operations meet the state's expectations.

GOP Says CFPB's Auto-Lending Rule May Violate Federal Law

Republicans on the House Financial Services Committee on Wednesday released a report alleging Consumer Financial Protection Bureau Director Richard Cordray violated federal law in releasing rules for regulating the auto-lending market, which comes amid an intensifying battle over Cordray's future.

TransPerfect Workers To Push Del. To Curb Chancery Power

As the Delaware Supreme Court considered an appeal Wednesday of Chancellor Andre G. Bouchard's decision to order the sale of a legal translation firm, employees of TransPerfect protesting outside said they intend to push the First State to curb the Chancery Court's power when appointing corporate custodians.

Tanzanian Bank Says FinCEN Hid Evidence Behind Sanctions

A Tanzanian bank fighting a Financial Crimes Enforcement Network rule that effectively excludes it from the U.S. financial system over money laundering allegations told a D.C. federal judge Tuesday that the agency secretly relied on undisclosed information, sullying the record of how it developed the rule.

Tuesday, alleging that federal rules finalized in December aimed at minimizing harm to surface and groundwater from coal mining operations violated the states' ability to regulate mining within their borders.

2nd Circ. Restores EPA's Water Transfer Exemption Rule

A divided Second Circuit panel on Wednesday revived a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency rule exempting some water transfers from Clean Water Act review, saying ambiguity within the law means the agency must be given latitude for its own interpretation of the statute.

Enviros Take Bid To Join BLM Auction Fight To 10th Circ.

Environmental groups on Tuesday appealed to the Tenth Circuit a New Mexico federal judge's refusal to let them intervene in an oil and gas industry group's suit accusing the U.S. Bureau of Land Management of illegally failing to hold oil and gas lease auctions.

Trenk DiPasquale Can't Escape Suit From NJ Water Agency

Trenk DiPasquale Della Fera & Sodono PC fell short Wednesday in escaping a lawsuit from a defunct Newark, New Jersey, water agency when a New Jersey federal bankruptcy judge said an attorney was qualified to provide an affidavit stating that the firm deviated from professional standards in representing the organization.

HEALTH & LIFE SCIENCES

5 Key Exchanges At HHS Nominee's Grilling

The Trump administration's proposed health secretary said Wednesday it's "absolutely imperative" that Americans not lose coverage if the Affordable Care Act is repealed, faced ethics criticism over stock trades and hinted at possible policy changes on drug prices and Medicare reimbursement. Here are five key exchanges from Wednesday's grilling.

FDA Allows More Input On Off-Label Drug Promotion Limits

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday that it will give the public more time to comment on a review of agency restrictions on the off-label promotion of drugs and medical devices, an issue the FDA has recently lost on in a number First Amendment challenges.

TRANSPORTATION & INFRASTRUCTURE

Newark Beats Taxi, Limo Cos. Suit Over Uber Agreement

The city of Newark on Wednesday beat a suit brought against it by a group of New Jersey taxicab and limousine companies over the city's agreement allowing Uber Technologies Inc. to operate outside of regulations that the taxi and limo companies must follow, after a federal judge dismissed the case.

Feds Fight Defendants' Bid To Toss GWB Scandal Convictions

Prosecutors on Tuesday urged a New Jersey federal court to uphold the guilty verdict against two former public officials in the George Washington Bridge lane-closing trial, rejecting their bid to toss the convictions over a contentious jury instruction and allegations that some jurors deliberated when they were not supposed to.

REAL ESTATE

NJ High Court Says Towns Must Meet Past Housing Needs

New Jersey towns must provide enough affordable housing to meet the need generated by low-income households that formed during a 16-year gap in which the state didn't update municipalities' obligations under the Fair Housing Act, the state Supreme Court ruled Thursday.

States Urge 5th Circ. To Affirm OT Rule Block

Nevada, Texas and 19 other states urged the Fifth Circuit on Tuesday to affirm an injunction blocking a recent revision to the Department of Labor's overtime rule, saying the tweaks would cause "irreparable harm on a massive scale" if they took effect.

DOL Says Fiduciary Rule Can Discourage Class Waivers

The U.S. Department of Labor told a Minnesota federal judge Tuesday that it can legally restrict an exception contained in its so-called fiduciary rule to advisers who don't prohibit clients from filing class actions, asking the judge to reject a financial planning group's challenge to the provision.

Biz Groups That Defeated DOL Rule Win Fees

A federal judge in Texas on Wednesday awarded about $330,000 in attorneys' fees and expenses to a handful of business groups that led a successful challenge of the U.S. Department of Labor's so-called persuader rule, which expanded employers' disclosure requirements related to union-organizing campaigns.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS

DHS Proposes Rules For Contractors To Protect Sensitive Info

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security on Wednesday proposed rules that would expand security and privacy requirements for contractors, a move that's part of the agency's efforts to safeguard sensitive government information.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

US Launches WTO Case Over Canadian Wine Regs

Just two days before President Barack Obama is set to exit office, his administration on Wednesday filed a new World Trade Organization dispute against Canada, challenging regulations that it claims have unfairly kept U.S. wines from grocery store shelves in British Columbia.

US Loosens Regs On Exports To India With Military Uses

The U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Industry and Security announced Wednesday that it is loosening restrictions on exports of goods with potential military uses to India, under a strategic partnership agreement between the two nations announced in 2010.

TAX

Bill To Reduce Corporate Tax Rate Introduced By Pa. Rep.

Pennsylvania state Rep. Jason Ortitay announced on Wednesday that he had reintroduced legislation to gradually reduce Pennsylvania's corporate net income tax, which is currently the second-highest in the country.

Kimberly-Clark Can't Use Tax Compact For $3.2M Mich. Refund

A Michigan appeals court has unanimously denied Wisconsin-based global manufacturing giant Kimberly-Clark Corp.'s bid for a $3.2 million tax refund from the state Department of Treasury, agreeing with a lower court that the company can't use the Multistate Tax Compact to calculate income in the state.

Puerto Rico Reaches Deal On Pension Bond Payments

Holders of bonds issued by Puerto Rico's largest public pension fund reached a deal to recoup some of the money that the beleaguered territory diverted from the fund, according to a stipulation and order filed on Tuesday in Puerto Rico federal court.

IMMIGRATION

DOJ Backs Bush Official On Post-9/11 Detention Policy

The federal government defended former U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft's controversial "hold until cleared" policy for immigrants detained following the Sept. 11 terror attacks in oral arguments at the U.S. Supreme Court Wednesday, saying the Bush administration official's cautious approach didn't violate clearly established civil rights.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

FCC Auction Clears $10B Target, Triggering Spectrum Transfer

A forward auction to reallocate spectrum licenses from broadcasters to wireless providers cleared its $10 billion clearing target Wednesday, setting the stage to transfer 84 MHz of broadcast spectrum for wireless broadband use and the development of new wireless technology.

GOP Lawmaker Takes Aim At FCC Station Reporting Rule

The Republican head of House Energy and Commerce's Communications and Technology Subcommittee introduced a bill Tuesday that would forcibly revoke a Federal Communications Commission ownership reporting requirement for noncommercial educational TV station board members, blasting the requirement as "onerous" and a threat to privacy.

CBS Presses FCC To Restore Ownership Cap Exception

CBS Corp. wants the Federal Communications Commission to reinstate posthaste a break given to UHF station owners on media ownership cap rules, arguing Tuesday that the agency nixed the exception without "a shred of evidence" of public harm.

Inmate Call Cos. Urge DC Circ. To Wait On Rate Cap Review

Inmate calling service providers on Tuesday urged the D.C. Circuit to delay its review of rate caps imposed on the companies by the Federal Communications Commission in August, in anticipation of a reversal of the policy under an incoming Republican-majority commission.

Comcast Subscribers Get HBO, ESPN Access Via PlayStation

The head of the Federal Communications Commission's Enforcement Bureau praised Comcast on Tuesday for finally allowing subscribers to access HBO Go and WatchESPN TV Everywhere via PlayStation game consoles, following discussions with the agency.

ADEA At 50: Trends And Predictions For An Aging Workforce

Enacted on Dec. 15, 1967, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act is celebrating 50 years of protecting older workers, many with families and children requiring financial support, from unemployment and poverty. At this half-century milestone, we should take a moment to analyze the ADEA's effect on the workforce, says Chloe Roberts of Roberts & Associates Law Firm.

The Trump Administration And Nuclear Energy

Nuclear energy has fallen on hard times in the United States. Operating costs are high, while natural gas is abundant and cheap. So what will the Trump administration mean for nuclear generation? The president-elect seems uninterested in carbon-free nuclear power as a means to fight climate change, but job creation could justify the construction of new nuclear plants, say David Repka and Tyson Smith of Winston & Strawn LLP.

Death Knell For The Telephone Consumer Protection Act

The Telephone Consumer Protection Act is generally considered a popular, pro-consumer statute, but the law may be dramatically altered following power shifts in Congress and the Federal Communications Commission. It is increasingly likely that the TCPA will transform to address existing criticism and to reflect changes in technology since the law's passage in 1991, say attorneys from Sutherland Asbill & Brennan LLP.

FDA Adverse Event Data Release May Mean More Lawsuits

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration recently announced the public release of data on adverse events related to cosmetics and foods. The data include reported negative reactions or complaints related to products, and do not indicate a determination of fault by the FDA. But the release could still lead to an increase in litigation, say Joanne Hawana and Daniel Herling of Mintz Levin Cohn Ferris Glovsky and Popeo PC.

Trump Libel Win Based On Trump Libel Loss

President-elect Donald Trump just won a libel case against a critic — for the very same reason that real estate developer Donald Trump lost a libel case against a critic more than 30 years ago. But the new case, and the atmosphere of the 2016 presidential campaign, may significantly alter libel law, says Mark Sableman of Thompson Coburn LLP.

Subject: SUP-72940 (PRJ-72939) – Special use permit for short-term rental

Dear Mayor Goodman,

Thank you very much for hearing and considering our application for short-term rental. As our application was held in abeyance to the November 21st City Council meeting, we wanted to take this opportunity to provide you more information on our application.

We have been a frequent traveler to the Las Vegas from our home in California area since we have been adults, over 20 years. We love the city and have begun planning our retirement in Las Vegas. We purchased a multi unit apartment last year to start our retirement planning. We are hoping to purchase more long-term rental units in the future. In our investment planning, we heard about the short-term rental market and decided it would be a great opportunity to be able to buy our future retirement home, use the home for getaways for our family, and rent it out when not in use.

We then began researching the short-term rental rules as we searched for the ideal home for our vacation getaways and future retirement. We ensured that we conducted our search in areas that would conform to the rules laid out by the planning department, such as location and proximity to an existing short-term rental. We kept in touch with representatives from the planning department, as we completed our search, to ensure we would be in compliance with all the rules.

We then applied for this SUP, which has been abeyed 3 times. We paid over $1,000 to apply for this permit and satisfied all the requirements laid out by the planning department.

We are trying to understand what the planning department and city council are looking for to consider approving our application. In the initial planning meeting, the planning commission expressed concern that we are out of town residents. There is no rule that discourages out of town ownership of short-term rentals. However, we wanted to ensure we addressed the concerns of the planning department. We hired a property manager and a handyman, to ensure that we have a local contact to address any issues with our property. We joined our local neighborhood watch program and have built a relationship with our neighborhood watch captain, Helen Moore, who is supportive of our application. We also sent out letters to our immediate neighbors, notifying them of our plan to rent our property out, and providing them our contact information to communicate any concerns they may have. We also put in exterior security cameras and an alarm, to better monitor the property and guest activity.

In the first city council meeting held on June 15th, the council stated that their only concern was that they had heard of noise complaints regarding our property, in proposing an abeyance. We took the opportunity to reach out to Helen Moore and the local police department. They confirmed to us that, since we purchased the property in March, there have been no noise complaints received. We made our inquiries to the local police department by phone and via email, our contact is Omar Lopez and his contact information is below.

During the latest city council meeting on September 12th, City Council voiced concern that there are 35 protest cards regarding our application versus the two individuals who spoke on our behalf. The majority of our nearest neighbors do not have any concerns about our planned short-term rental. We have spoken to 3 of our immediate neighbors and they want to remain neutral due to potential harassment by our only vocal protester, Robert Fisher, who resides on [redacted] They have shared with us that Robert has harassed them in the past for church group gatherings and other things.

We have reached to Mr. Fisher, as well, to understand his specific concerns and have not received a reply. His only statement during the various meetings was that the neighborhood is comprised of many retirees. Mr. Fisher has been representing himself as the captain of the neighborhood watch to the neighborhood, planning commission and city council, during the various meetings on our application. We have confirmed with our representative from the Crime Prevention Unit that Helen Moore is the neighborhood watch captain, and not Mr. Fisher. It appears that Mr. Fisher may have different motivation for protesting our application. Mr. Fisher has constructed 3 additional unpermitted structures in his backyard and rents them out, along with various rooms in his house. His protest may relate to competition in the rental market.

The planning department sent out 2 sets of notices to the 500 nearest residents. So a great majority of the nearest residents do not object to our short-term rentals. Of the 35 protest cards, most are duplicates and did not state their reason for protest. We read through the ones that stated their reason for protest and believe that we can mitigate people's concerns.

Some people objected to our house being a rental property in general. As we mentioned, we will be renting this property out since we are not ready to move to the Las Vegas area full time. It is just a matter of whether it will be a long-term or short-term rental. On June 6th, we began renting the property with a 31-day minimum. We prefer the short-term approach to allow us to be able to use the property periodically for our own use. The short-term approach will also allow the property to be owner occupied periodically. With the long-term approach, it will become a rental property full-time and it will be much harder for us to evict bad tenants.

We read complaints of potential noise and drugs in the neighborhood. We do not allow parties and have taken steps to prevent, detect, and resolve potential noise issues in our property. We have exterior video cameras in the front and back to detect additional guests, parties, and potential drug use. We have reached out to our neighborhood watch captain, Helen Moore, and she keeps us updated on the neighborhood and any concerns with the property. We have proven responsive in addressing any concerns Helen has communicated, which is why she is supportive of our application.

We have engaged with our property manager, Justin Novinger, who also manages our long-term multi-unit rental in Las Vegas, to be able to immediately address any issues. We have reached out to Omar Lopez and other contacts at the local police department provided by Helen Moore, to provide our contact information. We have provided our contact information to all of our immediate neighbors.

With regards to parking and traffic, we believe we have enough parking spaces to address potential tenants. Our house is 3 bedrooms and 1,317 square feet and has a two-car garage and a driveway that can accommodate two additional vehicles. We also believe parking and traffic requirements would be the same whether the property is a long-term or short-term rental.

We plan to require a 5-day minimum rental and would be happy to make this a condition of our license. Our target market consists of corporate travelers and families on vacation. Even a 1-week or 10-day minimum would be satisfactory.

Please let us know if there is any additional information we can provide or any actions you want us to undertake to facilitate approval of our short-term rental. Please feel free to reach out to us via e-mail, phone call or letter via the contact information attached.

Again, thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark and Chrystal Del Rosario

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE DISCUSSION

A new research study from the National Academies of Medicine on the health effects of cannabis came to a few conclusions: regular use helps relieve chronic pain, muscle spasms in children with multiple sclerosis, and nausea from chemotherapy. Some cannabinoids may also protect against cognitive loss.

Acute use, however, can be associated with impaired learning, memory, and attention span, especially among users under age 16, and these effects sometimes persist. The report also found limited evidence that cannabis use increases tobacco use, and moderate evidence that it may help opioid abusers reduce their dependence.

Other studies have been “noisy” or inconclusive and cannot be compared with each other because of different dosages, definitions of usage, users’ age at first exposure, their co-use of other drugs, and the frequency and purposes of use. Far more research is critically needed to inform regulations that can safeguard public health.

Regulations on marijuana use are changing rapidly at state and federal levels but remain in conflict and confusing, in part because cannabis remains listed as a Schedule 1 addictive drug. Conflicting state and federal laws are unlikely to be clarified in the near future.

Powerful pharmaceutical and tobacco firms are gearing up to diversify and advertise new versions, especially to vulnerable young and low-income people who most need to be protected from avoidable hazards.

Good Afternoon, Mr. Rothberg,

Thank you for contacting Mayor Carolyn G. Goodman. Have you called the Legal Aid Center to help you? This organization provides a free service that may be able to assist in this legal dispute. The number is [redacted] and you may tell them Mayor Goodman suggested you call. While we're happy to hear your health has improved, we respectfully suggest you stay focused on the legal matter at hand—that you returned the furniture but continued to be charged for it even after you were told you would not be.

We are also copying in Mr. Ortiz, the aide to your Las Vegas City Councilman, Bob Coffin, who may be more familiar with the particular property since it is in his ward. Should you wish to call him, his number is 702-229-6405. He may also have some suggestions as to other properties in the immediate area that meet your criteria.

Again, thank you for taking the time to write. We're pleased to know you enjoy living in the Fremont East area and hope this matter will be satisfactorily resolved.

Sincerely,

Mayor Goodman,

An issue has come into my life at the most inopportune time. I do not know who to turn to. I need the correct help. I need it quick

I will share back story and events leading up to the pressing issue at hand

I am a 59 year old male. In 2005 I was diagnosed with severe [redacted]. From that day forward my life was no longer my own. By end 2006 I was no longer able to work. A couple difficult years later I qualified for federal disability benefits. After nearly 7 years in a "walking coma" from disease, opiates, benzodiazepines, neuro drugs, psych drugs, ambien, antiseizure, and more drugs, tests and treatments, in late 2013 I told my doctor I wanted off all the chemical drugs. A rough three months later I was off all chemical medicines and have been ever since. I began a natural approach to my wellness focusing on food as medicine. My health began to improve while still the New York weather was still causing me much pain and flares of symptoms-conditions. In August 2014 I accepted invitation to leave Millbrook, New York to try the hot, dry deserts of Phoenix for my conditions. I felt improvements in days. Opportunity arose to move to Las Vegas early 2015. I moved to Vegas in April 2015. I love it here. I do not to ever want to leave. In October 2015 I became a Nevada medical marijuana patient. By end of November 2015 I began treating myself with cannabis protocol. In days my wellness improved and has improved ever since. One year later I am in the best physical condition in a decade. I am in the amazing spiritual-mental state we are Blessed to after looking death straight in the eyes, take him on in a battle to the death, and win. I am ready to give a go at becoming a working member of society again. I want to work at getting off the disability and become a productive member of the Las Vegas community. Over this past year I have met many people in our medical marijuana establishments. Being someone who has healed himself using full plant cannabis medicine I have much to offer our growing Nevada medical marijuana industries. I am enrolled in Trim Ready dispensary class 11/20/2016. I am enrolled in both the Cultivation Class and Edibles manufacturing classes on 11/27. When I complete dispensary certification on November 20th I will ask Brenda Gunsallus, owner of Sahara Wellness, my favorite person in the business, to sponsor my MME Agent card. I am just a few short weeks away from being a vetted member of the Las Vegas medical marijuana industry and onto a new life. I am Blessed to be the real deal success story that when you do not give up, regardless the odds against, fight hard fearlessly, you can win over anything. I am proof that for me cannabis changed my life from dark shadows of disease to a bright sunny new future in the city of lights I want to share my experience, skills, and knowledge, with others. I am once again looking forward to the future.

Here is my pressing issue.

I have lived in this same apartment at [redacted] for 18 months ([redacted]. I rented furniture from Ogden Villas for $40 per month on top of my $425 month rent as I arrived in Las Vegas with just backpack and suitcase . By September 2015 I had acquired my own furniture. I put in a written request with Ogden Villas to have the rental furniture removed. The complex removed the furniture before September was over. When I paid my November 2015 rent for $425 I was told by office manager Jody Blackley I must continue paying $425 rent plus the $40 the furniture they took back or be evicted. I replied that is ridiculous. She replied it is the way it is. Jodie was moved to another site. Manager Liz, the manager who originally signed me into Ogden Villas, replaced Jodie. I brought attention to Liz that I am still being made to pay for furniture I returned. Liz said paying for furniture I returned makes no sense, she will look into it, and I must still pay the $40 for furniture I returned until it is figured out or be evicted. Liz moved to another a site. Manager Patty put a notation in my file I am still being charged for furniture I do not have. After thirteen months of being told by every floating manager that I must continue paying for products & services I do not receive under threat of eviction I receive notice my rent is being increased $40 to $505 (copy attached). They are raising my rent forty dollars each month on top of my already being overcharged $40 each month for furniture I do not have. I see this as a common sense opportunity to clear the slate by me accepting not paying November 2016 rent $465 for the $520 Ogden owes me for furniture and start the year off with this long overdue issue sorted and done. I write up a proposal (copy attached), give a copy to manager Patty to give to Jody, and mailed a copy to Plenty of Places corporate offices. On Thursday November 3rd I received email from Plenty of Places stating I can no longer access my online plenty of places account. Thursday November 10th I found an eviction notice attached to my door (copies attached).

I am a model tenant who has done nothing to cause any trouble here nor anyone anywhere.

I have paid my rent on time every month since I have been here. I have not once been a bother to anyone. All my neighbors like me. I keep to myself and do not get involved with the dramas of other residents. My apartment is clean without ever a problem with insects.

While Ogden wants to charge me $505 a month rent there are other tenants on disability benefits who were residents who were here before me that are paying $425 per month

I had three important stipulations to making the move to Vegas. 1 Tile floor, 2 second floor, 3 near a store

1. My decade of wicked battles against an invisible illness no one understands is brought to me by a tiny insect bite I did not know I received. Carpet grosses me out in a sense. Like indoor grass. For someone disabled with cans-joint related conditions with chronic pain maintaining carpet is an added chore. This apartment is all ceramic tile and is ideal for my needs

2. To have the stairs as a forced form of exercise. I prefer the less noise and traffic. I have trees outside my window. One year past a walk down Fremont to The Experience was an accomplishment. Today, most days, I walk over a mile around the neighborhood enjoying the Las Vegas sunrise with coffee. I commonly walk to our senior center on bonanza, library right up N LV Blvd., anywhere I want to go. I am truly Blessed beyond belief in all aspects of life

3. Store for access to necessary supplies close by when physically unable to make it to proper markets. The owners and crew at 7-Eleven Fremont & 15th all know me. After 18 months we get along quite well.

My requirements were met with this apartment and I moved here. I love my apartment home here in Downtown Fremont.

I have no money to move nor anyplace to move to. No friends nor family to help. I lost everything to battle with disease including nearly all my past family and friends. Thinking my offer so common sense and in favor of Ogden Villas they will accept I spent the $465 skipped November rent on renewing my medical cannabis card and enrolling in the three Nevada mme certification courses. If I am evicted over this lack of action by this company who admittedly owes me but is unable to reach a solution other than evicting their debt (me) I will be put out homeless on the street with the little I can carry. My two cats I rescued from shelter over one year ago will go back to the shelter. The few belongings I have been able to accumulate over this past 18 months into the dumpsters. Ten years battle against invisible illness to get into the position to once again have an on the grid life shattered. All of this because a manager Jody Blakley, who's agents lead me on for 13 month, refuses to see the common sense and right in not evicting a disabled, good tenant, who offers to accept $465 to clear up the $520 it is her cause the company she works for owes me

Friday morning, November 11th, I spoke with Fatima from Plenty of Places corporate offices. We spoke in length about Ogden Villas and this situation. Fatima assured me she will speak with her manager and get back to me by end of day. Fatima did not get back to me

Monday morning, November 13th at 11:15 am I called Fatima at Plenty of Places corporate offices to see what progress she has made on this issue (562) 989-9932). Fatima told me her and Jody Blakley have been speaking about this situation but have yet to come up with a resolution. Fatima assured me she will speak with her manager and get back to me by day's end. Fatima did not get back to me.

I am concerned Fatima is stretching this out as Jody has done with the furniture overpayments, and before they get back with a resolution the police will be at my door evicting me to the street

Is there anything you can do to help Plenty of Places see the wrong in kicking out a good tenant who just wants the fair deal of not paying for products-services not provided, with the slate clean for what they have overcharged me? I agree to pay the $40 increase on top my $425 true rent for $465 per month beginning December 03, 2016

Please feel free to check me out. I am one of the good guys. I have had a life Blessed with many jobs, careers, experiences, knowledge, and skills, in a variety of industries that I am looking forward to putting to use after not being able to work at all for over ten long years. I am here to help.

What I am looking for exactly:

1. November Rent Receipt showing rent paid
2. Notice in change of terms of tenancy showing my monthly rent $465.00 due by 3rd of each month

3. Letter from mgr Jody Blakley's supervisor stating there will be no discrimination, retribution, nor actions, against me by Jody Blakley over this issue

Thank you for your time, considerations, and continued service

Sincerely,

Jon Andrew Rothberg

The following update was provided by Bev this morning on how Mike is doing…

He is doing well. Has pain but managing with non-narcotic drugs. He slept well and has been up walking already this morning. The doctor was just in and if all stays status quo, he will be discharged this afternoon. He said surgery was textbook and all nerves were spared! They will probably have him up and walking in an hour or so. Mike is awake and talking boats with Bev's brother.

Several individuals have asked for the address in California to send cards, flowers and/or food. They will be in California 8- 10 days (if Mike does well, they may go home early) but will not have access to the mailbox at the apartment they have rented, so please send all cards to their home address [redacted]

As far as sending flowers and/or food, if the order has not already been placed for delivery to the apartment, it is requested to wait until they return home to Las Vegas. They thank you all for your kind thoughts, prayers and well wishes for Mike's speedy recovery.

Explosive videos of Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department K-9 Unit violates 4th Amendment Rights

Testimony from Nevada State Trooper describes how 4th Amendment rights are violated with Metro's K-9 Unit

FIND OUT MORE

Clark County, Nevada
December 12, 2016

Veterans In Politics International has uncovered the mishandling of drug sniffing dogs by the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department (LVMPD) (click onto the link of Nevada Highway Patrol Troopers resignation letter below).

Nevada Highway Patrol Troopers resignation and testimony on the K-9 Unit:

Click onto Trooper Matt Moonin Letter of resignation from K9 program

Below are highlights of the letter with chilling descriptions of the K-9 Unit under the operation of Nevada Department of Public Safety and the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department (LVMPD).

The decision to create a "Hybrid" K9 program by having the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department train a Nevada DPS canine in their system has severely degraded the integrity of the Nevada DPS K9 Unit. This will lead to providing an environment conducive to the violation of citizen 4th Amendment Rights.

Metro buys their detector dogs from Mark Rispoli sight unseen, untested, no warrantee, no health guarantee and no return agreement. One of the last untrained dogs they bought from Makor had heartworm at the time of delivery. Heartworm is a preventable deadly disease that is very expensive to treat. Metro had to absorb the cost of treatment for the dog. Most trainers will not accept any dog that has ever had heartworm because of the lifelong endurance and medical problems it causes. But Metro did.

English brags Metro doesn't do any selection testing of the dogs before training because he can train any dog to find drugs in a matter of hours or days. Any dog. If that is true, then why doesn't Metro simply pick up free dogs from the animal shelter and quit paying several thousands of dollars of public money to Makor Kennels?

I have personally witnessed a Metro handler take his dog behind a car after missing a significant drug seizure and brutally kick his dog repeatedly. And it doesn't stop after basic training. I have seen it on the road.

Such harsh treatment of a dog is not only morally wrong, it may be criminal. And the fact that it is done for the sole purpose of releasing a toy is moronic and counterproductive.

This decision to break down the DPS K9 programs structural integrity by having dogs trained by different departments throughout the state mirrors the lack of standardization of training that caused the prior NHP K9 program to fail drastically.

Accordingly, I believe our command has started the DPS K9 Program on a path that will lead to frequently missed contraband and the violation of citizen civil rights.

LVMPD Drug Detector Dog Video:

LVMPD Cueing Video Willy Silva and BEBE 4
Full Version

LVMPD K9 Short Clip K9 Only

LVMPD K9 Cueing T5

NHP Dash Cam 9/06/2011 Detective Willie Silva and Drug Detector Dog Beebe:

NHP Trooper receives written consent to search car during traffic stop. Detective Silva arrives with his drug detection dog Beebe after the consent has been obtained. The K9 team had no involvement in the probable cause, recovery of narcotics, or subsequent prosecution of this case. Detective Silva asked for and received permission from the NHP case agent to deploy his dog Beebe either as a training exercise or as an attempt to pad statistics.

- Silva/Beebe are certified by LVMPD K9, California

P.O.S.T., and California Narcotic Canine Assoc. (CNCA). Both CA POST and CNCA certification processes are used by commercial kennels and cops that train and sell dogs on the side to mine for prospective customers.

- The Calif. POST K9 certification process has been corrupted by commercial vendors/special interest and the standards/evaluation process is a joke - i.e. commercial kennels pay CA POST Evaluators (usually cops employed off duty by that kennel) to test and pass certification on dogs and training the kennel sold to police departments. Friends can certify friends, etc. There is no oversight, supervision, or management of the evaluators or process. It is founded on the assumption of honesty and integrity. That has been wholly corrupted. Anyone including civilians with no police experience can achieve evaluator status by simply attending an 8 hour classroom presentation.

CNCA is a sham police K9 association that offers both CA POST and CNCA certification. CNCA board members are all involved in the selling and training of drug and explosive detection dogs. CNCA's true purpose is to promote the commercial enterprise Makor Kennels. Makor is owned by former Assistant U.S. Attorney Mark Rispoli and he holds a shadow position on the board as Legal Advisor. Metro buys all of their dogs sight unseen and untested from Makor Kennels (Mark Rispoli). Also on the board is Sgt. Jay Carlson, recently retired head K9 Trainer for LVMPD. The California CNCA representative is Officer Mel English, current head K9 Trainer for LVMPD. All 3 of these gentlemen are partners in a police K9 business called Battle Born K9. Their partnership has existed for some time even while Carlson was English's immediate supervisor and LVMPD K9 bought their dogs from Rispoli. Big conflict of interest! Everybody on the board of CNCA is connected in some business manner to everybody else on the board.

Contents of the car are placed on the ground behind the car.

Unknown to everyone but the owner of the car, there is 4 pounds of methamphetamine concealed in the liner of the blue ice chest located on the right.

As Beebe walks into view, she shows no focus or intensity. Silva walks her over the bags. At one point she walks over to the left side of the ice chest and shows no indication of odor. Silva pulls her back to the other bags.

Silva then leads Beebe to the car and conducts a search there. The dog is not interested and is not hunting - she is just going through the motions as evidenced by her sniffing the ground and general lack of motivation. She does however perk up when Silva specifically points or talks to her.

When Silva points, Beebe puts her nose on that spot but then immediately walks away. She is merely performing a trick. At some point the team exits the car and you can see Beebe take a stroll outside from front to rear of the driver's side, showing no interest in searching. Silva gets her to go through the motions of searching again at the rear outside of the car, but it is a halfhearted effort by Beebe.

Silva and Beebe then stroll away from the car towards the camera. Beebe is more interested in sniffing the ground than searching for drugs. She walks right next to and passes the 4 lbs. of meth in the ice chest again.

Silva then explains to the Trooper that his dog showed "interest" in the rear inside of the car. This is what Metro does. Because of the training and poor/corrupt selection of the dogs, they do not find drugs. And everyone knows it. Look at the disgust and mistrust on the face of the trooper. Accordingly, Metro will either cue their dogs to alert, or they will state that the dog showed interest as a hedge. It gets them into the car if there is a refusal to consent to search. If drugs are eventually found the dog gets credit for a seizure. If no drugs are found, then they blame it on residual odor, it never gets reported, and there is no record. If the dog is accurate and good enough to detect microscopic drug odor inside the car, then why did it walk past 4 lbs. of meth. Silva picking his nose at the end is also very special.

The Trooper, a very honest, experienced, and respected veteran of highway interdiction disregards Silva's "interest" advice and pry's open the liner of the ice chest without even looking in the car. Silva had put away his dog and is nervously looking over the Trooper's shoulder. The Trooper finds 4 lbs. of methamphetamine concealed in plastic between the liner and outside walls of the ice chest. He slices open the package to ensure it is illegal drugs within. That in and of itself released any meth odor that may have been contained by the plastic. 4 lbs. of pure unrestrained meth odor is huge odor.

As the Trooper is going through the documentation procedure, Silva retrieves his dog and wants to run it on the drugs again. Now Silva knows where the drugs are. Silva emerges into view with Beebe on leash in his left hand and the dog's "reward" (Kong on a rope) in his right hand.

Beebe wanders (not hunting) through the bags, walks through the meth odor again, and then jumps back into the rear of the car. It is because the dog is patterned trained through classic and operant conditioning, and rewarded for certain behaviors (tricks) rather than triggering specific compulsive instincts (drives) to hunt for specific odors (in this case illegal drugs).

Silva makes an attempt at some half-witted explanation and leads Beebe back to the ice chest. She ignores odor again. What follows is classic cueing. Although more blatant than normal Metro cueing, it is the foundation of their training.
At one point Silva tries to coax Beebe into alerting by telling her "that's it" when she puts her nose on the top of the chest. But Beebe walks away. Silva eventually gets Beebe to notice he has a Kong in his hand and she at least shows a little more energy, but still fails to hunt. He tries to "bracket" her by standing in a certain manner in front of the chest (classic Metro cueing), but even that doesn't work. Beebe walks away from the chest and back to Silva. Silva coaxes her with the Kong and Beebe bumps the Kong with her nose. Silva guides her back to the chest with a short leash and "closely brackets" her. When Beebe eventually puts her nose on the top of the chest Silva rewards her with the Kong. He then tells the dog "good find".

Silva and Beebe are the norm in Metro K9, not the exception.

This is what Metro does, and has been doing for years. It is a little more overt than normal, but Silva probably did not realize he was on dash cam.

Metro handlers engage in this type of dishonesty because that is how they were trained. They know nothing else. Their dogs don't find drugs in real deployments and they therefore resort to trickery (cueing) and sleight of hand. To them it is normal and they all do it. Of course there is a huge dishonesty issue with the handlers, but the true fault lies in the selection and training of the dogs. If the dogs performed at even a minimal level, then the handlers wouldn't have to resort to cueing.

The Retraining of Amanda:

A 3 Short

V Comb 3 Short

The purpose of these videos is to demonstrate the corrupt practices, policies, and training of LVMPD K9. They are to show what a good, reliable detector dog looks like and how improper techniques can interfere with reliability. Metro took a very nice, high intensity, very reliable drug detection dog and turned her into a handler sensitive circus act that relies on the handler for cues and confirmation. This is what Metro does and these videos show the distinct contrast between good and bad. It is the willful ignorance and indifference to 4th Amendment protections by Metro's K9 trainers that are at the foundation of their training. That training is fundamentally responsible for the foreseeable illegal acts by others.

Amanda is a young female Malinois originally trained and certified according to Nevada POST and Utah POST standards.

Amanda received 400 hours of in house training by NHP K9 Instructors. The NHP training system invokes compulsive instinctual responses (drives) and provides the dog with progressive experiences wherein the dog self discovers how to achieve satisfaction for that compulsion (drive). Just 1 month after graduation and certification, Amanda was reassigned to a new handler and "re-trained" by Metro's so called Master Trainer, Officer Mel English, in a very mixed up training regimen of dominance/submission, pain compliance, operant conditioning, behavior shaping, play/praise, and handler reward.

The NHP system was designed to ensure reliability and 4th Amendment protections. It is simply based on Prey Drive. The dogs are carefully selected for pronounced Prey Drive - an instinctual compulsion to hunt, locate, flush, catch, and kill small prey. It is founded on the rabbit in his hole. The dog detects the scent of the rabbit (specific drug odor), follows that scent to the opening of the rabbit's nest (source of odor), and employs instinctual flushing techniques (digging) at that source of odor in an attempt to break open the nest, or to cause the rabbit to jump out of the hole (flushing). It is all instinctual. The dog discovers success and satisfaction when he catches and kills the rabbit. It is purely genetic, compulsive, and hard wired. There is no reliance on the handler other than to put the dog in the area of odor. The dog does it because he is genetically compelled to do it. He can't help himself. There is no confirmation or reward from the handler. The handler knows there is drug odor present (and its location) by the compulsive, overt, and instinctual actions of the dog (flushing/digging at the source of odor).

The handler also knows when there are no drugs by the absence of those actions. It is a no brainer. There is no guessing, interpretation of behavior, praise, cueing, dominance, infliction of pain, obedience requirements, or handler associated reward. The dog does it all on his own for his genetic satisfaction. Accordingly, the dog has no reason to alert (flush) where there is no scent - there is no rabbit there. But if there is target odor, the dog will follow it to the ends of the earth and it is difficult if not impossible for the handler to call or physically remove the dog from the source of odor. It is a true obsessive compulsion. That is reliability.

The first set of videos is of Amanda during her training with NHP Instructors. The first 3 clips are of Amanda at the end of her first week of training. She is detecting 1 oz. of marijuana odor, following scent to its source, and then demonstrates the self-discovery/prey drive satisfaction that is the base for all training. Note the lack of praise, interference, or influence from the handler.

The next 2 clips are of Amanda approximately half way through training. She has progressed to detecting heroin, methamphetamine, and cocaine. One clip shows Amanda detecting trace odor of cocaine concealed in the headlight of a car. The second clip shows Amanda detecting trace methamphetamine odor downwind at the rear wheel area of a car and following the odor to its source at the bottom of the door.

The last clip is of an NHP detector dog that flushes with a passive alert - the dog downs when he locates the source of drug odor and stares at the source to flush the rabbit out of its' hole. The dog detects odor on the downwind side of the car and you can clearly see him follow the scent to source. This is what a so called passive alert dog should look like.

- Note - LVMPD K9's Master Trainer Mel English determined through a very short evaluation that this dog has no "Hunt Drive" and could not be re-trained by them. Unbelievable. This is the same dog in the warehouse test referred to in the Moonin Resignation Letter. Even an untrained eye can see this dog oozes Hunt Drive. Note how he literally pulls his handler to the search area and then carefully details during the search. No clickers, no praise, no cueing, no Kong toys. Just a dog hunting his prey. Also note how he pulls hard on the leash when he detects odor and the handler is out of the dog's sight when he flushes.

NHP Trooper Hugh Shook and K9 Amanda:

NHP Trooper Hugh Shook and K9 Amanda

This video is of Amanda and her new handler after she was re-trained and certified by LVMPD K9. There is a stark difference. It is important to keep in mind that Amanda had received extensive training in the detection of marijuana prior to Metro's re-training - in the training videos, Amanda detects odor 3-5 feet away from 1 oz. of marijuana. In the Amanda car training videos, Amanda's drive and focus causes her to detect trace (microscopic) methamphetamine odor from a one half car length away. She follows the scent to its source and when she has absolute source (the location of the prey) she digs at that very spot to flush the prey out.

2011 07 06 Shook Amanda Cueing

11 lbs. of marijuana has already been found in the right rear of the trunk of the car by another officer before Shook and Amanda arrived on scene.

You don't need a dog to smell that huge amount of odor. The trunk is cracked open to allow more odor to escape and is therefore easier for the dog to detect odor. Shook knows the location of the marijuana. Any dog should first detect that amount of odor from at least 10 feet away from source.

Shook conducts a pre-search ritual by commanding Amanda into a sit and staring into her eyes. They will tell you this is to pump the dog up and ready the dog to search, but as you can see from Amanda's training videos that is not necessary. It is actually very counterproductive. In reality, this routine is to accomplish two things; to dominate the dog and intentionally invoke submission, and to let the dog see that the handler has the toy at the ready (note the rope hanging from Shook's left cargo pocket - it is always attached to the Kong toy). The dominance establishes and maintains focus and reliance on the handler, and the toy reward is used to reinforce desired behavior.

Shook then commands the dog to search the rear of the car. Amanda passes through the huge odor and attempts to round the left rear corner of the car. That amount of odor should have hit her like a sledge hammer right between the eyes. But she has been reconditioned to rely on the handler for cues and confirmation. Shook pulls her back and "brackets" Amanda on the right rear. But Amanda doesn't detect the marijuana odor - she sniffs the keys in the trunk lock and alerts with a stand and stare (or indicates, or gives a response, or whatever Metro wants to call it).

The problem is she is not alerting to drug odor, she is alerting to fresh human scent. Metro pays no attention to scent contamination in their training and they frequently handle their training aids with their bare hands. This over time permeates their drug training aids with human scent. So fresh human scent becomes a large part of the target scent picture and can eventually become the target odor itself. This is clearly what has happened to Amanda. With the huge amount of marijuana odor present, she alerts to a set of keys? It is pitiful. However, right at the critical moment that requires conformation and reward in the Metro training system, a Metro officer walks up to Shook and whispers something in his ear (probably that he is being filmed). Amanda just stops, stares at the crack, and looks back at Shook. Shook appears to momentarily lose his concentration and fails to cue or reward the dog.

Shook then breaks his "bracketing" posture and takes a slight step to the right. Amanda practically jumps away from the trunk and resumes her "hunting behavior" on the passenger side of the car. Shook redirects Amanda back to the right corner of the car. Amanda goes back to the trunk area and walks through odor again. This time Shook slyly restricts her with the leash to prevent her from going to the driver's side of the car again. As Amanda reaches the left rear of the car, Shook employs a very well-practiced cueing technique. He grabs the Kong rope with his left hand and pulls it into clear view of Amanda. Shook then reaches over his body to his left cargo pocket with his right hand, pulls out the Kong, cradles it in his hand, and assumes an enticing posture. Amanda see all this, puts her paws on top of the trunk, and "alerts" with a "stand and stare". Shook then rewards her behavior.

This is pitiful.

Another K-9 Dog:

Dot is a female Springer Spaniel that has significant nerve problems and is extremely submissive. Her background is murky.

Metro trainers state that Dot was some kind of special dog born in Ireland. She was so special that she was imported to England for a large sum of money. They are vague as to the actual person Dot was purchased from. Dot was purchased by Metro sight unseen and imported to Las Vegas from England for $11K. That is an exorbitant amount to pay for a small, nervous, untrained, untested, and unseen adolescent female Springer Spaniel with no special pedigree.

Dot is still a nervous wreck. They have to physically force her to go into tight and dark places. Dot received just 3 weeks of the same training as the dogs in the supplied videos, and is just as weak in her work.

There may be another disturbing background to Dot that could expose corruption or at least dishonesty by Metro K9 trainers. Sgt. Jay Carlson was the head trainer of Metro at the time Dot was purchased, and Mel English was #2. They both were closely tied and probably in business with Mark Rispoli (Makor Kennels) at that time. All 3 were board members of California Narcotic Canine Assoc. and Carlson purchased all of Metro's dogs from Rispoli.

Around the same time Dot was purchased, CNCA, Mark Rispoli, Jay Carlson, and Mel English began touting a new member of the CNCA Board that was retired from the Norwegian Border Patrol, Rolf Von Krogh. Neither Norway nor the Norwegian Border Patrol are known for good dogs or training. In fact it is the opposite.

It just so happens Krogh is a breeder of Springer Spaniels and markets his dogs through England. Mark Rispoli is the one that brought Mr. Krogh to the U.S. and placed him on the board of CNCA. Rispoli tried to campaign Krogh through seminars as some king of European dog guru, but that fell flat on its face. It appears Mr. Krogh was not quite as advertised.

This transaction with Dot doesn't pass the smell test. It is likely that Dot was actually bred and sold by Krogh, shipped to a middleman in England, and then shipped to LVMPD. Dot may have been used as a means to establish a business relationship between Rispoli and Krogh in order to open up a mysterious foreign supplier. Carlson and English may have assisted their business partner Rispoli in what would be a major conflict of interest. The huge price for this piece of junk called Dot was probably due to so many taking a piece of the pie.

This shady transaction should certainly be looked into.

NY Official Disputes NJ Gov.'s Congestion Pricing Deal

The head of New York's Metropolitan Transportation Authority disputed comments from New Jersey's governor that a "conceptual understanding" had been reached with New York's governor over exceptions to congestion pricing for Garden State commuters.

President Donald J. Trump Signs an Executive Order Establishing the President's Commission on Combating Drug Addiction and the Opioid Crisis

On March 29, President Donald J. Trump signed an Executive Order establishing the President's Commission on Combating Drug Addiction and the Opioid Crisis. The Commission will be chaired by Governor Chris Christie and will study ways to combat and treat the scourge of drug abuse, addiction, and the opioid crisis, which was responsible for more than 50,000 deaths in 2015 and has caused families and communities across America to endure significant pain and suffering. The Commission will work closely with the White House Office of American Innovation led by Jared Kushner.

President Trump said, "I made a promise to the American people to take action to keep drugs from pouring into our country and to help those who have been so badly affected by them. Governor Christie will be instrumental in researching how best to combat this serious epidemic and how to treat those it has affected. He will work with people on both sides of the aisle to find the best ways for the Federal Government to treat and protect the American people from this serious problem. This is an epidemic that knows no boundaries and shows no mercy, and we will show great compassion and resolve as we work together on this important issue."

The signing follows the listening session President Trump held at the White House this morning. The listening session brought together leaders from inside and outside government, and with diverse political backgrounds, to discuss solutions on how best to combat this crisis.

From the Spanish/Latin Atlantico to the underground Francaise Atlantiques... Port au Prince - French Haiti? The smell of stale musky French parfum? Mama told me not to come.

- Want some whiskey in your water?

Sugar in your tea?
What's all these crazy questions they're askin' me?
This is the craziest party that could ever be Don't turn on the lights 'cause I don't want to see

Mama told me not to come
Mama told me not to come
"That ain't the way to have fun, no"

Open up the window, let some air into this room
I think I'm almost chokin' from the smell of stale perfume
And that cigarette you're smokin' 'bout scare me half to death
Open up the window, sucker, let me catch my breath

Mama told me not to come
Mama told me not to come
"That ain't the way to have fun, son"
"That ain't the way to have fun, son"

The radio is blastin', someone's knockin' at the door

I'm lookin' at my girlfriend - she's passed out on the floor
I seen so many things I ain't never seen before
Don't know what it is - I don't want to see no more

Mama told me not to come
Mama told me not to come

Or the brain stemming from a hotel called Hotel Cali fornia?

1. Hotel California

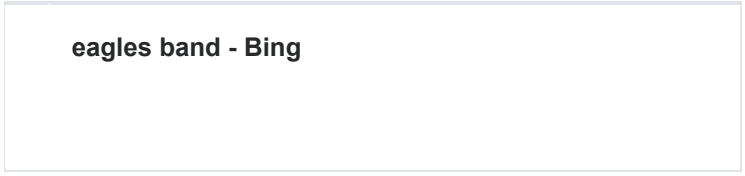
Eagles



On a dark desert highway, cool wind in my hair
Warm smell of colitas, rising up through the air
Up ahead in the distance, I saw a shimmering light

My head grew heavy and my sight grew dim

I had to stop for the night
There she stood in the doorway;
I heard the mission bell
And I was thinking to myself,

'This could be Heaven or this could be Hell'
Then she lit up a candle and she showed me the way
There were voices down the corridor,
I thought I heard them say...

Welcome to the Hotel California
Such a lovely place
Such a lovely face
Plenty of room at the Hotel California
Any time of year, you can find it here

Her mind is Tiffany-twisted, she got the Mercedes bends
She got a lot of pretty, pretty boys, that she calls friends
How they dance in the courtyard, sweet summer sweat.
Some dance to remember, some dance to forget

So I called up the Captain,
'Please bring me my wine'
He said, 'We haven't had that spirit here since nineteen sixty nine'
And still those voices are calling from far away,
Wake you up in the middle of the night
Just to hear them say...

Welcome to the Hotel California
Such a lovely place
Such a lovely face
They livin' it up at the Hotel California
What a nice surprise, bring your alibis

Mirrors on the ceiling,
The pink champagne on ice
And she said 'We are all just prisoners here, of our own device'
And in the master's chambers,
They gathered for the feast
The stab it with their steely knives,
But they just can't kill the beast

Last thing I remember, I was Running for the door
I had to find the passage back
To the place I was before

'Relax,' said the night man,
We are programmed to receive.
You can checkout any time you like,
But you can never leave!

Songwriters: DON FELDER, DON HENLEY, GLENN FREY

The essence of a programmed multiple through the MKULTRA program in the song lyrics above? The "L" in these song lyrics?

"'Relax,' said the night man,
We are programmed to receive.
You can checkout any time you like,
But you can never leave!"

The comparison of the scratched stem cell at the back of the brain in the programming of a nazi - Illuminati MKULTRA patient to that of a scratched record playing on an old record player when the needle of the arm of the record player is placed on the record and keeps repeating the same scratched area of the song or instrumental of the record or it skips the scratched portion, skipping around and keeps playing?

"We are programmed to receive. You can checkout any time you like but you can never leave?"

These MKULTRA programmed multiples cannot be healed or fixed just as you cannot fix or repair a broken or scratched record. Another example is in the nursery rhyme, Humpty Dumpty".

Humpty Dumpty

Composition
Humpty Dumpty is a character in an English nursery rhyme, probably originally a riddle and one of the best known in the English-speaking world. He is typically portrayed as an anthropomorphic egg, though he is not explicitly described as such. The first recorded versions of the rhyme date from late eighteenth-century England and the tune from 1870 in James William Elliott's National Nursery Rhymes and Nursery Songs. Its origins are obscure, and several theories have been advanced to suggest original meanings.

- Saint-Domingue was a French colony on the Caribbean island of Hispaniola from 1659 to 1804, in what is now Haiti. The French had established themselves on the western portion of the islands of Hispaniola and Tortuga by 1659. In the Treaty of Ryswick of 1697, Spain formally recognized French control of Tortuga Island and the western third of the island of Hispaniola. In 1791, the slaves and some free people of color of Saint-Domingue began waging a rebellion against French authority. The rebels b

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Registered Nurse Shortage is back

After years of relative equilibrium, the job market for nurses is heating up in many markets, driving up wages and sign-on bonuses for the nation's fifth-largest occupation. The last nursing shortage more than a decade ago ended when a surge of nursing graduates filled many positions, and the financial crisis of 2008 led older nurses to delay retirement. But as the economy improves, nurses who held on to jobs through the uneven recovery are now retiring or cutting back hours, say recruiters. Read more….

UNLV's School of Dental Medicine Offers Clinical Experience

At UNLV, students begin working in the clinic environment during their second year, and by their third year are performing most of the technical procedures. Devore said most dental schools have students entering the clinic stage of their education in the later part of their third year or into their fourth year. In addition, UNLV does not break its program down into specialties, so the students gain experience on a wider variety of procedures.

New Reg CC Brings New Liability Considerations For Banks

Amendments to Regulation CC that will become effective next year add several new indemnities for electronically created checks and items deposited through remote deposit capture. This creates a new form of risk for financial institutions that must be cabined, say attorneys with Dykema Gossett PLLC. Read more »

What To Know About New FDA Informed Consent Guidance

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration recently issued a guidance document announcing its intention not to object to an institutional review board's waiving or altering of the informed consent requirements for an FDA-regulated clinical investigation. The guidance will align the FDA's policy on waiving informed consent with the so-called Common Rule, say attorneys with Ropes & Gray LLP. Read more »

Electronic Mortgage Closings Improve Homebuying: Part 2

The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's pilot study on electronic mortgage closing technologies shows promise for breaking down the complicated closing process. However, further dialogue and analysis of the benefits, opportunities and risks of e-closings are critical to ensuring that all voices are heard and major risks are identified, says Eamonn Moran of Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP in the final part of this article. Dear Mayor,
I have lived here in the same area Tropicana & Pecos. There has been a growing problem of heroine dealing, purchasing & using everyday 24/7. Along woth the drugs is the HUGE INCREASE OF HOMELESS. From Tropicana to Eastern Harmon to Flamingo. I have written & called the police department who has referred me to the Narcotics Unit. I have also written Crime Stoppers numerous times.

Mayor this drug crisis & huge increase in the homeless has happened while you've been mayor! If I see it as a stay at home mother of 3, why do you & the police not see & do something. It's getting worse. My home owner's association just increased out monthly fee to put up a huge iron gate which was desperatley needed, but WHY do you pay these people MY tax payers money to buy drugs, increase my cost of living, lowering my property value & put my family in danger. Why are you not ELIMINATING THE PROBLEM.

Drive by & thru those shopping centers on any given day & you will see
I pay your salary to protect me & my children, why are you not fixing this problem? Undercover police, drug testing for ANY & ALL gov't benifits & arrest these people. At 6 pm every everning is a "drug van"(bus & rv) that sell daily ij the Walmart parking lot West of Walmart by the garden center. You are letting these city be destroyed by drugs & homeless users who spend thousands monthly on drugs. I appreciate & await your reply,

Sincerley,
Heidi Winkler [redacted]
